SENATORS VOTE 20-0 TO INDORSE SECURITY PACT

Builds Red Power, Flynn Warns

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13—The senate foreign relations committee concluded five days of public hearings on the new international security charter late today by recommending 20 to 0 that the charter be ratified by the senate.

John T. Flynn

Senators Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.], Shipstead [R., Minn.], and Murray [D., Mont.] were not present when the vote was taken. They may still cast ballots, but their votes would not change the majority recommendation for ratification, whether adverse or not.

Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] said the committee action will be reported to the senate Monday, and that debate will begin July 23.

A Spectacular Show

The hearings have been a spectacular show for advocates of the charter, presented as a document to end war. Charter sponsors were received with acclaim, their family connections were announced, and Connally invariably emphasized the size of their membership when the sponsoring organizations were large.

Favorable telegrams were read aloud or called to the attention of the press. Receipt of unfavorable ones was announced occasionally, without mentioning the names of the senders.

Opponents of the charter were given a hearing, but no compliments. Spectators were permitted to laugh at the less assured opponents, altho ground rules were strictly enforced against heckling sponsors.

The hearing was hushed for a time today by a grim plea from John T. Flynn, widely known writer on economics and politics. It was this:

Road to Bankruptcy

Flynn warned the committee that the charter is only a part of an American foreign policy embracing the world bank, world monetary fund and other financial arrangements for which the United States will pay the bill—until it goes bankrupt.

That policy, he said, will not prevent war. But he charged that it will enable aggressor nations to keep what they have taken and, in the case of Russia, help her build a communist economy that threatens American economy.

"I'm not a red baiter," Flynn said. "I don't want to go to war with Russia to transfer Poland from under the heel of Russian dictatorship after coöperating in putting her there.

"But I don't want this nation to

Truman Bars Secret Deals at Potsdam

ABOARD CRUISER AUGUSTA WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, July 13 (AP)—President Truman was described today as firmly resolved against any secret commitments in the "Big Three" meeting starting Monday or Tuesday at Potsdam.

As the Presidential cruiser steamed close to Europe, associates of the chief executive said he plans to report to congress as soon as he gets back home from his talks with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

The President was understood to be prepared to offer any reasonable American coöperation toward the rehabilitation of Europe, expecting in return assurances that the European countries will work together for an adjustment of issues that might carry the germs of war. He was represented as feeling that a primary basis of American policy is readiness to help, when help would be welcome, in getting its friends together when they disagree.

Victory First Objective

The President holds laying of a groundwork for permanent peace in Europe as an objective second only to speedy victory over Japan at the lowest possible cost in lives.

The closer approach to the historic conversations put additional pressure on the conferences with advisers which have kept Mr. Truman busy in the admiral's cabin aboard the Augusta much of the time since the ship sailed from Newport News last Saturday.

Meetings today with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, the President's personal chief of staff, were almost continuous.

Ships in Battle Practice

The businesslike atmosphere was reflected also in activities of the crews of the two cruiser task force. Realistic battle practice occupied the complements of both the Augusta and the Philadelphia, which sailed within sight of the President's ship. Both vessels launched their scouting planes from deck catapults in a demonstration for Mr. Truman.

The President entered British territorial waters early tonight when his cruiser passed the Scilly Islands.

The Augusta and the cruiser Philadelphia, serving as an escort for the President's vessel, will be met by an escort of seven British warships tomorrow morning.

Mr. Truman will disembark at Antwerp for the flight to Potsdam, on Berlin's outskirts.

COL. ROOSEVELT GETS CHECKUP IN NAVY HOSPITAL

San Diego, Cal., July 13 (AP)—Col. James Roosevelt of the marines, son of the late President, is a patient in the naval hospital for a "rest and routine physical checkup" after seven months in the Philippines, the 11th naval district disclosed today.

The naval district issued a statement describing him as "tanned but showing signs of the intensive work" overseas, interrupted briefly by a flight home to attend his father's funeral services, for which he arrived too late. The length of his stay in the hospital is indefinite and depends on the outcome of medical examinations, the navy reported. Roosevelt has been operating with an amphibious group at advanced bases.

"When our men start using the huge stocks of supplies and fighting tools we are building up, I don't see how Japan will be able to stand up very long," the navy statement quoted him as saying.

Convict Spends His Time Learning Counterfeiting

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 13 (AP)—There's one inmate of the state prison with ambition and a post-penitentiary plan. He told a Deseret News photographer who was at the prison on an assignment that he is studying photoengraving. "I intend to try counterfeiting when I get out of here," he confided.

Slave, 10, Pines for Chicago GI, His Rescuer

LONG MELFORD, England, July 13 (AP)—Pining for a Chicago infantry sergeant who freed him from being the slave servant of a German general and later "adopted" him, a 10 year old Ukrainian boy today refused to eat because he was afraid that his benefactor had sailed for the United States without him.

The skinny youngster, clad in an American uniform with sergeant's stripes and a Purple Heart ribbon, told a three judge Juvenile court that his guardian was Sgt. Edward Klonowski, 24, of 4621 Grace st., Chicago, a member of the 44th division.

The judges delayed decision in the case for two weeks and sent the boy, Robert Sokowski, to St. Mary's hospital for treatment while a magistrate inquired into the possibility of reuniting him with the sergeant who is believed homeward bound.

Captured at Kharkov

R. E. Saunders, a Melford police sergeant, said that Robert turned down "the best food we could offer him."

The boy told police he was captured after the German conquest of Kharkov four years ago, and that he lost his parents and three sisters during the bombardment of his home.

He said that a German general [unidentified] made him his personal servant and slave as the German unit bored deeper into Russia. He served the general thru the North African, Tunisian, and Italian campaigns until the German finally was killed by 44th division troops in Italy.

Stays Thru War

He said he stayed with Klonowski thru the remaining four months of the war in Italy. He was with him en route to America when the unit put in at a British port.

Robert told the authorities he accompanied the soldiers on a visit to London and then became separated from them. He was found at the Rainbow club of the American Red Cross by an American air force soldier who took him back to an air field near here. Police said the boy's body and legs were scarred with old bullet wounds.

PARENTS FAVORABLE

John and Mary Klonowski, parents of the sergeant, said they would have no objection to his bringing home the 10 year old Ukrainian boy he was reported to have adopted.

"If Eddie wants it that way, why shouldn't we?" they said.

Edward, their only child, is unmarried. He had written them about the boy whom he described as a genius who could speak seven languages. He did not mention adopting the boy but wrote in one letter that the men in his company had "taken such a liking for the boy that when he was sent to a refuge camp, our hearts went with him."

"Other GI's bring home brides," Mrs. Klonowski said, "but Eddie would be doing something different if he brought home a refugee boy."

She said the sergeant, a former tool and die maker, is expected home by next week after ten months overseas.

CUT IN BUTTER POINTS TO 16 PER POUND IS CONSIDERED BY OPA

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—Eugene Brockenbrough, chief of the OPA dairy products branch, said tonight that a trade recommendation to cut the butter ration value to 16 points a pound is being given "very careful consideration." He said the reduction from the current 24 points was proposed by the butter committee of the New York Mercantile exchange.

"We made no commitment but promised to discuss the matter with the department of agriculture and other trade groups," Brockenbrough said. He added that the New York committee suggested the cut be put into effect for a short time to avert any possibility of spoilage while butter production is at its peak.

OPA announced previously that as a result of a cut in military requirements a "slight reduction" in the butter ration value would be put into effect July 29.

Bataan Spirit Refuses to Let a Veteran Die

Fort Worth, Tex., July 13 [Special]—Corp. James E. Newman was brought home to die 11 days ago, but the spirit that carried him thru the death march on Bataan refused to surrender. Today he is given a good chance to win against the thousand to one odds that army medical authorities had chalked against him.

When flown from the Burns General hospital at Santa Fe, N. M., to his home here July 2, Corp. Newman, 25, was given two days to live. Six feet 2 inches tall, he weighed only 98 pounds. His ailments included tuberculosis, laryngitis, beriberi, and malnutrition, the heritage of the death march and three years in Jap prison camps.

Brought Home to Die

The corporal's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Newman, had asked the army to send their son home since he had been given up as doomed. He was brought from the air field in an ambulance and carried into the house.

At his meal today, Newman ate asparagus, spinach, sweetbreads, and pickled beets. Dr. Jack Daly, a Fort Worth physician who examined Newman, said the veteran is eating well and his face is filling out.

Dr. J. T. Miller, who presided at Newman's birth, said he is optimistic about the soldier's progress. And Newman himself corroborated him by saying, "I can't die now."

Sisters Nurse Him

Each day Newman gets vitamin pills, liver extract, and insulin. The insulin is given to stimulate his appetite. He likes fruit juices and is apt to call for a glass at any time of the day or night. Five of the six daughters in the Newman family, all married, returned to the Newman cottage to nurse him and take turns sitting up with him.

The women of Fort Worth have donated a refrigerator for Newman's use. In it he keeps his insulin and the daily contributions of perishable food that pour in from people who admire his fight for life.

During his 11 days at home, Newman has received 4,900 letters, some of which address him as "Fort Worth's Hero of Bataan," and "Fort Worth's Chin Up Boy." Brightening up his room are 28 potted flowers with encouraging messages.

Newman was to have boarded a ship taking him home from the Philippines Dec. 7, 1941, when his three year hitch in the army was up, but the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor interrupted his retirement. After Bataan he was herded into Jap prison camps, being liberated by American troops at Cabanatuan.

Ike Bids Men Good-by as SHAEF Closes

PARIS, July 14 [Saturday]—(AP)—Supreme headquarters of the allied expeditionary force, which led the way to victory, passed out of existence at one minute after midnight this morning with an unblemished record of allied coöperation.

Gen. Eisenhower, the supreme commander, closed up his command with an order of the day expressing the hope that the unity achieved in the war would help inspire "permanent and lasting peace."

The allied western powers, once more resuming individual control of their own forces, now face their major test of voluntary international coördination.

The end of "SHAEF"—the rainbow shield and flaming sword—was automatic at the pre-arranged hour, without ceremony, 17 months and one day after it came into existence in London.

Gen. Eisenhower, who returned to his Frankfurt on the Main, Germany, headquarters from the United States on Wednesday, said his goodbys to his staff of officers from the nations whose armies he led to victory.

Eisenhower's Farewell

Then, to all the mighty force he commanded—doughboys, tommies, and poilus—he issued this farewell yesterday:

"The task which we set ourselves is finished and the time has come for me to relinquish the combined command.

"In the name of the United States and the British commonwealth, from which my authority is derived, I should like to convey to you the gratitude and admiration of our two nations for the manner in which you have responded to every demand that has been made upon you.

"At times conditions have been hard and the task to be performed arduous. No praise is too high for the manner in which you have surmounted every obstacle.

"I should like also to add my own personal word of thanks to each one of you for the part you have played and the contribution you have made to our joint victory.

"Now that you are about to pass to other spheres of activity, I say good-by to you and wish you good luck and Godspeed."

Will Head USFET

From the supreme command Gen. Eisenhower stepped to his new job as commander of USFET—United States forces in the European theater—and as American representative on the European control council at Berlin.

British forces reverted to control of the British war office, air ministry, and admiralty, and French forces to the French war ministry.

This is what remained to take the place of the former over-all SHAEF command setup:

All United States forces in the European theater now come under USFET and Gen. Eisenhower's command, whether in Germany, France, or England. United States headquarters, at least for the time being, will be at Frankfurt.

Under USFET there will be two major groups, or functions. One of these is the communications zone, commanded by Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee. Its operation remains virtually unchanged by dissolution of SHAEF. Its old function of getting supplies up to the active zone has

U.S. BATTLESHIPS POUND STEEL CENTER ON HONSHU

RAIDERS BLAST 342 PLANES AND 4 ENEMY SHIPS

GUAM, July 14 [Saturday]—(AP)—Three hundred and forty-two Japanese planes were destroyed or damaged and four surface craft were sunk or damaged in Tuesday's 1,000 plane carrier strike on 14 air fields near Tokyo, Adm. Nimitz announced in a bulletin today. Even those reports were incomplete.

The new figure raised the previously announced toll from 154, including two shot out of the air. The report, made possible by resumed radio contact with the 3d fleet, listed 109 destroyed and 231 damaged on the ground and two snoopers shot down near the fleet.

Five U. S. Planes Lost

No enemy air interception was offered from Tokyo's network of more than 70 air fields.

The operation cost five American fighters and five torpedo planes. Personnel casualties were seven pilots and six air crewmen.

14 Air Fields Hit

Air field hangars were blasted at Kanemaru, Nasuno, and Tsukuba. Hangars and shops were hit at Hyakurigahara, Utsonomiya, Maebashi, Astugi, Yokosuka, Yachimata, Katori, Shirol, Tokorozawa, Kasumigaura, and Imba.

Several factory buildings were damaged at Koizumi. A freight train was hit at Uchihara and a powerhouse at Yatabe.

Steam Along Coast in Defiance of Tokyo Airmen

GUAM, July 14 (Saturday)—(AP)—Battleships, cruisers, and destroyers of the United States 3d fleet began shelling the north Honshu steel city of Kamaishi today in the first naval bombardment of the Japanese homeland. At the same time, more than 1,000 carrier planes of the same force attacked northern Honshu and Hokkaido.

Both actions still are in progress, Adm. Nimitz announced.

Kamaishi is 275 miles north of Tokyo. The warships steamed up and down within 20 miles of the coast with complete disregard of the reluctant Japanese air force, which refused to oppose the carrier planes either at Tokyo on Tuesday or over Hokkaido and Honshu today.

Cruiser Chicago Firing

The big carrier plane strikes began at dawn in the fog and mist which made observation of results difficult. The naval bombardment began at noon Saturday (Japanese time), (10 p. m., Friday, Chicago time).

Nimitz named participating ships as including the big new battleships Massachusetts, Indiana, and South Dakota, the heavy cruisers Chicago and Quincy, and the destroyers Southerland, Heerman, Erben, and Black. The Massachusetts and Indiana were among the ships disclosed to have been damaged in a typhoon June 5, but have since been repaired.

The bombardment force is commanded by Rear Adm. J. F. Shafroth under over-all command of Adm. Halsey.

First Hokkaido Raid

Twenty miles is regarded as the extreme effective range of the 16 inch guns of the battleships, so the fact that cruisers and destroyers were named indicated that presumably the bombardment force was much closer in—within the range of the destroyers' five inch guns—possibly five miles.

Meanwhile the air strike also was continuing. It was the first such blow against Hokkaido, northernmost of the main Japanese islands. It originally was scheduled for Friday the 13th, but was delayed by fog.

The announcement came less than an hour and a half after Nimitz had announced new damage in the raid on the Tokyo area by carrier planes Tuesday.

Carriers Attack Hokkaido

Three and one-half hours before that he had announced that the same carrier force was at this moment attacking Hokkaido and northern Honshu in the fleet's farthest north penetration of enemy waters. This force also is under Halsey, with Vice Adm. McCain commanding the carriers.

The bombardment evidently was a co-ordinated part of the

150 TEACHERS FOR GI SCHOOLS REACH ENGLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 13—More than 150 American university professors and instructors have arrived in England to staff the United States army university centers being set up at Shrivenham, England, and Biarritz, France.

Teachers who represent America's topflight universities will conduct classes in science, agriculture, and commerce for the 4,000 GI's expected to attend the two month long university sessions while awaiting redeployment or return home. The school at Shrivenham in Berkshire will open July 20.

It also was announced that a vocational school to facilitate return of soldiers to civilian life was being set up by the army at Warton, near Liverpool. Four thousand GI's will spend two months there studying in classrooms outfitted by such American firms as Lockheed and General Motors. Courses will include auto mechanics, blueprint production, carpentry, heavy equipment operation and construction, electrical and machine shop mechanics, engineering drawing, mechanical refrigeration, painting, decorating, cabinet making, welding, surveying, plumbing, heating, and aircraft and engine repair.

Catholic Paper Proud of Red Insults

Boston, Mass., July 13 (AP)—The Pilot, publication of the Catholic archdiocese of Boston, said in an editorial today it was willing "to proceed with Pravda on a strictly 50-50 basis."

Pravda is a daily Moscow newspaper.

"We shall promise to say nothing unkind about Russia if the soviet kept press will desist from insulting American institutions and American personalities," said the Pilot.

Welcomes Its Attack

It added that Pravda recently had designated two Catholic publications, Commonweal and the Catholic World, as "outstanding examples of the 'war mongering Catholic press.'

"There isn't a Catholic editor in the country who wouldn't prize this abuse in view of the source from which it comes—as worth more than five years of Pulitzer awards," the Pilot continued.

It said that the two magazines "in company with the rest of the Catholic press have told the truth as they see it."

Would Halt Daily Worker

Then, suggesting the "50-50" proposition with Pravda, the Pilot said it might be carried a little further:

"Stalin must suppress the Daily Worker. Either that or allow us to set up an American newspaper in Moscow which will reveal to the proletarians of that state that they are poorer paid, worse clothed, and more atrociously underfed than the Jester Letters in 'Tobacco Road.'" current air strike, as the ships are part of the 3d fleet, several of them having been named by Nimitz as participating in the Tokyo strike Tuesday.

Again today Nimitz boldly named at least some of the ships which, he said, are "now standing off the coast of the empire" and shelling Japan's main island.

Big Steel Producing City

One target of the planes was the strait between Hokkaido and Honshu in the Hakodate area of Hokkaido. Hakodate, a rail ferry port, is 180 miles north of Kamaishi, target of the fleet bombardment.

Kamaishi, the site of the imperial iron and steel works rolling mill, is one of the Honshu's main steel producing centers. One of the island's two rich iron ore districts lies 15 miles inland. The Kaimishi mills are supplied with coal from Hokkaido.

In offshore bombardments such as at Kaimishi, American ships customarily close to within one to nine miles from the coast, depending on the amount of opposition. The great battleships all are armed with nine 16 inch guns, hurling projectiles weighing better than a ton apiece. Each also has secondary 5 inch batteries with shells weighing more than 50 pounds.

The heavy cruisers Chicago and Quincy mount nine 8 inch guns each in triple turrets and also have secondary 5 inch batteries.

1,000 Planes in Raid

[Japan believes invasion will be delayed until United States gets more air fields in war area, Col. Lanza says. Details on page 3.]

Halsey moved boldly north after his fleet, standing off Tokyo bay, had failed to find the hiding enemy air force in strength during an attack last Tuesday.

Joe Hainline, NBC correspondent aboard a warship off Hokkaido, broadcast that no Japanese warships or planes had yet been encountered. He said the fleet moved in for opening of the operation early Friday, but dense fog, "which veterans of the European war compared to the worst days on the North Atlantic," forced postponement of the assault.

Hainline's broadcast said targets included railroad ferries linking Honshu and Hokkaido across Tsugura straits.

Jack Mahon, Mutual Broadcasting company war correspondent, said one pilot destroyed a warehouse on Hokkaido. Returning pilots said they ran into intense anti-aircraft fire.

The new onslaught followed by 24 hours a blast at five enemy centers on Japan by more than 500 Super Forts.

Achieve Complete Surprise

Complete tactical surprise again was achieved by the first waves of Hellcats and Corsairs in today's operation, aimed at pursuing the enemy air force. Nimitz's terse report that "the operations are being conducted in approximately the same strength" as on Tuesday suggested at least four big aircraft carriers and four battleships were involved.

Nimitz also reported that Okinawa based marine Corsairs damaged a radio station at Sata Misaki on Kyushu Wednesday, and also struck enemy bases in the Ryukyus north and south of Okinawa. In the Sakishima group, southern Ryukyus, they damaged seven small surface craft. Navy Privateers sank a small cargo vessel south of Korea.

Gen. MacArthur's 7th air force bombers, newly assigned to the far east air forces, hit the Japanese naval airdrome at Kanoya on southern Kyushu yesterday, it was announced at Manila. This action was reported yesterday from Okinawa but dispatches did not identify the air force.

New Blow at Kyushu

Fighters of the 5th air force, now on Okinawa, made new sweeps over Kyushu, strafing Karasehara airdrome and numerous shore installations.

Other MacArthur air units continued the assault on Formosa.

Returning airmen aboard the B-29s, which bombed four cities on Friday, reported bad weather over Japan which obscured observation of some of the results. Enemy fighter interception provided little if any opposition.

[Tokyo radio said the raids lasted three hours and admitted fires were started, but claimed they were controled by dawn. It listed seven Honshu cities as bombed, rather than four, adding Otaki, Kagamigahara, and Tsurumi. Tokyo also reported that B-29s mined the waters of Wakasa bay on the west side of Honshu.]

Japs See 24 Hour Attacks

San Francisco, Cal., July 13 (AP)—Domei news agency admitted gloomily today that the United States has made good its threat of round-the-clock air attacks and that they are "a prelude to invasion of our homeland."

Domei noted concentrated B-29 smashes on Japan's small and medium cities.

20 SHIPS TORN IN TYPHOON BACK TO FIGHT JAPAN

Cruiser Pittsburgh's Bow Torn Off

GUAM, July 13 (AP)—Wind and waves of a typhoon off Japan crippled the 3d fleet June 5, but Adm. Nimitz reported today that 20 out of 21 ships damaged by it had returned to duty.

Capt. J. E. Gingrich

The typhoon damage was heavier than any the Japanese have managed to inflict in any single action against Pacific fleet forces. It caught the 3d fleet southeast of the Ryukyus two days after it had skirted southern Japan for a carrier plane raid on Kyushu.

Nimitz' announcement said the 138 mile an hour wind and lashing seas tore the bow off the cruiser Pittsburgh and damaged the battleships Massachusetts, Indiana, and Alabama and the carriers Hornet, Bennington, San Jacinto, and Belleau Wood.

The Massachusetts, Indiana, and San Jacinto were with Halsey's force off Tokyo last Tuesday.

Not a Man Lost

No ship was lost, Nimitz said, and there was no report on loss of life or injury to personnel.

It was the second time Halsey's ships had battled typhoons in recent months. The previous storm capsized three destroyers, the Monaghan, Hull, and Spence, in the Philippines area last December, with heavy loss of life.

Nimitz reported that 20 of the ships damaged in the June storm were back in service and that the Pittsburgh was being refitted. Other repaired ships included the escort carrier Bougainville and the destroyers John Rodgers and Blue; and three other carriers and seven destroyers to which damage was minor.

Planes Flipped About

Correspondent Grant MacDonald, who rode out the hurricane on Vice Adm. McCain's flagship, reported that "planes were flipped around like bean-bags" on one escort carrier. The forward end of the carrier's flight deck was ripped up and dangled over the bow.

The terrible beating the Pittsburgh underwent was described in a dispatch from Correspondent Robbin Coons. Seas reaching a height of 100 feet ripped off 104 feet of the cruiser's bow and tossed it aside as if it were a match box.

Capt. John E. Gingrich of Dodge City, Kas., commanding officer, instantly ordered the engines into reverse to pull the ship away from the tossing bow.

Gingrich said the ship, after completing the reversing move, came into the dead calm center of the typhoon. Then the storm caught her once more with its full fury.

Two officers and 18 enlisted men went below to inspect the damage. They found one bulkhead between them and the sea, and that was cracking and buckling under the sledgehammer blows.

For five hours the men fought to hold their balance in four feet of water in the compartments. They sweated, strained, and pushed 4x4 shoring timbers into place.

No Panic on Ship

There was no panic anywhere on the ship. Some men even slept thru the danger unaware.

The Pittsburgh now lies at anchor at Guam before proceeding to a repair base where she'll get a permanent new bow and return to action.

A message received from an American tugboat which recovered the bow said:

"We have sighted the Suburb of Pittsburgh and have taken it in tow."

"We have the longest ship in the world," said Pittsburgh crewmen. "The stern is here—and the bow way over there. It's the only ship ever to come to port in two sections."

BELLY-TANK PHOTOG SNAPS 100 PICTURES IN TEN DIVES AT JAPS

He took 100 pictures thru the tank's plexi-glass nose as Maj. E. H. Taylor made 10 dives with Corsairs hitting Japanese targets on Okinawa with jellied gas fire bombs. On most of the dives they pulled out less than 100 feet above their target.

Maj. Taylor said that on one dive he feared Duncan's underslung tank was coming off. And so did Duncan. "I just kept wondering if it was going to hold," he said, "and what would happen if it didn't."

DENY GERMAN PRISONERS WILL REBUILD MANILA

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, July 13—A report that German prisoners in British hands will be sent to the Philippines to rebuild Manila under guard of Negro troops was denied today by the war office. At the same time American army authorities said they had no knowledge of any plan to send to the far east any of the 27,000 Germans held by the Americans in the United Kingdom. Inquiries as to the disposition of Germans held by the Americans on the continent were referred to Paris.

How He Got Civilians Out of Philippines

Washington, D. C., July 13 [Special]—Details of Gen. MacArthur's clash with the state department over the treatment of rescued American civilian refugees in the Philippines finally became public here today. For the first time it became generally known that MacArthur flatly refused the department's instructions to collect passage money for their trip home.

The language of MacArthur's burning messages made a deep impression in military circles. He took the position that many of the American civilians were not able to pay their way home because they had lost everything during the Japanese occupation.

He refused to follow the suggestion that he secure their promissory notes for the amount before shipping them home.

A Ruling by Underlings

The original ruling, it is understood, was made by subordinates in the state department and instructions were forwarded to MacArthur that the passage money must be either collected or promised before the American citizens were placed on shipboard. MacArthur declared he would have no part in any such proceedings.

When the department repeated the instructions, MacArthur repeated his position, implying that sooner than hound those poor unfortunates for money he would advance the entire amount out of his own funds. The matter didn't end there. He took the stand that if he paid he would expect to be reimbursed by the government.

He Becomes Eloquent

Insiders say he expressed himself eloquently and forcibly and there was a clear implication that he would expect the war department to back him up if the military authorities had to go to congress to get the money to repay him. It was that prospect which almost turned some of the higher circles of the government inside out.

Washington officials didn't want the matter threshed out in congress and they knew there was every prospect that the general would get his money back if he was forced to advance it.

The net result was that the state department backed down and MacArthur won the argument without a struggle.

Flags Train for a Cool Drink; Gets It and 90 Days

Deposit, N. Y., July 13 (AP)—William Wallace Gardner, 84 year old McClure farmer, was so thirsty that he flagged a Chicago bound Erie railroad passenger train and asked for a cool drink of water. The conductor obliged and a railroad detective turned Gardner over to state police. Today he pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct and was sentenced to 90 days in the Broome county jail.

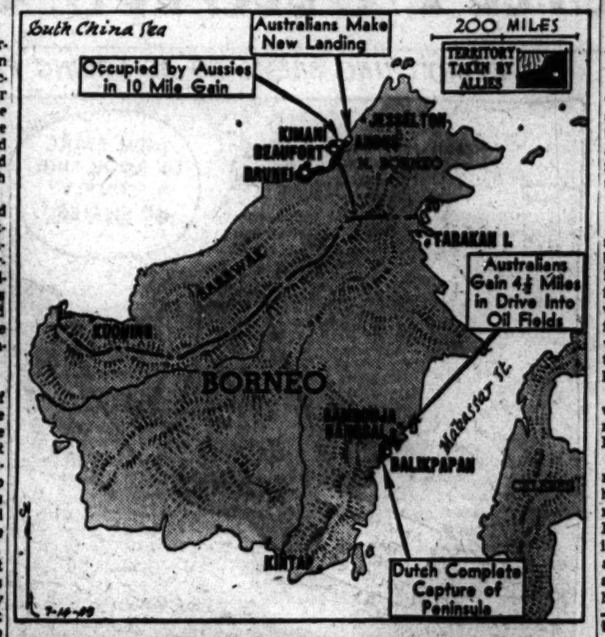
New Allied Gains in Borneo



MANILA, July 14 [Saturday]—(AP)—Racing northward against collapsed Japanese resistance, Australian 7th division troops are within nine miles of Sambodja, heart of a great east Borneo oil field, after a four and a half mile gain, a spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters disclosed today.

The Australians, now more than 20 miles north of the captured oil port of Balikpapan, which they invaded on July 1, found that the stiff enemy resistance faded away on Wednesday, the spokesman said.

Northeast of Manggar air field, where they had put up a vigorous fight with artillery, flaming oil drums and many mines for more than a week, the Japanese pulled up stakes and sped northward, with the Aussies in pursuit.

Latest reports, up to three days old, placed the Australians at the village of Bangsal, on the oil pipeline nine miles south of Sambodja.

CHINESE BREAK INTO KANHSIEN; MOP UP JAPS

CHUNGKING, July 13 (AP)—Chinese forces broke into the former American air base city of Kanhsien, 240 miles north of Hong Kong, last night and bitter street fighting still rages there "as our troops mop up enemy remnants," the Chinese high command said tonight.

Chinese reports indicated the enemy was retreating northward from Kanhsien. The city's fall would restore to allied control the sixth former United States 14th air force base given up last year to the Japs.

Drive Toward Changpu

The high command said its troops had recaptured Tangkiang, highway center 11 miles west of Kanhsien, and Fengkang, seven miles from the city, on Wednesday. The Chinese push had carried 35 miles since the capture last Saturday of Tayu, 42 miles southwest of Kanhsien.

Japanese troops moving north from Kanhsien were being engaged at points midway along the road to Suichwan, site of a United States air base already recovered, the Chinese said. Suichwan is 30 miles northwest of Kanhsien.

Some 200 miles to the southeast, Japanese troops who landed on June 30 on the Fukien coast south of Amoy drove on Wednesday toward Changpu, road center 35 miles southwest of Amoy, and were being intercepted, the Chinese said. These Japanese pushed toward Changpu from Chihhu, 17 miles to the east on the coast.

Describes Jap Moves

Maj. Gen. Kuo Chi-chih, army spokesman, said there was a possibility the Japanese were withdrawing from the south China coast, from the Indo-China border to the vicinity of Hong Kong. Enemy forces moving generally northward were 50 per cent stronger than those being transferred southward, he said.

The Japanese movements northward, he said, did not include enemy forces in Indo-China and in the Hong Kong and Canton area.

The Chinese central news agency reported that Japanese authorities had ordered the evacuation of Chinese nationals from Shanghai and Hangchow, presumably as an anti-invasion defense measure. The Japanese have seized the homes of about 500,000 villagers near Shanghai, the agency added.

COL. LANZA SAYS JAPAN EXPECTS INVASION DELAY

Feels U. S. Needs More Island Bases

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA

That their homeland probably would be invaded was first mentioned in public speeches in Japan in 1942 after the battle of Midway had demonstrated that control of the Pacific waters had passed to the superior forces of the United States.

Two years passed before Japan considered that the probability of an invasion had become a certitude. In the intervening time there had been a reorganization of war industries. New ones had been constructed on the mainland and others had been enlarged. Industries in Japan were broken into smaller units and scattered. Stocks of raw materials had been accumulated. The food situation had been overhauled and additional crops were being raised.

Cave Defense Indicated

Japan now considers invasion to be certain. She cannot prevent it, having neither sea nor air forces comparable to those of the United States. She does have large ground forces.

With this situation before her, the Japanese high command has determined to wage a defensive warfare against the invaders wherever and whenever they land. Since last autumn, Japan has made no defense of sea coasts. In the Philippines, in Borneo, and on Okinawa, American troops landed without opposition.

It is possible that the same plan will be followed on the home islands. The same high command is directing affairs. Japanese broadcasts tell of millions of men and women working on cave defenses. They have described how the caves are being provided with water, with air conditioning, with stocks of food, and with power.

Japs Say It Will Be Costly

In the Philippines it took four months to capture the cave defenses of the Manila water system. It took about the same time to get thru one mountain pass. In Okinawa it took two months to advance about 15 miles against caves and tunnels.

Japan is now referring to Okinawa as proof of what will happen when she is invaded. If it took 2½ months to conquer about 100 square miles of Okinawa and cost 35,000 American casualties, how long will it take, and how many men will have to be sacrificed, to capture Kyushu, next to the smallest of the main Japanese islands but 66 times larger than Okinawa's defended area? That is a question the Japanese ask.

This type of argument is not entirely sound. Only a part of Okinawa was defended, and probably only a part of Kyushu would be fortified. It is certain, however, that Japan could make the capture of her homeland by invasion an expensive job.

For that reason, some of our generals believe that it is better to attempt to subdue Japan by destroying her cities and lines of communication.

Bombing Gets Its Chance

As troops for invasion purposes must in part be brought in from Europe, which will take time, the bombing campaign is under full way. If it works, the invasion can be called off; if it doesn't work, the invasion will be undertaken whenever everything is ready.

Bombing of cities has taken place daily since early June. The large Japanese cities are believed to be virtually burned out, and the medium size towns are now being systematically destroyed.

The destruction wrought by American planes is supplemented by propaganda, distributed by radio and by dropped leaflets urging the people to quit the war and surrender unconditionally to avert complete destruction of their nation.

There has been no indication that Japan will quit.

At this date, Japan thinks there will be no invasion immediately. She believes it will be preceded by an attack on one or more small islands similar to Okinawa to obtain additional air fields closer to Japan. The most probable points of attack seem to be the islands that extend from Okinawa to Kyushu. Of these Amami, Kikai, and Tanega are Japanese air bases and would be useful to supplement our bases on Okinawa and Iwo. All are difficult objectives.

JAPS WILL FIGHT EVEN IN TOKYO'S RUINS, U.S. TOLD

Patterson Warns of Hard Battles

Glen Falls, N. Y., July 13 (AP)—War Undersecretary Patterson tonight said the surrender demanded of Japan will have to be exacted by force, adding that the enemy army "will not surrender to an inference, the inference that it is beaten."

In an address before the Warren County Bankers association, Patterson said Japan remains a formidable enemy, and warned:

"We must prepare ourselves to win our war with Japan the hard way—by killing Japanese soldiers right thru the ruins of Tokyo and thruout the home islands."

Fight More Effectively

The main Japanese armies are intact, Patterson said, and the Japanese soldier is "still just as willing to fight it out to the end as he was three years ago when he was winning his victories."

Patterson said the enemy soldier is fighting more effectively, that he has developed a new method of cave warfare. From now on, Patterson said, the fighting will be in country favoring the defender.

"The Japanese are fighting a progressively smarter war," he said. "On Okinawa they did not attempt a defense of the beaches where they would be under point-blank naval gunfire; they went back to prepared positions. In other words they picked their battlefield.

Suicide Method Improved

"Their artillery fire is far more effective than a year ago.

"Their suicide bombers used to come in low along the water in an attempt to torpedo a ship's hull. They were an easy mark for our gunners. Now they try to drop vertically on the deck from cloud cover.

"We recently captured an efficient new type of amphibious tank, and new Japanese jeeps and reconnaissance cars have air cooled engines which offer many advantages for operations in Manchuria and China where low temperatures are often encountered."

TOKYO DENIES GREW STATEMENT PEACE FEELERS WERE MADE

San Francisco, Cal., July 13 (AP)—Tokyo radio commentators scoffed today at reports Japan has put out peace feelers, declaring their country would fight on bitterly "until final victory has been attained."

All the same the Japanese were told between air raid warnings that the problem of east Asia will form the main topic at the Big Three conference in Germany, and that the United States has made good its threat of 'round the clock bombings.

Radio Tokyo quoted the newspaper Asahi as saying the current talks of Premier Stalin and Premier Soong of China had "suddenly pushed east Asia into the foreground of world politics. There is reason to believe Russia will act in the name of common interest and common obligation among the Big Three in east Asia."

Sadao Iguchi of the Japanese board of information said "there is no foundation whatsoever" for the July 10 report of Japanese peace feelers disclosed by United States Undersecretary of State Grew.

BLAMES LOSS OF DESTROYER ON CREW'S FATIGUE

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—Lt. Raymond L. Bly, senior surviving officer of the destroyer Longshaw, which was sunk off Okinawa, said today the loss was due to the utter exhaustion of the ship's personnel. He said the entire ship's company had been under heavy strain for weeks when the vessel ran aground and was sunk by enemy shore batteries.

Lt. Bly said it was one of the first ships to arrive off Okinawa and remained there until it was lost. For the first 30 days, he said, the crew was at general quarters for 90 per cent of the time. There was not a day when anybody got more than four hours' sleep, he said, and immediately before the ship was lost it had been on shore bombardment duty steadily day and night.

Casualties among her 312 officers and men included 96 dead and missing and 69 wounded.

REPORT FRANCO FIRES FALANGIST FROM CABINET

MADRID, July 13 (AP)—A high governmental official said tonight that Generalissimo Franco has dropped the secretary general of the Falange party from the Spanish cabinet, apparently in a move to make the government more acceptable to the allies.

The resignations of at least four other cabinet members, all presumably members of the Falange, were reported to be on Franco's desk awaiting action. Franco ousted the Falange secretary, Jose Luis Arrese, by eliminating the position of minister without portfolio, the government official said. There was no public confirmation of his report.

Arrese, a Basque who joined the Falange in 1933, predicted a cabinet shakeup in a speech on June 18 and said it would make no difference in Falange plans for "the conquest of the state" thru national syndicalism. He retains his party position under Franco, "supreme head" of the Falange.

AMERICANS LAND AT SARANGANI BAY, MINDANAO

MANILA, July 14 [Saturday]—(AP)—United States 24th division troops landed at Sarangani bay on Mindanao Thursday and moved rapidly inland without opposition in furthering the Philippines cleanup campaign, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters reported.

Units of the 7th fleet under Rear Adm. Arthur D. Struble bombarded the site in preparation for the landing.

U. S. ASSUMES BLAME FOR LOST JAP RELIEF SHIP

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The United States publicly acknowledged tonight responsibility for the submarine sinking of the Japanese relief ship Ava Maru which was traveling under an allied safe conduct guarantee.

The vessel was sent to the bottom by an American submarine which torpedoed it in a fog off Formosa about midnight April 1, with a loss of more than 1,000 lives. The government has informed the Japanese government that "disciplinary action is being taken" with respect to the sub commander.

Only One Survivor

The state department released two notes, the latest in a series which have been exchanged between Tokyo and Washington thru the Swiss government. In the first of these the Japanese, under date of May 16, demanded that the United States apologize for the sinking, punish the persons responsible, and pay indemnities for the loss of hundreds of lives of crew and passengers and for the loss of the vessel. There was only one survivor.

The United States replied in a note dated June 29. In it the United States said that it had "already officially expressed its deep regret over the sinking" and the heavy loss of life.

Propose Indemnity Delay

It then proposed deferring the question of indemnity until after the war because of its complexity.

Along with the notes the government released to the press here an explanation of its actions, saying that it was guided in the decision to accept responsibility not only by the facts of the sinking but also by the "very real necessity to continue sending shipments of food, clothing and medical supplies to allied prisoners of war and civilian internees held by the Japanese."

The Japanese government claimed the attack was deliberate.

Denies Wilfull Attack

The results of the United States investigation into the sinking were reported to the Japanese in the June 29 note as follows:

"It has been established that at the time the ship was sunk she was proceeding at night in a fog. There is, however, evidence that she was showing the prescribed lights.

"It appears that the ship was about eight miles off the course previously announced and was about 32 miles ahead of her predicted position. However, the difference betwen the ship's prescribed position and the scene of the disaster is not considered unreasonable.

"The commanding officer of the submarine did not see the Awa Maru prior to or after she had been torpedoed, the attack having been made by means other than visual, which fact of itself disproves the charge that the attack was wilfull and deliberate."

JAP CIVILIANS ON MINDANAO KILL SELVES IN MASS

Find Group of Forty with Throats Cut

HDQ., ARMY FORCES OF PACIFIC, P. I., July 13 (AP)—Terror stricken and deserted by their own army, Japane civilians in interior Mindanao Island are resorting to mass suicides to avoid capture.

An estimated 13,000 of the hapless civilians are living on the slopes of Mt. Apo, commanding Davao gulf on southern Mindanao. Reports to officers of the 24th division have renewed the belief that thousands of them, all evacuated from their Davao homes when the Japanese army fled before the Americans, may resort to a mass suicide and murder program.

One prisoner taken by the 24th told of 40 Japanese women and children already found in the Tamogan sector with their throats slit.

Mother Kill Children

Haruo Ito, Formosan civilian employe of the Japanese army, told Maj. B. M. Reid, staff officer of the 24th division, he had seen the group. Some of the bodies were torn by artillery fire, he said.

The sole survivor, a girl 12 years old, told him this story:

Their party had been left behind by retreating Jap troops with thousands of other civilians who broke into small bands to search for food and water.

They had no medicine and suffered from malaria. They were forced to depend on wild potatoes for food. Then sick and starving, they found themselves between the American and Japanese lines. The frightened mothers killed their children and then themselves. Those who could not commit suicide were destroyed by their companions.

Forced to Work by Japs

One Japanese woman prisoner, Higa Yosu, said the Japanese soldiers had forced them to work on scanty field rations and had taken some of the women into their camps as "comfort girls." She said two of her sisters were taken.

Lt. Robert E. Lee, Minneapolis, who has charge of the internment camp, is preparing to handle at least 5,000. Other camps will be added as needed and will operate on a communal basis.

A captured Japanese sergeant, Kiyoshi Ito, told Maj. Reid he was sure there would be no large scale surrender because the soldiers were afraid both of beheading by their officers and torture by the Americans. He said the iron discipline of his 100th division precluded any possibility of mutiny.

GENERAL RECOMMENDS 20 YEARS FOR 2 YANKS CONDEMNED IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, China, July 13 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand has recommended that the death sentences of two American privates, accused of killing a Chinese grandmother in a dispute over a water buffalo, be commuted to 20 years at hard labor.

The men, condemned by a court martial June 29, are John V. Brennan, West Hartford, Conn., and James F. Cooper, Norwood, O. Both are 30. Cooper is married. Both have been overseas since 1943.

Gen. Aurand, chief of the services of supply in the China theater, recommended also that the men be dishonorably discharged and forfeit all pay and allowances. The theater commander, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, still must pass on the court martial and Aurand's recommendation.

[The men contended: They mounted the animal "intending to take a ride and have a little fun." Villagers attempted to pull them off and the woman finally succeeded in dismounting Brennan. The private fell from the animal onto the woman and she died three hours later.]

REVEAL SECRET GERMAN GRIP ON WORLD INDUSTRY

U. S. Sifts Records of Vast Farben Combine

HOESCHT, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Department of justice and the United States group control experts delved into seven tons of records today to trace the world-wide industrial machinations and stockholdings of the great German chemical trust, I. G. Farbenindustrie.

These documents may disclose all the secrets of the corporation's intricate cartel operations which gave it a strong hold on many industries in almost every part of the world, including the United States, and provided the Nazis with a powerful organization for industrial espionage and sabotage.

Col. Edwin Pillsbury, Berkeley, Cal., who directed military seizure last week of 24 Farben plants in the United States zone of occupation, said it would require months to piece together the entire story of Farben operations and to uncover hidden stockholdings.

Story Called Amazing

"It is one of the most amazing stories of modern times," Pillsbury said. "The manner in which Farben agents gained control of certain industries and carried on a role of domination in the world's chemical industry is almost unbelievable."

The German war machine would have collapsed without I. G. Farbenindustrie, Pillsbury said. The investigation already has disclosed that the combine controled almost all German chemical production, supplied the Nazis with needed foreign exchange, engaged in industrial espionage, checked closely on chemical production in every country, and hampered production in other countries.

Some findings are so startling that a brigadier general, whose name cannot be given, is flying to Washington with documents to place into the record against I. G. Farbenindustrie.

Control council agents already have found that Farben was operating more than 20 laboratories for pure research in the American zone alone. In one, scientists were working on synthetic penicillin, but progress made is not yet determined.

Hunt for Secret Deals

"It might have been expected, as in the case of most Farben discoveries, that they would attempt to use synthetic penicillin as a threat against producers of penicillin in other countries," one officer said. "Farben agents used the threat of financial ruin to gain information or to strengthen their control of the chemical industry."

Pillsbury said not all Farben stockholdings can be traced thru ordinary business channels. Agents must uncover hidden agreements and secret deals. Here is one example:

One American officer whose troops seized a plant came to Pillsbury with the suggestion that perhaps a mistake had been made, since records showed that Farben owned only 31¼ per cent of the stock in the plant, and thus did not have controling interest.

Investigation showed, however, that Farben had negotiated a 99 year lease on the plant and guaranteed dividends to stockholders of the subsidiary company to gain complete control of production.

"Vast Web of Deals."

"We must trace these subrosa agreements before we know all the Farben holdings," Pillsbury said.

Investigators say they have "just scratched the surface" so far.

The breakup of I. G. Farbenindustrie in Germany may be a matter of high policy to be determined by the four power control council in Berlin, because Farben plants are scattered thruout Germany. In the American zone alone, Pillsbury estimated the physical property seized had a dollar value of more than $50,000,000, exclusive of cash and bank credits.

Investigators suspect that Farben had large cash assets in neutral countries. Some of Farben's largest plants are outside the American zone, such as a huge synthetic oil plant in the British area near Leipzig, and a large chemical plant in the French zone. Many plants are in Russian territory.

Nonwar Plants Operate

Within two months, Pillsbury believes the investigation will begin to show definite patterns of Farben holdings and the world-wide operations of the corporation, whose history is traced back to 1904 as a loose combine of the largest German chemical companies.

GOLD PILED UP LIKE CORDWOOD IN NAZI HOARD

FRANKFURT ON MAIN, Germany, July 13 (AP)—The greatest collection of looted wealth ever assembled under one roof was being inventoried and identified today by currency experts from the United States treasury and the Bank of England.

The loot occupied almost every available cubic foot of storage space in the Reichsmark bank of Frankfurt. In some rooms paper currency was stacked in canvas bags from floor to ceiling. Bullion was stacked like cordwood. One large room held securities from almost every country in the world.

Barrels of Jewels

In addition to gold and silver there were hogsheads of pearls, rubies, and sapphires, and in other wooden cases were gold and silver fillings from the teeth of tens of thousands of murdered Jews.

"Our job is to get it, hold it and inventory it," said Col. Bernard Bernstein, director of the finance division of the United States group control council. "But an accurate estimate of the total value can never be made."

Unearthed by Yanks

Bernstein said the collection included 53 deposits hidden by the Nazis and unearthed by United States troops during the final days of the war.

In one cache was a deposit of radium. In another thousands of weddings rings stripped from the fingers of women victims of the Nazis in Germany, Greece, Poland, and other occupied countries were strung on ropes like country sausages. A third held almost the entire silver reserve of the Hungarian government. A fourth included the special gold reserve and loot of Von Ribbentrop's foreign office.

ALLIES WEIGH FATE OF GERMAN GENERAL STAFF

FRANKFURT, July 13 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery are expected to decide soon on what to do with the German general staff. Hundreds of high ranking staff and field officers of the German army are prisoners of the western allies.

British and American officers held informal discussions on the matter during Eisenhower's absence.

These conversations touched on the possibility of breaking up the German general staff and condemning its members to exile in British crown colonies thruout the world.

Of the captured German military hierarchy one SHAEF officer said: "Some of them ought to shot as criminals and undoubtedly will be."

REFUGEES LAY MASSACRE OF JEWS TO POLES

Say Reds Despair of Halting Butchery

BY LARRY RUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BREMEN, Germany, July 13—Two Polish Jews, who have fled here from their native land for protection, today told Capt. Manual Polikoff, Jewish chaplain of the 29th division, that widespread massacres of Jews were still going on in outlying districts of Poland.

They said the Russian officials, despairing of controlling the anti-Semitism, had ordered the Jews into the large cities where they would be easier to protect.

Flee After Brief Stay

The two refugees are Bernahard Sohmajuch, of Krakow, and Samuel Sultan, of Charneca. They exhibited passes from Poland signed by Russian officials as evidence that soviet officials consider emigration the best protection against the Polish anti-Semites.

They hitch-hiked their way here, first thru the British zone, then into the American. They spent almost six years in concentration camps and were released at the Belsen camp. They then returned to their homes, where they remained from June 4 to June 30.

"Ritual Murder" Charged

"It was even worse in Poland than before the war, when the anti-Semitism was bad enough," said Sultan. He charged that the A K group, organized to prevent the return of Polish Jews, had revived "ritual murder" propaganda to arouse anti-Semitism.

"They have killed Polish Christian children and hidden the bodies near Jewish homes to provoke pogroms," he said.

Sultan said he believed one motive was to keep Jewish property which some Poles acquired during the German occupation.

300,000 Poles Resettled

KATOWICE, Poland, July 13 (AP)—The Poles, with Russian army consent, have established local government in German Silesia, which they expect to obtain at the peace conference, and have settled 300,000 peasants on farmlands which were part of the reich.

Marian Szancer, district director of resettlement, said today he hoped to bring in 200,000 more settlers this month and that 3,000,000 abandoned acres must be harvested by the Polish army if necessary.

The chief resettlement centers are the German cities of Breslau, Oppeln, and Kreuzburg.

Gen. Zawadski, governor of adjoining Polish Silesia, has ordered all Germans to register by July 20 for deportation.

Nine Ships Put in

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—A spokesman for the repudiated Polish exiled government said today that nine of Poland's 39 merchant vessels had heeded its orders to sail for the nearest British ports and that others were on the way.

ASKS VOLUNTEER ARMY TO POLICE GERMAN ZONES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13.—A proposal that soldiers in the American army of occupation be restricted to volunteers for such duty was advanced today by members of the house military affairs committee.

Rep. Short [R., Mo.], a ranking minority member, who recently returned from an inspection trip to Europe, said in an interview that our GI's should not be left in Germany as policemen against their wishes any longer than military necessity dictates.

Observing that war department plans call for an occupation army in Germany of 400,000 men, Short said this many soldier volunteers could probably be found already in Europe and at desk jobs in Washington and elsewhere.

Many Eager to Go

"There are hundreds of thousands of officers and enlisted men in the army who have not yet been overseas but who would like to go," Short said. "Many of these would probably welcome a chance to serve for a time in Germany. They should be sent as soon as possible to replace men who have been in Europe for a long time and are entitled to return to this country."

The congressman also urged the army to follow a rotation policy in the occupation forces, so that no soldier would be left in Germany as a policeman for a long period of years.

"Nobody knows how long we are going to maintain an army to police Germany," he added, "and fairness requires that members of the occupying force be rotated as new volunteers for such work come along. If the army fails to adopt a rotation policy, congress should require it by legislation."

Fit Men for Pacific

Short said all young physically fit draftees should be assigned to units fighting in the Pacific, because, he explained, the less strenuous policing job in Germany can be handled by older and less fit men.

Rep. Harness [R., Ind.], another member of the military committee, said that not a single American soldier should be left in Germany after the war ends unless he has volunteered himself for service in the occupation army.

"It may be," Harness told a reporter, "that for some months, the pressure of the Pacific war will require leaving some soldiers in Europe who would like to and should be sent home. But certainly after Japan is defeated, all draftees should be brought back from Europe except those who voluntarily ask to stay as policemen."

100TH DIVISION GETS STUTTGART FROM FRENCH

STUTTGART, Germany, July 13 (AP)—American occupation troops have moved into Stuttgart and taken over from French forces quickly and smoothly—without any repetition of the diplomatically delicate "affaire Stuttgart" of 10 weeks ago, when the French refused to get out.

The American force which took over is the 100th [Century] infantry division commanded by Maj. Gen. Withers A Burress of Richmond, Va.—the same force that stood toe to toe with the French 3d Algerian division in Stuttgart in late April, when both sides exercised extreme self restraint to avoid an incident.

The 100th was ordered to occupy Stuttgart soon after the city surrendered to the French without a fight, but the French general in command maintained he had no orders to make way for anybody, and so he proposed to stay. The 100th came on in, nevertheless, and remained five days while the impasse was thrashed out at higher levels. Then the 100th was ordered out. This time the French moved out without a murmur.

FRIDAY THE 13TH LUCKY FOR GIs IN ANTWERP CAMP

Chicagoans Among Homebound Vets

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ANTWERP, Belgium, July 13—This is considered a lucky Friday the 13th by 2,000 United States officers and enlisted men, including some Chicagoans, at a canvas city in the bend of the Scheldt river here. They are expected to embark for America this week-end after months in Europe. They are happy to leave even if the hazards of the Pacific fighting await them following furloughs at home.

The men occupy tents on the dusty and sandy river flat. A stroll thru the camp disclosed several Chicagoalanders:

Tech. Sgt. Donald Seiber, Lake Forest, Ill., who in flying 87 bombing missions, won the silver star and the distinguished flying cross, bailed out twice, crash landed once, and was wounded twice.

Gunner on 53 Missions

Tech. Sgt. Chester Sawicki, 6240 Eddy st., Chicago, who was tail gunner on 53 missions and survived two crash landings. He declined the Purple Heart for flack wounds.

S/Sgt. William Gray and Tech. Sgt. Carl Zeman, both of Peoria, Ill., the former with 56 missions and one crash on his record, and the latter with 45 missions and one chute escape.

Sgt. Robert J. Westbrook, 5911 W. Huron st., Chicago, tail gunner on 63 missions in 16 months.

At the Red Cross recreation hut in the camp were Miss Lois Coreman, 926 Greenwood av., Evanston, Ill., and Miss Corinne Strand, Rockford, Ill.

The Antwerp camp, dubbed Top Hat by the army press agent, has a capacity of 16,500. The first embarkations were a week ago. The average stay before shipment is four or five days. The July embarkation rate is expected to average 1,500 daily, and August's 3,000.

The men are returning to the United States in cargo ships that bring food to the army of occupation and relief to the war pauperized civilians of Europe. The outgoing loads also include tanks, halftracks, trucks, and jeeps that will be reconditioned for Pacific service. Some ammunition has gone directly to the Pacific. One hundred V-2 bombs were shipped to the United States for research.

Three Nations Share Port

In June almost half a million tons were unloaded in the United States portion of this port, which is shared with Great Britain and Belgium. The outbound load was 91,552 tns. The British are handling about half this volume. The American imports included 185,000 tons of food exclusive of 100,000 tons of wheat.

The facilities of this great port survived a rain of V-bombs and went thru allied bombings and Nazi demolitions with minor damage.

Col. Curtis A. Noble, deputy port commander, credited the underground work of Male Coma, 22, less than 5 feet tall and weighing less than 100 pounds, with saving the facilities from the German's mines and demolition blasts. He said that her childlike appearance permitted her to play on the docks with children and report German activities, first to the underground and later to the allies after the liberation last November. He gave her a job as his secretary and later as receptionist in the American embassy.

Most of the damage to the port has been repaired. Col. Noble said he did not know how much United States lend-lease money was spent on the job.

The Ford Motor company assembly plant on the water front is being remodeled as a plant to disassemble and crate jeeps for shipment to America. During the conversion the plant is assembling Ford trucks for sale to civilians.

EISENHOWER HOPES ALLIED UNITY WILL POINT WAY TO PEACE

PARIS, July 13 (AP)—In an order of the day marking the dissolution of SHAEF, Gen. Eisenhower tonight expressed his "fervent hope and prayer" that the unprecedented allied unity during the war would point the way to permanent peace.

The order follows:

"On this occasion, the termination of the combined command, I welcome the opportunity to express my gratitude and admiration to the people of the allied nations in Europe whose fighting forces and nationals have contributed so effectively to victory.

"United in a common cause, the men and women of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, France, Luxemburg, the Netherlands, and Norway joined with the British commonwealth of nations and the United States of America to form a truly allied team which in conjunction with the might of the Red army smashed and obliterated the nazi aggressors.

"I pay tribute to every individual who gave so freely and unselfishly to the limit of his or her ability. Their achievements in the cause for which they fought will be indelibly inscribed in the pages of history and cherished in the hearts of all freedom loving people.

"It is my fervent hope and prayer that the unparalleled unity which has been achieved among the allied nations in the war will be a source of inspiration for and will point the way to a permanent and lasting peace."

IKE BIDS TROOPS GOOD-BY ON EVE OF SHAEF ENDING

turned, however, into the major task of getting men and material out of this theater.

The second major category is that of occupation and control. Until such time as the present transitional state settles down into a fixed American army of occupation, that category has no specific troops of its own. But it covers all American troops in Germany, whether there to stay or not, and embraces Lt. Gen. Lucius Clay's command as Eisenhower's deputy.

Control Moves to Berlin

It was announced today that the United States section of the allied control commission headed by Gen. Clay had moved its headquarters from Frankfurt to Berlin.

Under the sprawling USFET control the 12th and 6th army groups, comprising divisions of the 1st, 3d, 7th, 9th, and 15th armies, are in the midst of a juggling act. Divisions are being switched from army to army, and from classification to remain in Europe to classification for redeployment. It may be well toward the end of 1945 before the number of troops left in Germany is down near the size to be designated ultimately as the army of occupation.

Former SHAEF missions to Belgium, The Netherlands, Denmark, and Norway will continue, but as separate national missions.

First Known as COSSAC

SHAEF was born of experiments in linked allied operations in the North African and Mediterranean theaters and officially came into existance Feb. 13, 1944. Its original designation was COSSAC—chief of staff supreme allied command.

SHAEF's first headquarters were a few scattered buildings in a residential section of London. In March main headquarters moved to Bushy Park in Teddington, a London suburb. Just before D-day SHAEF forward, Gen. Eisenhower's own headquarters, was moved to a place near Portsmouth, while SHAEF main remained in London.

On Oct. 1, SHAEF forward shifted to Jullouville near Granville in Normandy, and after the liberation of Paris both SHAEF main and SHAEF forward were moved to the capital, with Eisenhower's headquarters at Versailles. SHAEF main remained there, but Eisenhower moved his forward headquarters first to Reims and then to Frankfurt. Later SHAEF main was transferred to Frankfurt.

Berlin Shift Completed

BERLIN, July 13 (AP)—American and British occupation zones will start receiving food from western Germany next week.

The soviet responsibility for feeding more than 1,500,000 civilians in the part of Berlin transferred to western allied rule will cease Monday.

The change from soviet to American and British authority in 12 of the capital's 20 boroughs has been virtually completed.

While the western allies in general have followed former Russian practices regarding food rations, public works, and recreation, the Americans have modified the soviet policy toward political activity. The Communist party request for permission to hold political rallies next Sunday—which the Russians already had granted—has been reapproved by American officers with the stipulation that no meeting shall be attended by more than 1,000 persons.

U. S. Surrenders Frank, Lidice Figure, to Czechs

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, July 13 (AP)—Karl Hermann Frank, nazi protector of Bohemia-Moravia charged with ordering the Lidice massacre, was surrendered by American authorities yesterday and brought to Prague. Czechoslovakia lists him as its No. 1 war criminal.

Shell Nicobar Isles

CALCUTTA, India, July 13 (AP)—British warships have bombarded the Nicobar Islands northwest of Sumatra while carrier borne planes lashed prime targets on both the Nicobars and Sumatra, a special bulletin announced tonight.

Minesweepers, without sighting a single Japanese ship, swept the approaches to Malacca straits, between Sumatra and Singapore, the southeast Asia command disclosed.

The seven day operation in the Bay of Bengal was carried out within sight of enemy occupied territories, but the Japanese refused the challenge to battle. Japanese broadcasts reporting the strike expressed fear of landing attempts.

The Nicobars, a 220 mile long island chain formerly British controled, lie 120 miles northwest of the tip of Sumatra, and 400 miles west of the Kra peninsula of Malaya.

Warships bombarded gun positions on Car Nicobar, northernmost Nicobar Island, while planes struck shipping, air fields, radar installations and other targets, Reuters Correspondent Michael MacDonagh said.

TRAIN COLLISION, KILLS 6 YANKS; GERMAN HELD

WEINGARTEN, Germany, July 13 (AP)—Six American soldiers were killed and 28 injured when a redeployment bound train and a freight collided near here early this morning.

All were members of the 65th armored infantry battalion of the 20th armored division, which is scheduled for an early sailing from Le Havre.

August Lindenmeyer, German tower operator at Durlach, five miles from the wreck scene, has been arrested and is being held for investigation, said Lt. Col. Earnest E. Foulks of the army transportation corps. Foulks said Lindenmeyer gave the freight a clear track.

FIND U. S. JUDGE 'FORGOT' $39,000 ITEM IN INCOME

House Probers Ask Him to Explain

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The house judiciary subcommittee is asking former Federal Judge Albert W. Johnson to account in detail for $39,000 he allegedly spent above income between 1934 and 1944.

Johnson, 72 year old Lewisburg, Pa., jurist, whose official conduct is under investigation, testified today that he never received "any money or reward of any character for performance of any judicial duty."

He denied specifically testimony of a previous witness that he had requested a two-thirds kickback of a receivership fee from a court appointed official.

Demand for Split Told

John Memolo, Scranton, Pa., attorney, yesterday testified that in 1938 Johnson demanded a two-thirds share of a big receivership fee in Williamsport [Pa.] Wire Rope company case.

Memolo said he had arranged for payment of $240,000 to receivership officials from Bethlehem Steel officials, who wanted the Williamsport firm, and that Johnson had asked for two-thirds of a major portion of this sum.

Johnson declared he had "no knowledge of any arrangements with Bethlehem for fees or the disposition of the plant" before sale of the Williamsport property to Bethlehem was carried out.

Discrepancy Found

Johnson also asserted he "hardly knew" Jacob Greenes, Scranton beer salesman, who Memolo had testified was able to "get things done" in Johnson's court.

Johnson was questioned closely about an alleged discrepancy in his books.

Committee Counsel M. H. Goldschein said an investigation of the judge's books by federal agents showed that from 1934 to 1944 he had spent approximately $39,000 more than he had made.

The judge said he would have to see the figures the agents had used, but added he had received money from lecture fees and from sales of household goods that he never bothered to enter. The committee asked Judge Johnson to present an itemized list when the hearing is resumed tomorrow.

Once Worth $117,000

Under questioning by committee counsel, Johnson estimated he was worth $117,000 when he went on the federal bench 20 years ago, and about $50,000 now. He resigned earlier this month.

He testified he made about $44,000 the year prior to taking the federal judgeship, about half from his law practice and half from sale of property.

He said he had about $20,000 cash in a tin box when he took the position as federal judge. He added that he kept the box in his room.

Asked why he did not deposit it in a bank, Johnson replied "For the same reason many people do not put their money in banks. I tried to keep a reasonable amount at home to be used in cases of necessity."

Used in Emergencies

Johnson said he used money from it from time to time for emergencies, including operations for various of his 11 children, for trips, to buy the books and antiques he said comprised his chief relaxation, and, he added:

"Sometimes at home maybe company might come and I would need some money to go to the store for food."

He realized "About $2,000 a year" from lecture appearances during many of his 20 years on the bench, he said.

Johnson testified he seldom told his secretary about lecture fees and hence they were not entered in the books. His books, Goldschein said, showed only $211 from lecture fees for the 10 years.

$100 to $150 Per Lecture

He said he frequently received $100 and $150 lecture fees. These came, he said, from "high schools, lodges, institutes, and so on."

Inquired Rep. Walter [D., Pa.]:

"Were you compensated the times you spoke on the same platform with me?"

"No," said Johnson. "That was a convention and I was a delegate."

"I'm glad to hear that," Walter replied. "I thought from what you said here that maybe some one was holding out on me."

Johnson asserted he estimated the unrecorded income when preparing income tax returns.

Warned About Testifying

Johnson took the stand voluntarily. He was not subpoenaed.

Before he began to testify, he was cautioned by Chairman Kefauver [D., Tenn.] on the effect his testimony may have in connection with a grand jury investigation now going on in Scranton, Pa., into the middle district court.

"I want to point this out," said Kefauver, "The grand jury is still operating at Scranton. That is not a matter over which this committee has control. The judge should be on notice that anything he says here may be used against him. There is no immunity."

"We understand," replied John H. Bigelow, one of Johnson's three attorneys at the hearing.

After he was on the stand for nearly four hours, Johnson said he "planned to go home tonight."

But Rep. Talbot [R., Conn.] commented:

"Each member of the committee intends to question the judge at great length." Kefauver then set 10 a. m. as resumption time.

AWARD DFC TONIGHT TO PILOT WHO WON WAR IN PEACE SKY

Maj. R. W. [Shorty] Schroeder will receive tonight the nation's highest flying award, the distinguished flying cross, for his perilous experiments in high altitude flying 25 years ago.

Maj. R. W. Schroeder

Life has slowed down for Schroeder since he suffered a stroke in 1941, but his interest in aviation is unflagging. The aviation pioneer has been flying since 1910, was a pilot in World War I, later serving as assistant director of the bureau of air commerce and as vice president of United Air Lines.

Lt. Gen. Harold L. George, commanding general of the air transport command, will fly here today to make the award at a Stevens hotel banquet attended by Schroeder's aviation pals and leaders in the industry. Lt. Col. Harold D. Krafft will read the Presidential citation that says in part: "For distinguishing himself by heroism and extraordinary achievement while participating in flights from September, 1918, to February, 1920, as an army test pilot.

"During this time, Maj. Schroeder voluntarily flew a series of high altitude test flights which provided basic high altitude data responsible in large measure for the success of the army air forces in World War II."

ARMY WILL FLY PLANE DAILY TO BERLIN AIRPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 13—Daily scheduled service to Berlin's Tempelhof airdrome has been started by the United States army air forces' air transport command, Brig. Gen. Earl S. Hoag, commanding the ATC's European division, announced today. About 300 ATC men will operate the Tempelhof base under command of Lt. Col. Arthur J. Frontczak, Dowagiac, Mich.

The single daily flight into Tempelhof, which is expected to increase to at least eight daily within a few weeks, is an extension of the London-Paris-Frankfurt run. Many Tempelhof buildings were destroyed by bombing, but the runways generally were described as good.

REPORT MOSLEM CHIEF WILL TAKE FIGHT TO LONDON

Showdown Possible at Parley Today

BY ALFRED WAGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SIMLA, India, July 12 [Delayed]—After two weeks of futility, the India constitutional conference is still deadlocked, and Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem league, is said to be leaving soon for England where he will take his case to the British government, thereby circumventing coöperation with the National congress leaders.

Such a move would be a rebuff for Viceroy Wavell who is attempting in the constitutional conference to bring about a more representative government for India.

Breach Would Widen

If Jinnah goes to Whitehall, admitting that he cannot work with the Hindus, who are in the majority in India, the breach will widen and the problems of India may again threaten violence.

With conflicts in the Arab world to the right and left of India, Jinnah's determination to fight for the Moslem cause is sure to be listened to, but the big question is what is going to happen between the Moslems and Hindus if the present conference is openly flouted by the Moslem leader.

Expected to Coöperate

Most comment here is that the Moslem league's refusal to cooperate has given it the center of the stage, tho this may react against it. Invitations to the conference were on the basis that those invited could be expected to contribute to its success, leaving out those likely to jeopardize its success. Apparently, therefore Jinnah had been expected to coöperate.

The conference has cost Indian taxpayers a large sum, apparently uselessly unless something happens at the eleventh hour. When it reconvenes on Saturday—Friday the 13th being superstitiously avoided—there may be a final effort to reach a showdown with Jinnah.

KINCAID URGES 710 PUBLIC PARKS IN CITY BY 1955

H. Evert Kincaid, executive director of the Chicago Plan commission, yesterday submitted to the council committee on aviation and recreation, headed by Ald. Grealis [44th], a preliminary report on a 1955 park system providing recreation for a population increase of 400,000 persons.

Kincaid said the 223 public parks Chicago now has are too few. He proposed 710 parks, embracing 15,000 acres, in 10 years.

The report recommends the establishment of tot parks, for children up to 5; children's parks, for those up to 14; quiet parks, two acres or more and dotted with trees and shrubbery, and neighborhood parks, not less than 20 acres and containing trees, lawns, shrubbery, and bodies of water.

LATIN HIGHWAY OPPOSITION BY GEN. IKE IS TOLD

BY PHILIP DODD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13—Gen. Eisenhower, when assistant chief of staff in 1942, refused to recommend military priority for construction of the inter-American highway to the Canal Zone, members of the senate war investigating committee were told today at the opening hearing on the now abandoned 58 million dollar project.

Gen. Eugene Reybold

A memorandum from Eisenhower, then chief of the army operations division, to Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, was read to the subcommittee conducting the hearing by Rudolph Halley, committee counsel. The memorandum was dated June 4, 1942, one month prior to the formal approval of the project by War Undersecretary Patterson.

"No Justification Exists"

"The operations division," Eisenhower wrote, "considers the utility of the proposed road to the present war effort as problematical. Consequently, no justification exists for the diversion to this project of men or critical materials or equipment."

Confronted with Eisenhower's memorandum, Lt. Gen. Eugene Reybold, chief of the army engineers and main witness at today's hearing, asserted the project was approved on the understanding that troops and critical materials would not be used. The project had a "zero priority," he said.

In his memorandum, Eisenhower suggested that the war department approve the highway for future construction "in the interest of continental solidarity and for its possible long range military value and not on the ground of military necessity."

Estimates Go Up and Up

Reybold testified that the initial estimate for construction of the 900 mile highway to link existing roads between the Mexico-Guatemala border and the Canal Zone was $14,714,200. As construction proceeded the estimate was repeatedly revised upward until the final estimate for the whole project totaled $58,500,000, he said.

When construction was stopped by war department order in October, 1943, about 600 miles of highway had been completed at a total cost of $42,715,591, Reybold testified. Charges and credits have reduced the net cost to $36,317,617, he said.

Reybold told the committee the highway project never would have been started in 1942 had the army been able to predict the subsequent changes in the military picture.

Face Quiz on Waste

Today's hearing was devoted to the history of the project and the army's explanation for the steps taken. It was learned, however, that Reybold and other war department officials will be questioned next week on charges of widespread waste of money and materials on the project which were charged in the senate recently by Sen. Robertson [R., Wyo.].

A hint of the questioning to come was given by Robertson when he asked Reybold if road machinery was allowed to lie idle during the summer rainy season when, Reybold had said, construction had to be suspended. Reybold replied that equipment did remain idle.

Robertson told a reporter after the hearing he had information there was no recapture clause—permitting the government to apply rental payments to the subsequent purchase of equipment—in the contract with at least one contractor on the project.

The result was, Robertson said, that millions of dollars was spent for equipment rental even when the machinery was not in use and that there was no way for the government to recover the money.

Robertson said the contractor he referred to was Swinerton, McClure, and Vinnell, a California group organized for the inter-American project.

Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.] commented in an interview that altho the army had not asked for priorities on materials and equipment for the highway "it did not have an equal regard for the taxpayers' dollars."

QUEEN MOTHER FLIES WITH FOREIGN HEAD TO SEE KING LEOPOLD

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 13 (AP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth and Henri Spaak, foreign minister, flew today to join King Leopold at Salzburg, where he is debating whether to abdicate.

Bar Crowds in Belgium

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—The Brussels radio broadcast a decree by the minister of defense tonight prohibiting all demonstrations and any gathering of more than four persons thruout Belgium. There was no elaboration of the order, which came as sections of the Belgian press predicted King Leopold would abdicate soon.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

to Sleeping Car Patrons

Effective 12:00 o'clock Noon Sunday, July 15, 1945

The Office of Defense Transportation has ordered all railroads to discontinue sleeping car service on runs of 450 miles or less. This is to provide more sleeping cars for the use of the Armed Forces.

In compliance with this Order, the Wabash Railroad will discontinue, until further notice, sleeping car service between the following cities, in both directions:

St. Louis—Chicago
Chicago—Detroit
St. Louis—Omaha
St. Louis—Kansas City
St. Louis—Toledo
St. Louis—Des Moines

Chair cars will still be available on all trains as usual.

Sleeping car accommodations will still be available between the following points:

St. Louis—Detroit
St. Louis—San Francisco
Detroit—Tampa

Existing parlor car lines will be operated as at present.

Flynn Warns It Builds Power of Reds

collaborate with Russia. . . . I don't want to pay the bills for Russia to make her economic system successful, to enable her to tighten her hold on the millions of people she has taken over. . . .

A Matter of Merit

"If she can succeed, I don't want to do anything to stop her. I don't want to starve her or attack her. If communism can succeed, let it succeed on its own merits. . . .

"On the other side of the ocean is a system which will destroy our economy if it succeeds. I do not like to pay billions of dollars to see it succeed and go into an organization to help Russia extend her grip on two-thirds of Europe."

Turning to the financial system envisioned in the Bretton Woods agreement, Flynn said:

"Under the Bretton Woods plan, this country is pledged to put up $2,750,000,000 as its share of the international fund. It is to put up $3,175,000,000 as its contribution to the international bank for development. We have already contributed $1,200,000,000 to the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration and we have increased the revolving fund of the Commodity Credit corporation by $2,000,000,000.

"And congress is being asked to increase the working capital of the export-import bank by $2,500,000,000.

"Besides all this, there is some $2,000,000,000 still available in the lend-lease account. We cannot use lend-lease for post-war reconstruction, but the President, at his discretion, can make continued lend-lease shipments subject to long term credit.

"France wants $2,500,000,000 in food, equipment and other materials. Belgium and Holland want a great deal.

"England is asking $5,000,000,000 in 1945 and Russia is asking $6,000,000,000.

"What does China want? How much do the Latin American countries expect? We have raised the hopes of the world for financial assistance.

"Count these sums up. They run to more than 30 billion in post-war spending. . . .

35 Billions to Repay

"There are outstanding 45 billions in demand bonds payable on 60 days' notice, all in the hands of little people who have been told this will be a nest egg for them when the war ends. They will pour to the treasury, not to lend but to get their money back.

"There is in addition 40 billions of short term treasury paper which will fall due in the next 12 months. Here is a possible redemption of 85 billions of obligations which the treasury must face in the coming 12 months. Who is going to lend all these billions to the government when people holding 85 billions are asking for their money?

"We will need all our resources to pull ourselves out of the economic jam into which we have got ourselves. We will have no means to carry out our commitments under this charter.

"We will be the first nation to be forced to welch."

Preservation of Privilege

Denying that the security charter will stop wars, Flynn said:

"It is a plan not to protect the rights of little nations but to preserve the privileges and ambitions—the accomplished aggressions and future aggressions—of a few great nations. . . .

"It is a military alliance of four great powers—three of them great aggressor powers."

[Flynn said China could not at present be considered in the list of powers customarily called the Big Five.]

Asserting that all the four great powers he mentioned except the United States are aggressors, he listed their wars. Nineteenth century: Great Britain, 28; France, 23; Russia, 10. Twentieth century, up to the present war: Great Britain, 7; France, 6.

Flynn branded Germany and Japan as war makers, but said war cannot be ended by assuming that they are the only source of war. He said Germany, England, France, Russia, Italy, and Japan have asserted their rights to seize the lands of others.

Many Millions in Grip

"They have all done this," he said, "and all of them still hold by force hundreds of millions of people against their wills. . . . You will never get rid of war until those aggressor nations, the nations which have committed aggressions and still hold the fruits of their aggressions, are brought to renounce this amoral and criminal privilege. . . .

"War can come only from Russia, France, or Great Britain. No other power in Europe has the power to wage war. But there is nothing in this charter that can stop these aggressors."

Flynn said the two great causes of war are imperialism and the great ideological struggle under way in every country.

"Europe has been liberated from Hitler," he said. "But it has not been liberated from Fascism or that other dark tyranny we know as Communism. Can any one believe the free capitalist system or representative government is to have any place in any part of the continent of Europe?

Peace Up to Europe

"If Europe wants peace, she can get it. If she doesn't, there is nothing we can do about it. . . .

Flynn branded Russia "the most complete despotism the world has ever known," and quoted the late President Roosevelt as saying:

"The soviet union . . . is a dictatorship as absolute as any other dictatorship in the world."

Flynn said Russia could not have won her military victory over Germany without the aid of "capitalist America." In a clash with Sen. Tunnell [D., Del.], who asked if Flynn thought Russia had not helped the United States in the war, Flynn answered:

"Russia has been helping herself, and in the process our path has been made easier."

Tribute to Propaganda

"The American people has been sold this plan," Flynn said. "You can't listen to a horse opera [cowboy drama] or a hillbilly band on the radio without hearing a plug for it. As one who has been watching propaganda many years, I take off my hat to the propagandists."

Among those who urged ratification of the charter today were William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Martin H. Miller, representing the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Philip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, sent a statement recommending ratification, as did Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

John Foster Dulles, who advised the American delegation to the San Francisco conference in the framing of the charter, told the committee:

"The document before you charts a path which we can follow joyfully and without fear. We remain the master of our own destiny."

Norman Thomas, socialist leader, recommended ratification, "not because I believe it an adequate basis for lasting peace," but because he said it would place the United States in a better position to lead in the direction of peace.

WORLD IS RULED BY TOOTH AND CLAW: ROBERTS

Phoenixville, Pa., July 13 (AP)—Asserting the united nations charter has "no teeth," Owen J. Roberts, retiring United States Supreme court justice, told his fellow townsmen it is up to the American people to lead the way toward "uniting the democratic peoples of the earth."

In his first public appearance since his retirement was announced by President Truman at a meeting sponsored by 39 organizations. Roberts denied last night the existence of "international law."

"The only law between nations," he said, "is the law of tooth and claw."

CONGRESS VOTES 769 MILLIONS TO 19 AGENCIES

BY LAURENCE BURD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13—The disputed war agencies' appropriations bill, which has been tied up in congress for six weeks, finally was passed by both houses today and sent to the White House.

Adoption of the measure, granting 769 million dollars to 19 agencies, wound up appropriations for the fiscal year which began July 1. It brought total funds voted by congress at this session to 66 billion 900 million 236 thousand dollars.

Congressional leaders said the bill will be flown to President Truman, who is en route to Potsdam, for his signature, so some 100,000 federal workers may receive their pay checks on time.

OWI to Get 35 Millions

A last minute move by house Republicans to cut the allotment for the office of war information to 18 millions was defeated, 140-58. The house and senate then concurred in the conference committee's recommendation of 35 million dollars for OWI, or 7 millions less than the President's budget bureau recommended.

The measure also includes $250,000 for operation of the fair employment practices committee, with a proviso that the agency must be liquidated by next July 1, unless its continuance is authorized by legislation. The FEPC was allotted $456,000 last year. Attempts by FEPC opponents to cut off all funds for the agency had deadlocked the entire war agencies' fund bill since early last month.

A house rider inserted into the bill and accepted today by the senate broadens the groups of farm labor which are exempt from war labor board rulings as to wages and other labor disputes.

May Recess Soon

Classes of labor exempted from WLB rulings by the proviso include workers engaged in packing, storing, grading, and rural processing of farm products. These groups, like farm workers, will henceforth be governed by wage rulings of the war food administration.

House leaders announced after today's session that virtually all pending major legislation has been disposed of and that the house probably will take a summer recess, starting late next week and continuing until about Oct. 1. The senate will continue in session for some time, however, to consider the San Francisco charter and the Bretton Woods world financial establishment, which already has been approved by the house.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

July 14—Japan Opened to Trade

Ninety-two years ago today, on July 14, 1853, at the seaside village of Kurihama, Japan, Commodore Matthew Calbraith Perry and 300 armed Americans came ashore with great pomp to deliver to representatives of the emperor of Japan a letter from President Fillmore of the United States requesting a commercial treaty. Thus ended a period of more than 200 years during which Japan shunned intercourse with the outside world.

The American fleet of four ships had been in Japanese waters for six days. One minor Japanese official after another had tried to get rid of the intruders. The Americans made it plain that they would treat only with the highest officials.

Perry sent word at one point that if a proper person were not appointed to receive the President's letter, he would go ashore with the necessary force and deliver it regardless of consequences.

The Japanese wearied. Two representatives of the emperor, Princes Idzu and Iwami, made it known that they would receive Perry in a pavilion on the shore.

About 11 a. m. on July 14 Perry left his ship and was ferried in state to the beach, where his escort of sailors and musicians already had landed. With thousands of Japanese gaping, a band struck up a tune [one account says it was "Hail Columbia"], and the file moved toward the pavilion. The visitors were outnumbered about 17 to 1 by the armed guards their hosts had thrown about the meeting place.

The actual ceremony was an anticlimax. The two princes rose as Perry entered and exchanged bows with him. President Fillmore's letter and other official documents were delivered. Perry, trying to be friendly, said that he was leaving soon for Loochoo and China and would take along any letters his hosts desired to send. Silence was the only response. Perry then announced he would return the following year, and withdrew.

Perry returned early in 1854, and at Yokohama on March 31 the United States and Japan concluded a treaty which opened Nippon to trade with America. Eighty-seven years and a few months later Pearl Harbor awakened to her fearful Sunday.

REPORT BRITAIN BACKS RUSSIA'S TURK DEMANDS

Londoners Hear Eden Breaks the News

BY E. R. NODERER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 13—The Turkish foreign minister, Hasan Saka, was told in London this week that the British will support Russian demands for a share of the control of the Dardanelles and the Bosporus, according to reports in diplomatic circles tonight.

Saka stopped in London en route to Ankara from San Francisco, Cal., to sound out the British on their attitude toward demands the soviet government was understood to have made following denunciation of the Turco-Soviet friendship pact by the Kremlin on March 21.

Eden Delivers the News

At a conference Wednesday, Foreign Secretary Eden is said to have told Saka that Britain would not oppose a meeting of the signatories to the Montreux convention to discuss the revision of Turkish rights in the Dardanelles, and that Britain will back Russia if the meeting is held.

Eden was understood to have told Saka Britain's position on the proposed return of the border provinces of Kars and Ardahan to Russia. If the matter is to be decided by negotiation between the countries, Eden is reported to have said, Britain will act as mediator if requested, or will attempt to induce President Truman to mediate.

Back Beds on Balkans

The British also will support Russia's demands for a revision of Turkey's Balkan frontier in favor of Bulgaria and Greece in order to give Russia the right of passage over a railroad thru Adrianople to the Aegean port of Dede Agach, diplomatic circles said.

Foreign Minister Saka has informed Najib Armanazi, Syrian minister to London, that Turkey has no claims on Syria. He told Armanazi that reports that Russia had suggested Turkey take Aleppo as compensation for the border provinces Russia wants were untrue.

2 EX-SOLDIERS AND PAL HELD IN AUTO THEFT

Three men, two of them discharged soldiers, were held to the Cook county grand jury in bonds of $2,000 each by Judge William V. Daly in Felony court yesterday on charges of larceny of an automobile. They are George Lagios, 25, of 904 Belmont av.; Merlin Baucchens, 24, of 3518 N. Clark st., and Edward Sargis, 19, of 2944 Broadway. The defendants were arrested by detectives who curbed the stolen automobile at Arlington pl. and Lake View av. after a five mile chase. The automobile was stolen in front of 3750 Lake Shore dr. Baucchens and Lagios were formerly in the army, and Baucchens said he was discharged for being AWOL.

ARMY VANGUARD GIVEN WORK ON TWO RAILROADS

65,000 Also Sought in Civilian Ranks

Six soldiers, vanguard of 4,000 troops to be assigned to special duty with the railroads for the duration of the transportation crisis, began work yesterday in two Chicago railroad shops. Meanwhile, railroad and army officials redoubled their efforts to recruit 65,000 additional workers from civilian ranks.

The soldiers, given 30 day duty furloughs, were assigned to the Santa Fe and Burlington shops. Their furloughs will be continued if their services are still needed after 30 days. The 4,000 soldiers, all railroad men, will be assigned to the 42 lines operating out of Chicago on which they have had experience.

Assigned to the Santa Fe shops are Pvt. Wallace I. Hamilton, Garrison, N. Y., former New York Central diesel machinist; Pvt. Albert Alson, New York, diesel electrician, and Pvt. John W. Davis, Sunnyvale, Cal., diesel machinist. At the Burlington shops are Robert Jones, Eaton, O., technician 5/c; Pvt. John C. Ranson, Lynchburg, Va., and Corp. Charles J. Hodson, Indianapolis, all shop electricians.

2,500 Workers Recruited

Col. I. Sewell Morris, commanding officer of the 6th transportation zone, said more than 2,500 railroad workers had been recruited in the last six weeks at the railway retirement board office, 409 Washington blvd., but reported immediate need in Chicago of 115 shop men and 40 engine and road workers.

Elimination of Pullman cars on runs of 450 miles or less, effective tomorrow, will bring some relief in the military transportation situation within 30 days, but civilians can expect no improvement for at least six months, H. W. Siddall, chairman of the Western and Transcontinental Passenger associations, reported yesterday.

Civilian Relief Deferred

Delivery of an order of 1,200 military sleepers is expected to start in September, Siddall said. Peak of the traffic in redeployment of troops from the European to Pacific theaters is expected in December or January, and little relief for civilian travel is likely until after that date.

Removal of Pullman cars from the shorter rail runs is one of a number of traffic restrictions that began Oct. 4, 1942, when railroads were ordered to eliminate all special trains, cars, and equipments.

Last March 23, all resort trains and vacation travel were banned. July 1, the practice of granting train reservations 30 days ahead of travel time was restricted to a 5 day reservation limit.

Railroad officials said the latest order on Pullman travel will increase the already crowded conditions of coaches, but will provide more sleeping space for military personnel traveling to or from the Pacific theater.

CIVILIAN TRAVEL MAY BE CUT 1,000 PULLMANS MORE

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—Another 1,000 sleeper cars may be taken out of civilian service within the next three months.

This figure was mentioned today as the office of defense transportation considered its next step to provide more sleepers for troops moving across the country.

Actual mechanics of obtaining the cars have not been decided upon. However, beginning at noon Sunday, railroads and the Pullman company will not operate sleepers on routes of 450 miles or less. This will remove 895 cars from civilian service.

The withdrawal of another 1,000 would leave only about 1,500 in civilian service.

In Chicago the Pullman company said the removals would affect 423 intercity lines and "would place 66 per cent of the sleeping cars in the country at the disposal of the armed forces."

DRESSING TIME DENIED BAKING UNION BY RWLB

The regional war labor board has disapproved a proposal to pay 1,222 employes in four Chicago plants of the National Biscuit company for 15 minutes' dressing time a day, Edgar L. Warren, chairman, said yesterday.

Altho the proposal had been agreed upon by the company and the Factory Baker's union, local 100, the board held that payment for dressing time was not customary in the baking industry.

The board approved a proposed bonus plan at the Johnson & Johnson gas mask division to compensate incentive workers for loss of earnings during a reconversion period. The plan involved 695 employes. A proposed bonus plan for plant guards, janitors, janitresses, maintenance department and cafeteria employes was denied, however.

ODT Asks U. S. Officials to Reduce Their Travels

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The office of defense transportation today asked government agencies to reduce travel by officials and employes. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, wrote agencies suggesting that government officials discontinue group meetings in Washington and elsewhere.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Art Kreitzer, 5127 Laflin st.]

THE QUESTION

WHERE ASKED
Clark and Madison sts.

THE ANSWERS

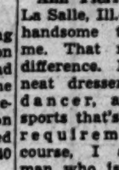
Arlene Meyer, assembly work, Peru, Ill.—I am attracted by a man who is tall and has dark hair. I prefer brown or green eyes. Most of all he must be a real he-man—not tough but rough and yet gentle. After getting acquainted if I discover he's not intelligent and ambitious he wouldn't interest me.

Jean Sayers, stenographer, 2720 Coyle av.—The kind of a man I go for is one who is tall, dark, handsome, and has a magnetic personality. A nice smile always appeals to me. I like the kind of a man who attracts all the girls but pays attention only to me. Eyes are so important—they must be sparkling, laughing, talking eyes.

Ann Pierro, general office work, La Salle, Ill.—He doesn't have to be handsome to attract me. That makes no difference. If he's a neat dresser, a good dancer, and likes sports that's the main requirement. Of course, I admire a man who is brilliant. And I much prefer the home type rather than a runabout.

Betty Plehn, student, Belmont hotel, Belmont av. and Sheridan rd.—I like handsome men but that's not essential. My type of man must be tall, full of fun, witty, and unpredictable. Besides being gay he must have a sense of responsibility. I know as soon as I meet a man whether or not I like him.

June Skinner, reservation clerk, 6251 Magnolia av.—A quiet, friendly type of man is most appealing to me. I like a man with a baby face, tall, dark, and handsome with twinkling eyes. This kind of person is usually generous, thoughtful, and a deep thinker. He never jumps at conclusions, is cool, calculating, and interesting.



Sarah Cargo, comptometer operator, Wilkinsburg, Pa.—I've always liked men who have dark hair and blue eyes. It's a very attractive combination. A bass voice is pleasant and is an asset to any man, in my estimation. But all men are different and it's hard to say which of the various types I prefer.

B GAS COUPONS SLOWED UP BY BIGGER QUOTAS

Issuance of B gasoline coupons has been slowed this month for two reasons, James F. Riley, acting director of the Chicago area office of price administration, said yesterday. July 1, the renewal date for coupons, also was the renewal date for truck gasoline coupons, he said. In addition, most drivers applied for increased allowances under the recent order increasing the B ration from 475 to 650 gallons a month. Altho it has taken longer than the usual 10 days for most local boards to handle the applications this month, the majority of drivers have received their allotments, Riley said.

LET DEALER SEE RATION BOOK OR YOU MIGHT LOSE

Chicago food dealers were told by the office of price administration yesterday to accept only ration stamps torn from books in their presence. The OPA said the recently instituted test by which grocers and butchers dip stamps into a chemical solution is being abandoned because counterfeiters now are using paper with the watermark that formerly was found only in genuine coupons. The OPA said there have been no known instances of counterfeiters assembling stamps into books.

POLICE EXPLAIN KILLING IN AUTO: TOO MUCH TALK

Morris Margolis, liquor dealer and erstwhile handbook operator under federal indictment on an alcohol tax evasion charge, who was assassinated early yesterday on the west side, talked too much. That was the informal police explanation last night of his murder. But what he talked about was something no one knew.

About three months ago, detectives recalled, Margolis opened a handbook and a tavern in Broadway, near Belmont av., but was quickly put out of business by Capt. John Howe of the Sheffield av. station. Not however, before his handbook had been held up.

Margolis squawked loudly about this. That, some investigators held, was his big fault. He talked too much, which is poison in the racket world. Things recently were going poorly with him, one report suggested, and he may have talked or threatened to talk, or some hoodlums may have feared he might talk.

Found 5 Hours After Death

Margolis, who was 30 and lived at 4300 Marine dr. with his wife, Doris, a former showgirl, and his infant son, Hal, was found slumped over the steering wheel of his flashy sedan in front of 1622 Ontario st. about 6:30 a. m. yesterday. He had been dead about five hours.

One shot had been fired into the back of his head, a second had pierced his panama hat, and a third had struck a seat of his car. On the back seat police found a towel bearing apparent lipstick stains. On the floor were three quarters. His pockets were turned inside out. His wrist watch was gone. Also gone was $1,000 which he was known to have been carrying a few hours earlier.

Father-in-Law Tells of $1,000

Police said that Margolis received the $1,000 Thursday night from his father-in-law, E. J. Van Hoff of the Surf hotel. Van Hoff, a New Yorker, said that the money was given to him by a business man to deliver to Margolis in payment of a just debt. He refused to identify the man.

Margolis left his father-in-law, said he was going to meet Ben, and a short time later met Ben Scott, 42, of 1440 Warner av., at State and Division sts. Scott said he met Margolis by chance, not by appointment. With Scott was a young woman, whose name he refused to give. The three had ice cream in an Oak st. candy shop, he said, and Margolis left them at 10:30 p. m.

Police also questioned Margolis' widow, his sister, Mrs. Mollie Cossidente, and her husband, George, of 5513 Jackson blvd., but derived little information beyond the widow's admission that Margolis sometimes operated handbooks.

Police Theories Conflict

Police theories conflicted. Capt. John J. Enright of N. Racine av. police held to robbery as the probable motive. Detective Chief Walter Storms said that Margolis had dabbled in blacket market liquor and nylon as well as handbooks, and that racketeering of some sort caused the slaying.

Margolis, once was chauffeur for Joe Fusco, former chief brewer for the Capone mob. Principally he was a liquor dealer.

Liquor brought about his federal troubles. On June 1 he was reindicted on an old charge of giving false information to the federal alcohol tax division about 1,600 cases of booze. Also indicted were Peter Licovali, George Massu and Sam Stein, all of Detroit, Edward Weaner and Weaner's Peerless Distributing Co., Inc.

CAR BUILDERS STRIKE; HALT IN OUTPUT DENIED

A strike by 150 welders and fitters at the Pressed Steel Car company, 13520 Brandon av., went into its third day yesterday, with the company contending that production had not been interrupted.

Officers of local 166, United Automobile Workers [CIO], asserted 550 additional employes of the plant were not working and the company had only a skeleton force of laborers and sweepers on the job. The welders and fitters walked out, a union officer said, when their piece work rate was reduced.

A company spokesman said the union had not notified it of any strike and asserted the company did not know any was in progress. He said the company formerly employed 4,200 persons in making tanks and now employs 1,500 in making gun carriages.

GIRL BURNED IN EXPLOSION

Miss June Donnelly, 17, of 4829 Winthrop av., was taken to the County hospital yesterday after she was seriously burned by an explosion of gas in the kitchen of her apartment.

CLIPPER TAKES 60 CARS ACROSS LAKE MICHIGAN

The Milwaukee Clipper left Chicago late last night for Muskegon, Mich., with a cargo of nearly 60 automobiles and more than 400 passengers who will spend a weekend or more at Michigan resorts.

On the other side of the lake they will have the use of gasoline which but for the car ferrying service would have been needed to carry them 207 miles around the lower end of the lake. In addition, wear and tear on tires and car are saved. The trip across is 140 miles.

The weekly car ferrying service of the Clipper has interested city officials, transportation executives and others in the possible use of LSTs [landing tank ships] as car ferries after the war. The LSTs are considered perfect for this job. The Clipper leaves Friday nights from the north bank of the Chicago river just east of the Michigan av. bridge.

Pays Back 1st of 32 Pints of Blood That Saved Life

Former Lt. Roy Wagner, 30, of 5543 N. Sawyer av. celebrated his first day as a civilian yesterday by donating a pint of blood to the Red Cross to help repay the 27 pints of whole blood and five pints of plasma that saved his life in France a year ago. Wagner was struck by machine gun fire in the left leg, hand, and arm, necessitating the amputation of the leg.

FLY URGES FREE FLOW OF NEWS TO GUARD PEACE

Peace will not be possible unless freedom of communication is established thruout the world, James Lawrence Fly, former chairman of the federal communications commission, asserted yesterday at the University of Chicago. He addressed the 21st institute of the Harris Foundation, which is devoted to a discussion of the organization of peace and security.

James L. Fly

Altho hailing the united nations charter as promising, Fly noted that the guarantee of freedom of communications is lacking as it was in the Versailles treaty. He warned that peace cannot endure unless freedom for expression and exchange of ideas is established.

"Reporters should be free to roam the world," said Fly, "without restriction or impediment and without normal visa or passport requirements," and with "a sort of diplomatic status."

Transit Authority Suits Joined; Hearing Thursday

Circuit Judge Julius Miner yesterday set Thursday for hearing on a motion by Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman, to strike two suits challenging the constitutionality of the Chicago Transit authority, which were filed by Asst. State's Atty. Jacob Shamberg. On Schroeder's motion the two suits, one attacking the authority's legality and the other seeking to enjoin the city from spending a $100,000 appropriation on its operation, were combined.

BLITZING BIRDS ATTACK AGAIN— AND BOB IS MAD

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

Robert Wiersig would rather be henpecked any day. As it is, he is a victim of a bird blitz, the like of which hasn't been heard of since an albatross got sassy with a poetical old salt.

For the last three or four days, however, Wiersig has been more haunted than the ancient mariner by a pair of hawks which evidently don't like the part in his hair. He thinks they are nighthawks, altho he has other names for them.

Last night, after the birds made four more dive bombing attacks on him and the dog, Sandy, in his yard at 2344 N. California av., Wiersig really got mad. He set four big rat traps baited with meat for his feuding friends.

They Haunt His Thoughts

"I hope they break their necks," he explained. "I'm a physical wreck. I haven't been able to work for three days. All I can think about is those birds diving at me every night. They sound like a bus stripping its gears."

Wiersig believes that the birds, which are grayish white with stripes on wings that have a spread of about two feet, were antagonized when he and a friend were working on the roof of his garage.

"I thought maybe we disturbed their nest or something, but I couldn't find one," he explained. "I know they dived so close to me that I had to swing on them with my cane."

Bird Dinner Coming Up

Wiersig has done everything to protect himself except dig a foxhole. He called the police, the city hall, and the Audubon society. The police came, but the birds stayed away until the squad car drove off. Then the birds came over again on their umpteenth mission.

The birds have a morale shattering technique. They float lazily in the air and then suddenly dive at their target with the throttles wide open. A reporter left the Wiersig yard last night with something close to the palsy.

"When I catch those birds I'm going to have a fine hawk dinner," Wiersig insisted. "First, however, I'm going to christen the big one. I'll name him after Poe's raven. I'll call him 'Nevermore.'"

WPB O. K.'S 9,000 CABS, CHICAGO'S QUOTA INCLUDED

Washington, D. C., July 13 [Special]—The war production board today approved the production of 9,000 limousine-type taxicabs by March 31, 1946, for distribution in Chicago, New York, and San Francisco, Cal.

This quota of specially built automobiles, designed to meet certain municipal specifications for public taxicabs, will be made in addition to the 691,018 passenger cars authorized for the same nine month period. Four thousand cabs will be made by the end of this year and 5,000 more in the first three months of 1946.

The WPB said production of these taxicabs is being permitted to meet the neds of the domestic civilian economy, primarily in these cities with larger railroad terminals.

The Checker Cab company and the De Soto division of the Chrysler corporation will divide equally the 4,000 cab quota for the remainder of this year. The production of 5,000 in the first quarter of 1946 will be shared as follows: Checker Cab company, 2,200; De Soto division of Chrysler, 2,000; and Packard corporation, 800.

EXPECT 25% CUT IN SUGAR SUPPLY LATE THIS YEAR

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—Civilian supplies of sugar for the last three months of this year may drop 25 per cent under the low allotment for the current July-September quarter, food officials said today.

The agriculture department and the office of price administration reported retail stores in some sections have run out of sugar and are unable to honor ration coupons.

The supply situation was said to be very tight in many sections east of the Mississippi river and somewhat easier west of the Mississippi.

This difference is accounted for largely by the fact that east and west coasts depend in a large measure on imported cane sugar, while the region west of the Mississippi depends principally on beet sugar produced in that area.

An overall shortage of nearly 3 million tons of sugar was reported.

ORIGINATOR OF CANNING

Appert, a Paris chef, originated canning. His method was to place sealed bottles containing the food in a water bath and then bring the water to the boiling point.

GROUND BROKEN FOR ILL. TECH'S $300,000 BUILDING

Warren S. Witus of Detroit, Mich., apprentice seaman, broke ground yesterday for the $300,000 naval science building of the Illinois Institute of Technology to be erected at 32d st. between State and Dearborn sts. Addresses were made by President Henry T. Heald and Lt. Royal F. Sessions, commanding officer of the V-12 unit. The new science building will be the first unit to be constructed in a 10 million dollar campus development program. It will house a naval reserve officer training corps upon its completion about Feb. 1, 1946. The next units to be built will be a $350,000 humanities building and a $600,000 metallurgy and chemical engineering building, Dr. Heald said.

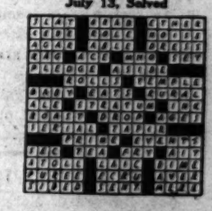
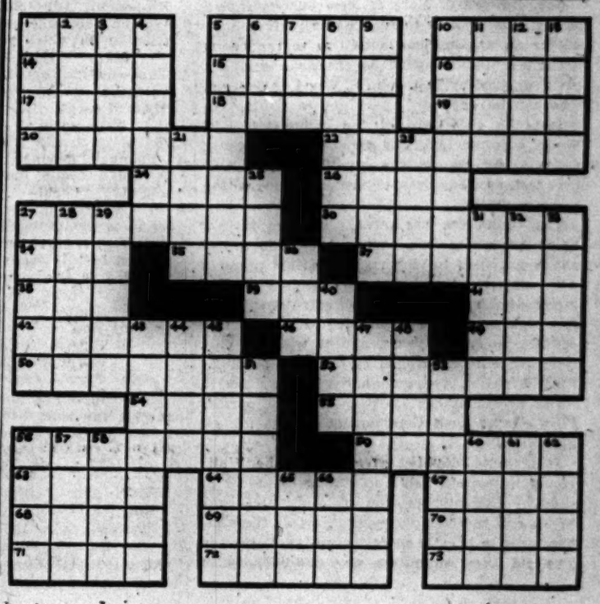
Puzzle of Friday, July 13, Solved





Chicago Daily Tribune
THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FOUNDED JUNE 10, 1847

S ★★ SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1945.

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER MAY 14, 1903, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters, and pictures sent to The Tribune are sent at the owner's risk, and The Tribune company expressly repudiates any liability or responsibility for their safe custody or return.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS ALL THE ANSWERS

Our government sent six men and a woman as delegates to the recent conference at San Francisco, but when members of the foreign relations committee of the senate want to find out what is in the treaty they don't ask the delegates. The questions are directed to Mr. Leo Pasvolsky, a Russian born official in the state department, who is described as the man who knows more about the document than anybody else.

Mr. Stettinius headed the delegation, presided at a good many of the public sessions and at all the backroom conferences. The hearings in Washington started, appropriately enough, with a lengthy statement read by Mr. Stettinius, but apparently written by Mr. Pasvolsky. When the time came to ask questions Mr. Stettinius gracefully yielded the center of the stage to the same Mr. Pasvolsky, who knows all the answers.

This is more than a little odd. Mr. Pasvolsky's expertism is said to result from the fact that he wrote the original draft of the treaty, but that was quite a long time ago and his work meanwhile has undergone considerable modification. Nobody has yet explained why the department entrusted the drafting of this document to a foreign born functionary, whose training has been in economics rather than diplomacy. It is even more curious that the natives among our delegates, two of whom are members of the senate committee, did not assert for themselves the right of interpretation.

The diffidence—if that is the word for it—of Mr. Connally and Mr. Vandenberg, to say nothing of Mr. Stettinius and the rest, has given the country the impression that it is really Mr. Pasvolsky's treaty, not theirs; that he understands it and they don't; that men with a good deal of experience in foreign affairs who were themselves participants in the negotiations have only an incomplete grasp of the content and purpose of this intricate and difficult document. They were at San Francisco, it appears, to assist him rather than he to assist them.

As Mr. Pasvolsky seems to be the only man who knows what it is all about, perhaps somebody sooner or later will ask him where the charter leaves the subject peoples. If any of the enslaved nations rises against its British, French, Dutch, or Russian oppressor are we bound to fight against the cause of freedom? Or is a distinction made between the subjects of the three western colonial powers on the one hand and the victims of Russian aggression on the other?

At any rate, as matters stand, it appears that this country is being asked to approve a treaty which only one man, and he foreign born, fully understands.

MEANS OF AGGRESSION

The debates on the San Francisco charter bring to mind the truism that it is always the diplomats who start wars and the soldiers who have to finish them.

Such security as the people of the United States can look forward to they possess as the result of the application of America's military power. Such future conflicts as menace them seem most likely to arise out of the machinations of the proposed world council, whose rules have been carefully drafted to protect the only nations capable of world-wide aggression, while still subjecting American parents to the hazards that their sons can be sent off to battle anywhere in the world at the behest of other nations.

An aggressor must have the means as well as the will to break the peace. Our flyers have made a peace that will last a long time. The physical damage inflicted on Germany is such that, with the further handicaps imposed on a conquered nation, it may well take 50 years to rebuild the economy of that nation. Judging from the reports from Guam, Japan will be as long in recovering, if indeed it ever does recover.

Among the allies, French imperialism is at the moment little more than a figment of De Gaulle's pretensions. France requires not merely the reconstruction of the bombed-out ports and bridges, and the renewal of industrial plant, but the moral and physical regeneration as well of a population shamefully defeated in war and seriously weakened in man power by nearly four years of German slavery.

If our politicians would stop bleeding America white for the benefit of Britain and Russia, those countries, too, might become peace loving nations. England is a bankrupt in everything but the admission, and Russia has suffered damage which it may well take a generation to repair. Prudent statesmen, facing such internal problems, do not think of imperialistic adventures, and the foolhardy who would turn to war as an escape from insoluble internal problems find that the means essential to success in such desperate adventures are not at hand.

America has nothing to fear from the rest of the world for many years to come unless we place in the hands of others the weapons that can be turned against us.

PLENTY TO INVESTIGATE

Rep. Edward J. Hart of New Jersey, choice of the New Dealers to reduce the revived committee on un-American activities to innocuous desuetude, has resigned as chairman and has been replaced by Rep. John S. Wood of Georgia, who can be depended upon not to attempt to defeat the objectives of the committee. Mr. Wood, a former solicitor general and judge in Georgia, brings obvious qualifications to his new task and has been outspoken in opposition to communism.

The committee has already charted several fields for exploration, among them the propaganda purposes to which some motion pictures are being lent, and can be expected to find many other matters worthy of attention. There has been no lack of subversive activity in this country in recent years, and it was not only tolerated but encouraged by the New Deal. As Earl Browder, the communist leader, put it, "The President has learned the value of rubbing elbows with Communists in friendly cooperation."

It is to be doubted greatly that the White House in present hands is willing to use or be used by Communists, and certainly there will be an end to attempts on the part of the chief executive to belittle and discredit investigations. The old Dies committee was handicapped by the hostility manifested in high places. The new permanent committee goes to work under Mr. Wood with a much more promising chance of being able to accomplish the duties which the house has commissioned it to perform.

BILLIONS OF RED POINTS

Russia is not fighting any war now, but American shipments of meat and other scarce foodstuffs to the Russians continue. During the current quarter Russia will receive among other items 25 million pounds of meat, 2 million pounds of cheese, and an equal tonnage of dried milk.

London newspapers have just headlined the news that the United States is to resume lend-lease shipments of meat to Great Britain. Our lend-lease administrators are going to give the British a quarter of a billion pounds of meat in the last quarter of the year. Altho this is more than a fifth of that country's total civilian consumption for the period, one London commentator remarked that the shipment "is not a large quantity" in view of American production.

The OPA is making a great hullaballoo over black markets and the counterfeiting of ration stamps in an effort to explain to American housewives why they haven't enough red points to give their families meat once a day, and very frequently can't find the meat even when they have the red points. The gifts to the British and the Russians would represent something more than a billion and a half red points if American housewives had to shell out for the same quantity over butchers' counters. It is doubtful that all the ration coupon counterfeiters in the country have circulated fraudulent stamps for a tenth or even a hundredth of this quantity of meat.

It was announced soon after V-E day that lend-lease to Russia was to cease immediately. The foreign economic administration, however, goes right ahead depriving Americans of food to supply our noncombatant "ally." It was also announced that, because of the meat shortage, meat shipments to England would be stopped. There is scant prospect of improvement in the domestic supply, but lend-lease authorities have already arranged to resume these gifts also.

Obviously, these gentlemen in the Washington bureaus have small regard for the health or well-being of their fellow Americans. They have a very vital interest, however, in sticking on the federal pay roll. The agencies which employ them were organized to give things away. If they stopped giving things away the bureaucrats would be out of a job, and they are taking no chance that such a horrid fate overtakes them. They might have to go to work in a war plant or even shoulder a rifle against the Japs.

Obviously the United States is going to be bled for the benefit of a hungry and rapacious world so long as congress permits these agencies to live. Contrary statements of official policy have no weight with them when their own jobs are in the balance.

NEGRO RIGHTS IN UNIONS

An AFL union in a Richmond tobacco plant employing both whites and Negroes segregated its Negro members in a separate local. The practice was presented for review to the national labor relations board when a CIO union attempted to organize the same plant. The labor board was asked to declare the general principle that a union which segregates its members because of race, or which refuses to accept Negro members, cannot be certified as a bargaining agent under the Wagner act.

The board refused to do this, asserting that it was not empowered by congress to take such action. It is refreshing to find the NLRB admitting, at this late hour, that there is anything that it cannot do because of a mere lack of congressional authority, but the action could hardly have been taken in a worse cause.

The labor board did hold that any union certified as a bargaining agent must represent all employes equally, regardless of their race or whether they are union members. In this the board did no more than follow the mandate of the Supreme court in the recent case of Negro locomotive firemen on southern railroads.

By its refusal to lay down the general principle that a union that discriminates among its members because of race cannot be certified as a bargaining agency the board demonstrated once more what has been apparent from the inception of the Wagner act—namely: That that law, as written and administered, was not for the benefit of working people or even of union members, but for the benefit of unions as organizations and of union bosses.

The board's finding has served, however, to call once again to the attention of congress that the law should be amended to penalize racial discrimination by unions. The remedy can be applied by congress and it will be far more effective than the fair employment practices commission has been or can be.

Among the questions received from readers of this Little Lectures series there are two which we shall try to answer briefly today—How can I become a modern poet? and How can I be a poet laureate?

To conserve space we will now write a modern poem which will simultaneously explain and illustrate the technique.

To become a poet laureate the simplest plan, we think, is the one successfully used by a man named Henry James Pye, who became poet laureate to George III. of England by rescuing the king's wig when it was blown off on a hunting trip. Having thus earned his laurels, Mr. Pye retained them by writing the following lines:

Hail, mighty Monarch! whom desert alone
Would, without birthright, raise up to the throne;
Thy virtues shine particularly nice,
Ungloomed with a confinity to vice.

We doubt that England's present George would fall for such stuff, no matter what happened to his wig [if he has a wig]. As for the Line, Mr. Pye couldn't tempt us with a new Panama hat.

[On Monday, since our poets are now trained, we shall discuss The Rich Rewards of Poetic Effort.]

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

Mrs. S. writes: "My husband, who is stationed on Luson, writes that he has signed his discharge paper with 90 points. How long after signing this paper will it be before he is home? Will he ever be drafted again?"

What your husband signed was his adjusted service rating card which showed he has a score of 90 points toward discharge. Whether he will be sent home at an early date for discharge will depend on the needs of the army for his services and the availability of a replacement. Many men with well over 85 points, the minimum for discharge, have no chance for early discharge because their military occupational specialties are high on the army's priority list of services needed in the Pacific fighting. After your husband is discharged he may not again be drafted without special authority of the war department.

Mrs. E. G. writes: "I have a son in service who will be discharged in a short time. How long after discharge may he wear his uniform?"

Men discharged from military service are entitled to wear their uniforms from the place of discharge to their homes, provided they go home within three months. Men who have received final discharge also must attach the honorable discharge emblem permanently to their outer clothing, including shirts if no blouse is worn.

DOES CHRONIC APPENDICITIS EXIST?

PHYSICIANS are acquainted with the tricks that the appendix can play and all agree that when it is acutely inflamed, removal is in order. For one reason or another, some cases have escaped the knife. Perhaps that all night siege of pain about the navel or lower right side began to subside before medical care was sought. With another, symptoms were mild and, altho the doctor was suspicious, he believed that the findings were insufficient to warrant surgery at that time. He suggested reëxamination at six hour intervals. When regression was noted, the operation was called off indefinitely.

Then there is the individual who refuses to undergo the procedure even tho warned of the consequences. When luck is with him, the disorder rights itself spontaneously.

What happens? The appendix may heal completely just as inflammation in the tonsils does, or it may smolder and the organ becomes thickened, obstructed, or bound down by adhesions. Tenderness or aching persists and indigestion may be observed. This is so-called chronic appendicitis and the structure is taken out ultimately, either at the patient's leisure or during a subsequent flare-up. According to one prominent American surgeon, 92 per cent of a series of 130 such subjects were improved in this manner.

This should be contrasted with a group of 225 patients who never encountered an acute attack, but the appendix had been removed because it was considered to be a source of trouble. Many of these sufferers also gave a history of jitteriness, fatigue, or a nervous breakdown. In a few, the structure was thought to be the disturbing influence for a disorder elsewhere, such as duodenal ulcer, migraine, diarrhea, gall bladder disease, or constipation.

Of the lot, only two persons were benefited. These results demonstrate why we hesitate to make a diagnosis of chronic appendicitis in one who does not remember having had a previous attack.

The victim of abdominal distress naturally asks, "If it's not my appendix, what is it?" The query can be answered only after a careful study. With some, discomfort originates in the wall and is due to neuralgia, which may be associated with a disturbance of the spine. Arthritis or faulty posture may be responsible. Occasionally one leg is shorter than its fellow, causing a slight tilt in the backbone and pressure on the nerve roots. The resultant pain may be felt in the lower abdominal region. By building up the shoe on that side, relief is obtained.

The organs in the vicinity of the appendix may be at fault. Ulcers, diverticula, bowel obstructions, and kidney stones are possibilities. The first part of the large intestine, from which the appendix extends, is a frequent offender. It may become irritable or spastic thru improper diet, overfatigue, worry, or the inability to cope with the problems of the day. One of my colleagues develops this manifestation after working at top speed for several months. For him, pain in the lower right side is a warning signal for a much needed vacation.

Chronic appendicitis does exist, but it usually follows an acute bout. Without this experience its presence should be questioned before unnecessary surgery is performed.

RESTORATION

M. A. writes: What are the benefits of a vacation?

REPLY

Rest and a change of scenery. Like clocks, we all run down and need rewinding.

NOT LIKELY

F. S. writes: On recovery from meningitis are any muscles left paralyzed?

REPLY

CLIPPING BABY'S HAIR

Mrs. Y. writes: How old should a baby be before his hair is cut?

REPLY

DOGS DON'T

E. R. writes: Do dogs perspire?

REPLY

No, they lack sweat glands. Cooling off is achieved by means of panting.

TIP OF SOFT PALATE

C. W. writes: What part does the uvula serve in the body?

REPLY

This tail, which hangs into the mouth from the soft palate, has no function that we know of.

Selective Audience

The New York newspaper carriers' strike may be over by the time this sees print, but in the midst of it Harry Hansen, the critic, wrote Frederick Babcock, our book editor: "I am now writing for the Limited Editions club, a body of very brave men who cross the picket lines to get a paper just to read me—or maybe they read the sports pages, too."

The Dignity of Man

The illustrated weekly, Polish Review, in a survey of Nazi concentration camps in Poland, says that of all the camps, the worst was Oswiecim in southeastern Poland.

Here a huge women's concentration camp was set up a year after the men's, the women's serial numbers [tattooed in blue on the right forearm] running into the eighty thousands by the beginning of 1944. Of these, 65,000 had died during the two preceding years. The Review published the picture of the 29,728th woman branded there. One of the stories she told was this:

Feminine modesty is a powerful moral factor, equivalent to the conception of feminine virtue. The Germans set out to destroy both it and honor in forcing all the women prisoners at Oswiecim to strip and march naked past their jailers. The long line started—girls, pregnant mothers, old and exhausted women, all scarlet with shame. An S.S. man called out jeeringly, "Forward the political ladies! Forward!" Men from the nearby men's camp were mending the road along which the procession marched. Their wives, sisters, and mothers passed only a few paces away. Without a word, these men turned in a body and stood with their backs to the road. None moved until the last woman had passed.

The New Intellectual

The old argument of environment vs. heredity [which?] will now come to an end. Today's case study is conclusive. Obadiah has settled it.

Obadiah is the office mouse who for some time has taken up residence in the corner where cultuah and cooking and cosmetics meet music and movies and literachure. Obadiah is never visible except at night. Then, as you are typing out breathless prose in an empty office, you get, suddenly, that company feeling. Some one, you tell yourself, is watching me. Obadiah is. His eyes are beady and wistful and full of ardent hope that you will throw that piece of paper you are writing on into the wastebasket so he can eat it and pick up the weight the paper shortage has kept from him. His attack is subtle, and his wish is father to your immediate act. The paper unfailingly is discarded, particularly by our Miss Cassidy, who keeps the latest hours. He has a way of careening thru her office just as she has pounced upon an evasive and juicy adjective to apply to the conducting of a person [here and hereafter nameless] which she has just fought thru. She naturally loses the adjective at once.

Well, that is the way he acts now, but when he first appeared in this intellectual cozy corner, Obadiah acted as all mice do. Stupidly. And that, friends, is where environment came in, for six months have made a new mouse of Obadiah. The results were manifest one night this week when he took refuge in a drawer of the movie editor's secretary's desk.

The movie editor's secretary is in an enviable war time position. She is the girl the movie press agents come to see, and they come bearing gifts. Do not mention, please, Timeo Danaos id donas ferentes, for the gifts are chocolate bars, plain or with nuts. She sits and nibbles on these by day and at night parks them in her second drawer. It was this drawer Obadiah visited.

For Obadiah it was a field day, but a neat one. The ordinary mouse, unacquainted with high intellect and judicious thought, would gnaw at one end of a chocolate bar until he was bloated. He would then leave it in an unsightly, ragged condition. Not Obadiah. He carefully selected a plain bar, the kind marked off in geometric squares, nibbled thru the paper in a straight line, and ate square by square.

Who ever dared say, "Are you man or mouse?"

ROOSEVELT'S HEALTH

Youngstown, O., July 11—Congressman Earl R. Lewis of St. Clairsville, O., one of my close friends, regularly issues to his constituents a short news letter. His news letter of July 2 contained a paragraph regarding the health of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, as follows:

"The facts concerning the late President Roosevelt's preelection physical condition were finally revealed in Washington during the past week. He had had several strokes prior to the one which proved fatal. He was first stricken in the late summer of 1938 at Rochester, Minn., more than six years before his fatal attack. He was then at the Mayo clinic. During the following years other light attacks occurred. The first serious stroke came in late 1943. . . . The President's health was a closely guarded secret even tho Dr. Howard Gerald Bruenn, a New York City heart specialist, was commissioned a commander in the navy late in 1942 for the express purpose of watching the President's physical condition. Bruenn was with him when he died. The President suffered considerably and was unable to fulfill the duties of his office for many days at a time. He took long, secret vacations and spent much time at Hyde Park while affairs of the nation drifted along. On Palm Sunday, March 25, the President had a cerebral hemorrhage at Hyde Park. He survived the stroke and was quietly rushed to Warm Springs, Ga., where, 19 days later, he had the fatal stroke."

If Congressman Lewis' statements are correct, and I have not the slightest doubt of their truth, it seems to me that the information respecting the true condition of the health of the late President is about the most important information which has been released for a long time.

How does it happen that a man suffering from repeated strokes could conceal his condition so successfully for a long period of time, unless there was a tacit agreement among the newspaper men to suppress the facts? That is the first question which occurs to the reader.

On reflection, however, another and more terrible question arises, namely, who has been really governing the United States for the last six or seven years? Who has been making the decisions? And what about the good faith of the political organization which would put forth as a candidate a man over whose head hung such a sword, assuring the American people that he was in every way worthy to be commander in chief?

THE FORUM AT JOE'S PLACE

Chicago, July 5—Last night at Joe's place the discussion group was going over your editorial of July 3 having to do with this country adopting the metric system and changing the calendar to a 13 month year. The metric system was too heavy for us to handle and it was put aside until Tony of the Seabees comes back from the Pacific, because, as Wimpy said, "He understands fractions." The calendar change went over with a bang. Ben the ironworker [retired] saying it would give him an extra pension check and Republican Charlie, who owns a two flat, saying he'd collect an extra month's rent. Charlie, my wife's cousin, who used to switch cars on the Belt, said, "It'll give us unemployed another month to loaf and punch the bag."

THOMAS K. DAVEY

LOADED HEARINGS ON CONSCRIPTION

Chicago, June 29—In the recent hearings on the proposals concerning peace time military conscription, the house committee on post-war military policy refused the representatives of the Methodist church and other religious organizations the right to give testimony opposing the proposals on the basis that the time was not available, altho the testimony given in opposition did not take up the five hours daily supposedly allotted to it.

The committee wrote leading military men for their opinions on the proposals to be used as evidence favoring them, but did not request the opinions of religious and educational leaders who were known to oppose such proposals. It also turned out in full strength when testimony favoring the proposals was being given, but often had as few as three members present when opposing testimony was being heard, altho the opponents were well known figures, including Josephus Daniels and Col. Roscoe Conkling.

The men on this committee were sent there to represent the people. Unless they consider a question, and this question is a vital one to America, fully, I do not feel that they have fulfilled their responsibility to their constituents. Such tactics as this committee has used are almost a betrayal of the trust given them by the voters.

QUERY

EUROPE, June 25—What has happened to the girl that we left behind?

Day in and day out fellows are getting letters with news of the fact that "the girl" has fallen for some one else or has changed her mind. The sad part about the whole thing is that most of the girls haven't the guts to write the fellow themselves and tell what has happened. They just stop writing, leaving the poor guy in the dark.

THE SHORTNESS OF SHORTS

Chicago, July 5—More power to the Decatur police! Chief Schepper should put a few of those defiant "smarties" in jail when they wear shorts inches above the knees to show off. A woman is no cooler in shorts four inches above the knee than in a skirt four inches longer. The Aussie maid who said American women's legs are disgusting was not far from wrong.

HOME FRONT COMBAT FATIGUE

Bridgeport, Ill., June 23—We have all seen the pictures of the boys at the front, with the dazed look and staring eyes, and know that it's due to battle fatigue. Well, just take a look at the business man's face, his bookkeeper's, and stenographer's—the same dazed look and stark, staring eyes, only it's due to OPA fatigue.

NAVY WILL PAY TRAVEL COST OF MEN ON LEAVE

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—Many navy enlisted men on leave will go home and return to duty at government expense hereafter.

The new regulations, announced today, apply to men returned from overseas for rehabilitation leave, prior to reassignment. About 25,000 men a month will be affected.

Under the new plan such a sailor will be ordered to temporary duty at one of 36 naval establishments—the one nearest the point to which he is going on leave and the cost of his journey will be paid.

Formerly personnel returning from overseas for reassignment had to pay their own travel costs when they reported back after leave.

George W. Spencer with 100 year old antique andirons he will take with him when housing project construction forces him to leave his old home at 249 W. 37th st. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Chicago's building trades and builders are ready to go to work on a construction program to relieve the city's housing shortage any time they get an official nod to proceed, members of the city council committee on housing were assured yesterday.

Ald. Lindell [9th] housing committee chairman, concluded after the two hour meeting of committeemen and representatives of the building industry, real estate and building trades, that the next step would be to request the government to release priorities for construction of rental units.

Meanwhile, residents of the area bounded by 37th st., Pershing rd., Princeton and Wentworth avs., where construction has begun on a 2 million dollar housing project, have found housing problems of their own. One of them, George Spencer, 91, has lived at 249 W. 37th st., his parents' home, and in the house next door which he built in 1878 as his "honeymoon house," for more than 70 years. He must move by Monday.

COL. WIENECKE GETS RED MEDAL FOR ELBE ROLE

Col. Robert H. Wienecke, chief of staff of the 82d air borne division in Europe, has received the Russian decoration of the Order of the People's War, second degree, from Gen. Maj. Souprounkoff, commanding general of the Russian 385th infantry division, it was learned here yesterday.

Col. R. H. Wienecke

Col. Wienecke is the husband of Mrs. Eliza Wienecke, 446 Jefferson st., Glencoe, and the son of Henry Wienecke, 680 Vernon av., Glencoe. He was decorated for his role in the 82d's Elbe river campaign.

The division crossed the Elbe April 30 and swept nearly 50 miles eastward to link with the Russians and capture the 145,000 troops of the 21st German army. Col. Wienecke was captain of the Northwestern university football team in 1924 and in private life was an insurance broker.

WILL RETURN GI FROM EUROPE TO ILL DAUGHTER

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The soldier-father of a critically ill baby will be brought back from Germany by the first transportation available, Rep. Luce [R., Conn.] said today.

Mrs. Luce wired Mrs. Virginia Booth Gibson, 19, of Greenwich, Conn., mother of 9 month old Albert Gibson Jr., that the army will send her husband, Corp. Albert Gibson, back to the United States as soon as possible.

Last month doctors told Mrs. Gibson that her baby would live only six more weeks. The infant, now at Babies' hospital in New York, is suffering from pancreatic disorders and a lung disease.

Mrs. Luce asked the war department to send the soldier home.

HOUSE PROBER TO MAKE STUDY OF HOLLYWOOD

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The house committee on un-American activities today decided to send an investigator to the Pacific coast to study reports of subversive activities there.

Meeting for the first time with the new chairman, Rep. Wood [D., Ga.], the committee agreed to send a representative to the area, and not to go itself.

Members said the committee had received many pleas, particularly from California, for an investigation. Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] has stated that a "gigantic plot to overthrow the government" is under way in Hollywood.

Senate Confirms Bradley as Vets' Administrator

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The senate unanimously confirmed today the nomination of Gen. Bradley to be administrator of veterans' affairs. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Frank Hines. It also confirmed Raymond M. Foley of Michigan as federal housing administrator, succeeding Abner H. Ferguson.

$400,000 JEWELRY THEFT ON TRAIN PROBED BY FBI

Gems Vanish on Trip to Milwaukee

Milwaukee, Wis., July 13 (AP)—The Milwaukee office of the federal bureau of investigation said today it was conducting an inquiry into the reported theft of approximately $400,000 worth of jewelry June 21 on a North Western passenger train between Chicago and Milwaukee.

The FBI said the theft had been reported by Samuel Kipnis, Jacksonville, Fla., president of the National Container corporation. Kipnis said, according to the FBI, that the jewelry, together with negotiable securities valued at $17,500, was being carried in a traveling bag.

He said he noticed his loss as the train approached Milwaukee. He remained on the train while a search was made for the bag, then returned to Milwaukee and reported the loss to police.

Owned by New Yorker

Kipnis told Milwaukee police the jewelry belonged to a New York jeweler, and that he was taking it to Green Bay to display to a resident of that city who was interested in making a purchase.

Kipnis added that he, too, had planned to buy some of the jewelry.

Asserting he was confident no one knew he was carrying the valuables, Kipnis advanced the theory that someone had taken the bag by mistake.

The FBI said it was informed the jewelry was not insured. The FBI also said it was investigating because the theft occurred during an interstate shipment.

THREE DIAMOND NECKLACES

In a report June 21 to Sheriff Raymond Koth of Washington county, Wisconsin, Kipnis said that the jewelry included three diamond necklaces, earrings, and brooches.

He told the sheriff he had gone into the diner and left the bag containing the jewels and some aircraft and cigar company stocks on his train seat. He said the bag was gone when he returned to the seat.

Air Force Protege

New York, July 13 [Special]—A 9 year old British youngster, blind from birth, today arrived in New York en route to Watertown, Mass., where he will attend the Perkins Institution for the Blind under the sponsorship of the 9th United States air force. The 9th, which adopted the lad as their mascot, raised $3,200 to give him a musical education.

The youngster, James L. [Jimmy] Osborn, won the fancy of the flyers while playing the piano at a Red Cross service canteen in Essex, England, last December. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Osborn. They plan to come to the United States later.

Jimmy arrived here aboard a Pan American Clipper after a flight from Foynes, Ireland. He was accompanied by Capt. John F. O'Connell, 27, of Holyoke, Mass., a public relations officer with the 9th air force.

Capt. O'Connell said Jimmy plays everything "from Bach to Boogie" and composes and arranges music "in the classical vein."

Veto Taxi Plan Or Return It to Council, Mayor Told

Mayor Kelly yesterday was requested in a letter sent to him by Ald. Waller [43d] either to veto or return to the city council for further consideration an ordinance extending for six years a contract with taxicab operators.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, Saturday, July 14, 1945 ★★★ 9

CITY AMBULANCE PLAN PROPOSED AS VITAL NEED

Disclosure of a plan to provide Chicago with adequate and speedy public ambulance service was made yesterday by Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, associate director of the American College of Surgeons, president-elect of the Chicago Medical society, and chairman of the joint committee on public ambulance service.

The plan was perfected after a thoro study of the city's ambulance needs by the committee. Its disclosure was prompted by an accident Wednesday night when Nathan Berkowitz, 56, of 902 Lakeside pl., lay semi-conscious in the street for almost half an hour before police arrived to remove him to a hospital after he was struck by an automobile.

20 Ambulances for Minimum

The proposed service, Dr. MacEachern said, would be tax supported and would work in cooperation with the police department. Ambulances would respond to its calls from police and from a central dispatching service with a telephone number such as AMBulance 1313. Equipment would consist of a minimum of 20 ambulances, each with a chauffeur and trained attendant.

The committee estimated the cost of the service at $325,000 for the first year, including equipment; $275,000 for the second year, and $285,000 for each year thereafter. The rise in cost after the second year would be caused by replacements and repairs on the ambulances.

To provide maximum service in emergency and accident cases, the committee suggests division of the city into zones on the basis of population density, industrial concentration, accident frequency, and location of hospitals.

Mayor to Appoint Board

Public emergency care would be immediately available to all needing it regardless of ability to pay, the committee recommended. Management of the service, the committee stated, should be vested in a board of directors, to be appointed by the mayor, and who would serve without remuneration. Medical and civic associations would nominate the board members.

Greater Chicago is the only large metropolitan area in the country lacking medically adequate public ambulance service, Dr. MacEachern said. New York, a survey disclosed, had six ambulances for each million persons, Los Angeles three, Milwaukee three for each half million, but Chicago had none.

Police Criticise Plan

The plan met with disapproval from veteran police and fire officials, who recalled that a similar service once provided by the fire department was abused. One of the biggest offenders, they said, was the works progress administration. Every time a WPA worker cut his finger, one official said, a fire department ambulance would be summoned to take him home.

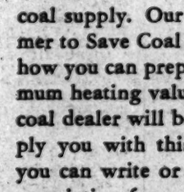
MAYOR KELLY
LEADS DRIVE TO CONSERVE CHICAGO'S COAL SUPPLY
Proclaims July 22nd to 28th, inclusive, as
"FURNACE CLEANING WEEK"

Mayor Kelly's far-sighted and constructive Proclamation of "FURNACE CLEANING WEEK" is designed to stress the seriousness of the coal situation, and to urge the cooperation of all users in taking a positive step to prevent waste.

Our country lacks the staggering total of 40,000,000 tons of coal for minimum needs this year, according to present Government estimates. This shortage may endanger war production. It may reduce the output of goods for home consumption. It may result in civilian discomfort, IF steps are not taken promptly to conserve coal.

A dirty heating plant wastes fuel, regardless of the type used. It burns more than it should to produce a desired volume of heat. Chicago coal merchants normally deliver 10,000,000 tons of coal annually to consumers in this area. If inefficient furnaces waste only 10% of the heat value of this coal, it means the loss of a million tons. Heating engineers estimate that some 90% of our heating plants need cleaning and repairing RIGHT NOW. The importance of "FURNACE CLEANING WEEK" is plainly obvious as a civic responsibility.

You likewise have a selfish interest in cleaning your furnace and putting it in efficient shape, because it WILL SAVE YOU MONEY. It is not difficult to do, and pays big dividends in lower fuel costs.



The Chicago Coal Merchants Association is cooperating wholeheartedly in Mayor Kelly's drive to conserve Chicago's coal supply. Our booklet, "What to do this Summer to Save Coal Next Winter," explains in detail how you can prepare your furnace to get the maximum heating value out of the coal you burn. Your coal dealer will be glad to supply you with this booklet, or you can write or phone to the association for your copy (130 N. Wells St., State 9723). Your coal dealer also has heating specialists available to advise you on special heating problems.

We urge that you do your share in helping Chicago to make "FURNACE CLEANING WEEK" a success. This is an individual responsibility of each and every fuel user.

U. S. METHODIST CHURCH RAISES 25 MILLION FUND

Europe's Needs May Bring Call for More

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

American Methodism as a national institution has become a 25 million dollar a year concern. This figure does not include the support of the pastors of its more than 8,000 churches nor the maintenance of local programs and churches, but does cover world service, gifts for special purposes, the Crusade for Christ, and relief. The total was made public by Dr. Thomas B. Lugg, 740 Rush st., during meetings of several administrative agencies yesterday at the Stevens hotel. Sessions were held thruout the week.

At the meetings, in which these administrators reviewed the great number of enterprises and responsibilities of the church, one overshadowed all others. It was Europe's devastation. Dr. Ralph Stoody of New York, who heads "Methodist Information," the church's news agency, said: "It was apparent to the secretaries that as the curtain has been lifted in Europe the destruction and suffering in devastated areas has vastly exceeded anticipations."

May Require More

This, Dr. Stoody said, means that all boards of the church believe the 25 million dollar relief, rehabilitation, and development fund now oversubscribed will not be enough and that new and advanced goals and objectives for voluntary giving must be set. The church's administrators reviewed exhaustive financial reports covering all phases of the church's work. The administrators then appended memoranda covering recommendations to be reviewed by appropriate boards before presentation to the entire church.

Some of the appended observations follow:

"Large extension of the volunteer service of the National Methodist Youth fellowship needed. A demobilization program to be set up for returning veterans and their families. Extension of vacation church school services. Set up a full time staff member [department of Christian education] in the field of home religion.

Colleges Reduce Debt

"Senior colleges of the Methodist church have reduced indebtedness 77 per cent during the last four years. More than 962,000 persons were served by 173 institutions affiliated with the board of hospitals and homes. There are 73 Methodist hospitals, 45 children's homes, 47 homes for the aged, and eight homes for youths with a combined gross capital investment of more than 122 million dollars and annual service costs of nearly 3 million dollars.

"Alumni of Methodist Theological seminaries furnished 1,052 chaplains for war service. Missionaries returning from the Philippines without exception report the universal loyalty of Filipino Christians, and all wish to return."

FIRE DAMAGES THREE HOMES

A fire started by an overheated flatiron yesterday destroyed the rear of three wooden bungalows at 4733, 4731, and 4727 Shakespeare av. The damage was estimated at $3,500 by Chief Robert Caffey of the 24th battalion.

Religious News Notes

About 2,000 American raised heifers soon will be en route to Europe for relief of undernourished persons as gifts of the Church of the Brethren. Paul B. Keller of the church's national headquarters in Elgin said the church adopted the program of "heifers for relief" because of the critical need for milk and dairy products in other countries. Several thousand more are awaiting fattening and preparation for shipment. The heifers are purchased by parishioners and left on farms of church members until ready for shipment. Headquarters for the heifer project is at Nappanee, Ind. The church shipped six brown Swiss bulls to Greece two months ago and 68 head of cattle to Puerto Rico for relief purposes last year.

Jewry observes today as the Sabbath of Vision, so called from the vision of Isaiah related in the first chapter of that prophet customarily read at the service last night. On Friday begins the Sabbath of Comfort, when the 40th chapter, containing "Comfort Ye, My People," is read. Midway between these two Sabbaths is the Fasht of Tishar Be-Av—the ninth day of the month Ab—commemorating the destruction of Jerusalem. This will be observed Wednesday night by the faculty and students of the College of Jewish Studies, 220 S. State st. Speakers will be Rabbi Sidney Jacobs of New York and Shlomo Marenof, a member of the faculty. At Washington Boulevard temple, 23 N. Karlov av., the preacher Friday will be Dr. Arnold J. Dr. Duncan H. Browne, rector. . . . Dr. Eustace A. Hayden, professor emeritus of the department of the history of religion at the University of Chicago, will succeed Dr. Horace J. Bridges as leader of the Chicago Ethical society beginning Oct. 7. Appointed as assistant to Dr. Haydon is William D. Hammond, recently associated with the Ethical society in St. Louis.

The Rev. Dr. Louis J. Schwartzkopf, pastor of Hyde Park Lutheran church, is in St. Louis for the graduation from Concordia seminary of his son, Elmer J. Schwartzkopf, 25, born in China and on immediate assignment as a missionary to that country by the Missouri synod board of foreign missions. Dr. Schwartzkopf will officiate tomorrow afternoon at the marriage of his son to Dolores Weber of St. Louis in Peace Lutheran church near Lambert airport. . . . The Rev. Theodore W. Strieter, director of Lutheran work in camps for German war prisoners, will preach tomorrow morning, in the absence of Dr. Schwartzkopf, in Bond chapel of the University of Chicago.

The Rev. Dr. Paul S. Johnson, executive secretary of the Presbyterian extension board, will be guest preacher tomorrow in United Church of Hyde Park, 5300 Blackstone av. . . . Dr. Sterling W. Brown, associate director of the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews, will be editor of Conference, the national official organ, and head of the production department beginning Sept. 1. Dr. Brown will be visiting professor at Vassar college this summer for the institute for family and community living.

Commissioner Edward J. Parker, retired, formerly national commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, will be principal speaker today and tomorrow at the Salvation Army's annual session at Winona lake, Warsaw, Ind. Lt. Commissioner John J. Allan, territorial commander, will preside. . . . George Strub will preside at the meeting of the men's auxiliary of the Evangelical and Reformed church in St. Petri church, 103 Avenue L. . . . The Rev. Wilhelm Pauck, professor of historical theology at the University of Chicago, will preach tomorrow morning in Rockefeller Memorial chapel on the Midway.

ALLA NAZIMOVA, STAGE AND FILM STAR, DIES AT 66

Alla Nazimova

Famous as a dramatic actress, she once was the toast of world capitals for her performances in Ibsen and O'Neill plays. In the last few years she has been in Hollywood appearing in such pictures as "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," "In Our Time," and "Since You Went Away."

Born in Yalta, Crimea, June 4, 1879, she went to school in Switzerland and Odessa to study the violin, but quit music and turned to the stage. She entered the Philharmonic Dramatic school in Moscow, which later became the Moscow Art theater.

"Discovered" by Dramatic Critics

After playing with a stock company in St. Petersburg, she went to Berlin, London, and New York. Her first New York appearances were in a cheap theater over an East Side saloon, but she was "discovered" by dramatic critics who saw her in "The Chosen People," a play that had been banned in St. Petersburg by the Russian censors. Their reviews brought her to the attention of Broadway producers.

Despite a sensitive temperament that led to some tempestuous scenes with producers, she was an immediate success on Broadway. She became an outstanding actress of Ibsen, Chekov, and O'Neill roles.

In the old silent movies, she duplicated her stage successes and became one of the most glamorous of stars, playing the leads in many pictures such as "War Brides," "Salome," and "The Madonna of the Streets." Because of her beauty, she frequently was cast in vampire roles that called for the flimsiest of costumes, but she was never enthusiastic about such parts.

Marriage Ends in Divorce

During her early movie career she married Charles E. Bryant, a Broadway producer, but divorced him in Paris in 1925. She became an American citizen in 1927.

She made a triumphant return to Broadway in 1928 to play various roles at Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory theater. Two years later she was called by the New York Theater guild for work that included a role in O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra."

She once said her most satisfying role was that of O-lan in Pearl Buck's "The Good Earth" because it reminded her of her girlhood days close to nature in Russia.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Nina Lewton, Montclair, N. J.

ALD. KEANE, 67, DIES; INJURED IN FALL TUESDAY

Served on 4 Council Committees

Thomas P. Keane, 67, of 2935 Augusta blvd., alderman of the 31st ward since 1931 and active in Chicago political life for 40 years, died yesterday in Walther Memorial hospital. Death was caused by complications arising from a fractured hip suffered Tuesday when he fell in his summer home in Twin Lakes, Wis.

Ald. Keane.

At his bedside yesterday were his widow, Catherine C.; his sons, State Sen. Thomas E. [23d] and Le Roy W. a broker, and daughter, Grace C. Another son, Navy Lt. George M., is in Boston. Four grandchildren also survive.

Served Four Committees

Keane was chairman of the city council license committee and a member of the local transportation, the planning, and special assessment committees.

His long political career included positions as state representative, clerk of the Probate court, ward committeeman of the old 34th ward, and chairman of the jury commission.

His death creates the third vacancy in the city council. The others were caused by the death of Ald. Richard M. Walsh [36th] and the resignation of Ald. James R. Quinn [50th] to accept appointment to the transit board.

Special Election Likely

It was believed likely that a special election will be called to fill the vacancies since the next aldermanic election will not be held until 1947.

The aldermen will hold a memorial meeting at 9 a. m. Monday in the council chambers and later will attend the funeral services at 11 a. m. in St. Mark's Catholic church, 2501 Cortez st.

U. S. Ambassador Quits Moscow, Flies to Berlin

2 GIRLS DROWN, 4 RESCUED AS BOAT UPSETS

Peoria, Ill., July 13 (AP)—Two 'teen aged girls and a 10 year old boy drowned today in Kickapoo creek and the Illinois river near here.

Robert Denner, of Peoria, stepped into a hole while wading in the creek with two companions. His body was recovered by police.

The two girls, Mary Lou Jones, 18, Tolucca, and Lois B. Kunder, 19, Minonk, fell from an outboard motor boat when it capsized on the Illinois river five miles north of Peoria. Coast guards from the Peoria station failed to find the bodies after searching eight hours.

With two other girls they went to the Al Fresco bathing beach for an outing and the four of them "hitched" a ride in the motor boat operated by two men. Survivors said the boat suddenly nosedived, spilling all the occupants. Their four companions were rescued.

FATHER KILLED WHEN SON'S AUTO RUNS INTO TRUCK

William Gillson, 72, of 14529 Loomis st., was killed yesterday when the automobile driven by his son, Harold, crashed head-on with a truck on route 45 between Clifton and Chebanse in Iroquois county. Mrs. William Gillson, 71, was seriously injured. Lloyd Rennhack, 23, of 2700 Washington blvd., driver of the truck, suffered minor injuries.

Eugene Ray Blair, 13, of Grant Park, Kankakee county, was killed when his bicycle was struck in front of his home by an automobile driven by George Beseke, 72, of Beecher, Will county.

William Ducker, 30, of 4528 Emerald av., was burned to death in the cab of his truck when it crashed into a tree on route 20 eight miles west of Angola, Ind.

DRIVERS LACKING U. S. TAX STAMP PAY $5 EXTRA

Several hundred persons who appeared yesterday at internal revenue offices in response to summonses for failure to purchase their $5 auto use tax stamp found that their delay had cost them an additional $5.

Office agents were instructed by Collector Nigel D. Campbell to assess the penalty as a compromise. Those refusing to pay the penalty will be subject to criminal prosecution by the United States attorney, Campbell said. The maximum penalty is a $25 fine and 30 days in jail.

Campbell said 20,000 already had received summonses, with the drive still going on.

Hold 2 Accused in Theft of Policeman's Revolver

OBITUARIES

Frank Fisher Grudowski

Services for Frank Fisher Grudowski, 51, of 2631 N. Maplewood av., organizer of the Northwest Ex-Service Man's league, will be held at 11 a. m. Monday in All Saints church. He died Thursday morning in Hines hospital. He was a member of the Lafayette American Legion post, the 33d Regular Democratic organization, the printers' union, and a musician with the 343d infantry band in World War I. He leaves his widow, Mary; two brothers, John and Dr. Joseph P., and a sister, Mrs. Pauline Wietecha.

Dr. Maurice D. Chernoff

Dr. Maurice D. Chernoff, 43, of 3911 Jackson blvd., physician with offices at 325 S. Pulaski rd. for 17 years, died of a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday in Garfield Park hospital. Dr. Chernoff, a native of Kiev, Russia, was graduated from the Chicago Medical school in 1926. He is survived by his widow, a physician known professionally as Dr. Anna A. Marcus, and two children, Arnold and Rosalind. Services will be at 10 a. m. Monday in the chapel at 704 S. Pulaski rd.

Mrs. Richard Troemel

Services for Mrs. June App Troemel, 46, of 3106 N. Cicero av., who died Thursday in a cleaning establishment at 2643 N. Cicero av., which she owned, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 2500 N. Cicero av. She is survived by her husband, Richard; her mother, and two brothers.

Mrs. Kate Brosius

Mrs. Kate Brosius, 94, a beauty operator, died in her room in the Plaza hotel, 1553 N. Clark st., yesterday shortly after giving a customer a shampoo. Mrs. Brosius lived in the hotel and followed her occupation as a beauty operator for 45 years.

COURT TO WATCH MOTHER, 18, WHO DESERTED BABY

One mother charged with child abandonment was placed under court supervision for a year and another was ordered examined by the court psychiatrist yesterday by Judge Victor Kula in Domestic Relations court.

Mrs. Eleanore Cullen, 18, of 1648 S. Throop st., explained to the judge that she had left her year old son, Daniel, with two girl friends Tuesday evening while she went to visit her grandmother. When she returned Wednesday evening, the baby had been turned over to the Maxwell st. police, she said. She added that she had planned to seek a job while her grandmother cared for the baby. She was placed under court supervision.

Mrs. Margaret Scheff, 26, of 3513 N. Pulaski rd., and her husband, Raymond, 29, were ordered examined by Dr. David R. Rotman, court psychiatrist, for neglecting their five small children Monday evening. The complaint was made by Scheff's mother, Mrs. Agnes Kochan, 46, of 4648 N. Harding av. The case was continued to July 27.

Tries to Assure Burial for Architect's Widow

George Killinger, a lawyer, said yesterday he is trying to save the body of Mrs. Emily Dinkelberg from use in a medical laboratory and have it buried beside that of her husband, Frederick P. Dinkelberg, architect of the Flatiron building in New York and of many loop skyscrapers in Chicago. Mrs. Dinkelberg died July 3. Her body lay unclaimed in the county morgue for a week. Her husband died penniless Feb. 10, 1935, and was saved from anonymous burial by the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

CHARGES DRUG HEAD WITH FAKE ARTHRITIS CURE

Lelord Kordel, who with his wife, Laura, was named by the government early this week on criminal charges for misbranding drugs intended for rejuvenation purposes, faced an additional charge yesterday.

Asst. United States Atty. Michael J. Boyle filed an information before Judge William J. Campbell in federal District court charging that Kordel, head of the products firm bearing his name at 188 W. Randolph st., also had a pretended cure for arthritis. Government physicians, Boyle said, burst this business venture by stating the product could no more cure arthritis than his other products could add new life to a human.

5 MORE FINED BY DOUGHERTY FOR GAMBLING

Five defendants were fined by Judge Charles S. Dougherty yesterday in S. State st. court on gambling charges. Three were fined $50 and costs each for operating policy games: Miss Dorothy White, 24, of 4743 Indiana av., Negro; Mrs. Lucille Taylor, 23, of 510 Oakwood blvd., and Miss Dorothy Green, 3100 Ellis av., Negro. Stephen Kotch, 41, of 2115 Huron st., was fined $10 and costs for operating a baseball lottery and Miss Sally Metoyer, 38, of 3558 S. State st., was fined $50 and costs for writing out a policy ticket. A motion to vacate her fine was set for hearing July 27.

DEATH NOTICES

— In Memoriam —

HECKLER—Sgt. Harold J. Heckler. In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who passed away in France one year ago today.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tried to break, but all in vain.
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of all those happy days
When we were all together.
MOTHER, DAD, AND BROTHER.

LEPEK—John F. Lepek, July 15, 1944. In loving memory of our dear husband and father. LOVING WIFE AND CHILDREN.

LIEBERENZ—Herman C. Lieberenz. A tribute to the memory of our dear husband, father, and grandfather, who passed away one year ago today.
LOVING WIFE, CHILDREN, AND GRANDCHILDREN.

MAGUIRE—Patricia Ann Maguire. In loving memory of our darling daughter, sister, and granddaughter, who passed away one year ago today.
She had a nature you could not help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold,
And to those who knew her and loved her
Loving Parents, Sister, and Grandparents.

At the Post and Paddock Club

Mrs. Charles Borland, photographed on the terrace of the Post and Paddock club, located again this summer at the Washington Park race track, where the Arlington Park meeting is in progress. Today's featured races, the Classic and the Modesty handicap, will draw an enthusiastic crowd of racing fans. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Varied Events Fill Calendar for Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS

THE week-end will be one of the busiest of the summer, with a horse show at Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Swift's Galloping Hills Farm and a carnival in Wayne tomorrow, an exciting race program at the Washington Park track this afternoon, concerts in Ravinia park tonight and tomorrow afternoon, and the Knollwood club's first young people's swimming meet tomorrow.

Because the list of exhibitors grew to such unexpected proportions, the little Galloping Hills club which will be set up in a grove on the farm will be able to serve luncheon only to the exhibitors, so spectators are urged to bring their own picnic luncheons. By popular demand, the costume parade was restored to its place in the program, and Mrs. Swift has announced that any youngster provided with a costume will be permitted to compete. The public will judge the winners by applause.

The show will start at 10 a. m. The farm may be reached by taxicabs from the stations at either Wheaton or Lisle. There will be markers to follow for motorists who go west in Ogden blvd. or Roosevelt road.

Week-End Events

The newly formed Wayne Community association is sponsoring the Wayne carnival, which will be held in the old show ring of the Dunham Woods Riding club. A merry time is planned for all ages, with beer, hamburgers, and ice cream available and pony rides, a miniature train, and a clown to entertain the children. The proceeds will be set aside to start a sum of money to build a community house in Wayne. Montgomery M. Orr is chairman of the benefit.

The famed Arlington Classic and the Modesty handicap are on today's Arlington Park racing card. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wright have entered their Pot O'Luck in the Classic.

Erich Leinsdorf will conclude an engagement as guest conductor with the Chicago Symphony orchestra with performances tonight and tomorrow afternoon in Ravinia park, which has been enjoying a crowded season. Last Saturday night's program drew one of the 10 top attendances in Ravinia history.

In addition to its swimming meet for sons and daughters of members at 3 p. m. tomorrow, the Knollwood club will hold the first of its popular pool parties tonight, with dancing at the pool from 9 to 11:30, followed by supper in the clubhouse and more dancing until 2 a. m.

Wedding News

Mr. and Mrs. Royal B. Cushing and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cushing, will be in Grinnell, Ia., tomorrow for the marriage of the senior Cushings' niece, Miss Mary Ann Howell, and Ensign William Eugene Kaloupek of Grinnell. Miss Howell, who has been a frequent visitor in Chicago, is the daughter of Mrs. Chauncey Wycoff Howell of Grinnell.

The wedding will take place in the gardens of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clindinin, and the bride will be given in marriage by her uncle. Miss Howell attended Ward Belmont and was graduated in June from Iowa State college. Ensign Kaloupek is a graduate of the United States Naval academy at Annapolis and will leave soon for duty in the Pacific.

In a blue and white setting in the living room of Dr. and Mrs. Kellogg Speed's Highland Park home, their daughter, Ensign Helen Marjorie Speed of the WAVES will become the bride of Ensign James Howard Hensinger of the naval reserve at 4:30 p. m. today. The bride has received permission to wear a wedding gown during the ceremony, which will be performed by the Rev. Louis Sherwin of the Highland Park Presbyterian church. Only the families will be present. A small reception will follow in the garden.

Miss Ann Speed will attend her sister. Ensign Hensinger's mother, Mrs. Helen M. Hensinger, has come from Allentown, Pa., for the wedding. After a short wedding trip, Ensign Hensinger and his bride will be at home in Indian Head, Md., where both are stationed.

Other Wedding News

Miss Virginia Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Herbert Lee of Madison, N. J., and Lt. Russell G. Humphreys Jr. of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Humphreys of Chicago, will be married at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the Lee home. The bride is a graduate of Kent Place school and attended Smith college. Lt. Humphreys was graduated from the Phillips Andover academy and attended Williams college. He completed 51 missions in Italy and now is stationed in San Angelo, Tex.

Among the many Chicagoans struggling to obtain railroad reservations is Paget K. Cady, who has an engagement to give his daughter, Staff Sgt. Mary Lee Cady of the WAC, in marriage to Sgt. Harold Tilson July 26 in Portland, Ore. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Wilson Blayney of Riverside, also hopes to leave the first of the week to be present at the ceremony, which will take place in the home of the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. John Campbell. Sgt. Cady and Sgt. Tilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Tilson of Newton, Ia., have been stationed at McCord Field, Wash.

Mrs. Roy O. Randall of E. 56th st. announces the marriage June 26 in New Canaan, Conn., of her daughter, Margaret, to Harry Forwood of New York City. Miss Randall appeared here in "Life with Father," of whose cast she has been a member for four years, and she now is with the play in New York. She attended the Universaly of Chicago and was graduated from the school of the Goodman theater. Mr. Forwood's home originally was in Texas. He and his bride will live in New York.

Wedding Today to Unite Two Navy Officers

Lt. (j. g.) Jane Reilly of the WAVES and Lt. Roger Slattery of the navy, who will be married today in St. Barnabas' church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Reilly of Longwood dr. and has been stationed in San Francisco. Lt. Slattery, son of Mrs. Anna Power Slattery of Rogers Park, has returned from the Pacific. Both are graduates of Loyola university, but did not meet until stationed in Cambridge, Mass. [TRIBUNE Photo]

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Human Values

A young friend, back in civvies, remarked the other day that excessive emphasis on how to treat the returning soldier does more harm than good. Speaking of interviews with prospective employers, he said he was self-consciously aware that they were on the watch for signs of instability until he "felt like a first class problem."

Most sincere persons are eager to help — not hinder — the man or woman who turns now from the demanding road of military service to the demands of business. A certain amount of restlessness is unavoidable. But does it require, on our part, much more than an understanding of human values—and the Golden Rule—to give the returning soldier those things we'd like under similar circumstances?

According to our young friend the ex-service man wants to get back in stride as inconspicuously and naturally as possible. He will appreciate it if the white collar girls with whom he works will let war experiences be bygones, give him friendly coöperation, and treat him as "just another guy."

I'm fond, of course, of the human race,
The good, the bad, I do embrace;
And yet the dope I'd like to shoot,

Excludes me from the deathless bards
With, "You'd clean up on greeting cards."

Latest Methods Used by Army to Fight Cancer

BY NORMA LEE BROWNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13—One-third of all deaths at Walter Reed hospital are the result of cancer and half of the victims are men and women under 35. These figures, however, needn't terrify any one suffering from border line cancerophobia.

Walter Reed is an army general hospital actively specializing in treatment of cancer, which means that a large percentage of the army's cancer patients are sent here. The hospital has been designated by the surgeon general as a radium and X-ray treatment center.

"Cancer in young people is uncommon," said Maj. Milton Friedman, chief of the radiation therapy section of Walter Reed. "But when the army collects all its cancer patients from among 8 million men and concentrates them in a few general hospitals, they constitute an important problem."

The United States is the only country that provides care for cancer patients in the army, he said. Other countries discharge their army men to civilian hospitals for cancer treatment.

Chief methods of treatment at Walter Reed are X-ray, radium, and surgery. In many instances the combination of all three is required.

In February, 1944, a two ton, million volt X-ray machine, one of only 15 in the United States, was installed in Walter Reed's radiation therapy section. The huge machine moves on elevators, is controled by a multiple switch in the hands of a nurse, and can be pointed in any direction.

Since most of Walter Reed's cancer patients are young and strong, they can tolerate large dosages of roentgen or radium rays from this machine.

It has proved its superiority over lower voltage radiation, Maj. Friedman said, by more effective destruction of deep seated tumors [thru the greater quantity of radiation that can be delivered with each treatment] and a reduction in the number of severe skin reactions.

Studies show there has been no increase in cancer attributable directly to war injuries. However, many cases have been discovered early thru the army's routine physical checkups.

Because of the frequency of these checkups, the percentage of advanced cancer cases seems to be lower than in civilian life, Maj. Friedman declared, and, therefore, the chances for complete recovery are higher.

A soldier who develops cancer overseas is rushed to this country once his case is diagnosed. For example, a corporal with throat cancer was flown to Walter Reed from Guadalcanal in five days.

At present there are several hundred army cancer patients under treatment at Walter Reed. [Exact figures cannot be released.] These include cases of cancer of the bone, brain, stomach, and many other kinds.

Fortunately, a large number are skin cancer cases, which, according to Maj. Friedman, are readily cured. In some cases, too, malignant tumors are arrested and the men sent back to duty.

"I personally am very hopeful about the research being done in the field of cancer treatment and control," said Maj. Friedman. "At present a large number of cases are being cured thru radium, X-rays, or surgery. It is important to remember that many of our boys are alive

Weddings

Miss Estelle Ruth Baker, daughter of Mrs. Marie Norlin Baker, of Ellis av., and Lt. [j. g.] Richard Harding Booth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney H. Booth of East Orange, N. J., will be married at 4 p. m. today in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. A reception will follow in the Baker home. Miss Baker and Lt. Booth met two years ago at Service Men's Center 1, at which Mrs. Baker serves as hostess and is known as Mom.

Miss Baker was graduated from Chicago Teachers college. Lt. Booth is a graduate of Springfield college, Springfield, Mass., and took his midshipman training at the Northwestern university naval reserve school. He and his bride will go to Camp Bradford, Va., where he will receive further training before going to the Pacific. He recently completed 16 months' service in the Atlantic.

Miss Lois Mae Baird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Baird of Cornelia av., and Sgt. Edward Demet of the army air forces, son of Mrs. Edward Stadie of Cornelia av., will be married at 7 o'clock tonight in the Nebo church, with a small reception following in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stadie. Sgt. Demet has returned after spending more than a year in a German prison camp. He wears a Presidential unit citation and the Purple Heart. He and his bride will go to Miami, Fla., where he will report for duty.

'Son of Lassie' Just Too Much of Good Thing

"SON OF LASSIE"

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, directed by S. Sylvan Simon, featuring Peter Lawford, Donald Crisp, Jane Lockhart, Nigel Bruce, William Severn, Leon Ames, Donald Curtis, Nils Asther, and Robert Lewis. Presented at the United Artists.

By Mae Tinée

I like dogs, I like Donald Crisp, I like technicolor shots of snow capped mountains and lakes. I also like seeing the Nazis outsmarted—but all of these things thrown together do not necessarily make a good movie, and too much of all of them can make a pretty tiresome one.

Most of this film is as artificial as some of the scenic effects. It's all about the son of Lassie, a beautiful collie, unsurprisingly named Laddie, who's smart only about the things he chooses, and is handsome but dumb to every one but his young master, played by Peter Lawford. The pup and a girl, June Lockhart, stick to young Peter like glue whenever they have an opportunity, and there are times when both of them are a decided nuisance.

When his master becomes an aviation cadet, the dog travels 40 miles to get to him. When he later makes a reconnaisance flight over Norway, Laddie is tucked inside the plane. He is forced to ditch the crippled ship with his master, gets shot by Germans, healed by Norwegians, and buried in two separate explosions. He trots wearily across what seems to be miles of ice covered terrain, swims thru rapids. In short, he definitely leads a dog's life, or more accurately, about 40 of 'em rolled into one. The film also boasts touches of plain, unvarnished slapstick and the Grieg concerto in A minor as background music here and there, rising to a crescendo [mit whistles] for a ski scene.

For children, perfectly harmless and probably interesting, altho the brighter of them may tire after the first hour of this concoction. Adults probably won't last that long.

I wonder whether Mr. S. Sylvan Simon ever heard the old one about "brevity" which W. Shakespeare got off a good many years ago? [If he hasn't, he orter.]

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 13—It looks as tho you'll be able to see Greta Garbo on the screen in "Anna Lucasta," the play with the all-Negro cast that's made such a hit in New York. The story behind it is this: Martin Gosch, producer of Abbott and Costello pictures for Metro, helped Phillip Yordan and John Wildberg write the play before it was produced. Gosch then offered it to Metro for $30,000. The studio promptly turned it down. Since its success on Broadway, Warners and Hal Wallis both have offered 10 times that amount. Then the owners turned it down. Gosch will produce it independently and share proceeds with the writers. . . . The Bob Sherwoods [he's the playwright who wrote many speeches for F. D. R.] will be house guests at Katharine Hepburn's until a home can be found for them. . . . A year ago Eugenie Baird was just another singer. Then she was discovered by Bing Crosby. So now she's singing in the Hollywood bowl.

Something Unfair About It

So you want to be in pictures? It's an easy life you think—fame and fortune, if you're lucky, goes with it. It also has its drawbacks. If you work in a department store or beauty parlor, it's a cinch you can get time off when your husband comes home from overseas. But Greer Garson couldn't. Greer's working with Clark Gable in "Strang Adventure." There are many days, yes weeks, when there are no scenes for Greer. Her husband, Lt. Richard Ney, has been overseas more than a year. Naturally, Greer wanted to spend his first days of leave at home, but Metro couldn't arrange it. Yet she's a girl whose pictures—"Good-by Mr. Chips," "Mrs. Miniver," "Random Harvest," "Madame Curie," "Mrs. Parkington," "Valley of Decision"—will make $25,000,000 at least. Sure, Greer could have walked off the set. But she's a trouper and wouldn't. So she got up a 6 a. m., got home at 6 p. m., utterly worn out. Yes, I can hear people say, "Steel mills don't shut down, railroads don't stop running." That's because substitutes can be found to run 'em. But this business is built around human beings. They are the machines. And I think this human being deserved a break. Last time Greer's husband was home they gave her two hours off. Then she was making "Mrs. Parkington" and she was in every scene.

Orson's Name Lends Hand

No, Orson Welles won't act in "Duel in the Sun." He was never asked to by David Selznick. Orson read in the columns he'd be in it. In fact, his friend Joe Cotten was so eager to have him, he sent him the script. Wardrobe called up and asked him to come in for a costume fitting. Mr. Selznick got the publicity, but Orson never got the invitation. What Orson doesn't know is that he was being used as an ace in the hole in case Walter Huston didn't return from New York to pick up his part. Well, Huston returned and he's now playing the part. . . . So the strikers play fair, huh? Then I'm wondering why Cedric Gibbons, head of Metro's art department, had sugar put in his gas tank. Cedric's been head of the art department for years. He hired and fired many of the men out on strike. Did they expect him to give up his contract and join them?

Just for a Laugh

John Ford was having mechanical difficulties one day on the set of "They Were Expendable." Everything had gone wrong—cameras, sound, etc. Finally they were in the middle of a honey of a take when sound man stopped the film and said, "There's a bird in here." Quick as a flash John said, "Send for Katz!" Katz is one of Metro's top producers. . . . Peggy Ann Garner will have her own radio show come fall. . . . The Humphrey Bogarts have an English butler, so now Baby Betty is "madame." . . . Everett Ball came in to say good-by before pushing off to Australia where he'll play "Voice of the Turtle." The play is too rugged for our soldiers, but right for Australians. . . . Which reminds me, the Elliott Nugents are vacationing here in their own house which they rented to friends who conveniently took their vacation so the Nugents could have theirs. That's being pals.

Eleanor Steber Finds Grant Park Applause As Warm As Its Weather Is Chilly

Considering the chilly wind blowing in from the lake last night, Eleanor Steber must have thought she had the wrong season when she opened her program with Nicolai Malko and the Grant Park Symphony orchestra by singing "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's "The Creation." But her performance of that noble aria was as serene and lovely as the mood it creates, and not until after intermission did she acknowledge the weather by slipping a Chinese blue satin mandarin coat over that rose pink affair designed for superior shoulders.

For Miss Steber, who is hard to keep up with at best, has turned, among other things, into a beauty. And her voice, one of the most radiant sopranos of our time, is deepening by the day, taking on creamy curves that make her singing of Bachelet's "Chère Nuit" an amorous delight, enriching its brilliance until the Straussian bravura of the "Laughing Song" and "Voices of Spring" glittered with gayety, and discovering a poignancy that makes it possible for her to get a crowd cheering with Tosca's "Vissi d'Arte." And this is the girl who only a few months ago sang an exquisite Eva in the Metropolitan's "Die Meistersinger." She has as many possible facets as a deep diamond ready for the cutting, and I hope her choice doesn't go too far from the gracious gifts that made her Haydn memorable.

Mr. Malko has had two shining soloists this week, and probably is philosophical about having them steal the space. But his orchestra did some of its own best work last night, in the symphony Bizet wrote when he was 17, a light and gay bauble with some delightful effects for strings, and in Debussy's "The Afternoon of a Faun," a performance that verged on the luxurious, tho it needed a more stellar flute.

Muni at Negro Festival

Paul Muni will be a guest artist at the sixth annual Negro Music festival to be held at Comiskey park next Friday evening with Anne Brown and Lionel Hampton as its stars. Another featured entertainer will be Chief Petty Officer Graham Jackson, whose accordion played "Goin' Home" as President Roosevelt's body was taken from Warm Springs for the trip to Washington. Mr. Muni has not been around in a play for a long time, but no one would call him a flat actor in "A Song to Remember," where he not only plays Chopin's faithful teacher, but embroiders variations and a few bulges on the theme.

Theater Notes

Laurette Taylor, the biggest single sensation in theater because of "The Glass Menagerie," is upset over her billing, they say, because Eddie Dowling is in the ads twice, as co-star and co-producer. . . . There is talk of reviving the Group Theater at New York's City center next season. The story of its rise and fall recently was told by Harold Clurman in "The Fervent Years" [Alfred A. Knopf, $3.50]. . . . Variety says Shirley Temple will appear for George Abbott next season in "Mr. Cooper's Left Hand," by Clifford Goldsmith of Henry Aldrich fame.

New Fall Hats Are Built Up to Giddy Heights

BY REA SEEGER

Significant new headlines, prophetic shadows of what's ahead for fall and winter, are the exciting new black felt hats. The felt is chiffon thin variety, but the new silhouettes, towering above the head, are important fashion news. It's not a matter of three or four or even six inches, but some climb a good 10 inches into the stratosphere and according to the experts, even higher hats are on the way. This height is not completely unexpected, for during the past few months all new hats have come up like mushrooms.

Some comparatively flat hats, also of dull black felt, go in for a brand new contrast, that of shiny satin cabbage size roses. You must see them to believe this floral magnificence. For example, there's a model of black felt with two huge emerald green satin roses right over the browline, a creation with some shimmering white roses nodding high on their stems directly in front, and some very romantic models with blush pink satin roses. They're new and flattering even tho they are not dizzily high.

The first of the fall or midsummer black satin hats have arrived without surprising any one very much. These, too, dramatize the lush shimmer of the satin, soar to record breaking altitudes, and spotlight that high fashion bulk and fat rounded contour. Other new arrivals to check are the wide brimmed hats of felt trimmed with large softly tied bows of satin ribbon. No longer do two or three colors of satin ribbon suffice for one hat. The newest arrivals flaunt as many as six or eight. They are all very reminiscent of the satin ribbon trimmed hats of the opulent Victorian era, examples of which can be viewed with either approbation or apprehension in your family photograph albums.

'The Wicked Mrs. Steel'

By Roy Vickers

(Copyright: 1945: By Roy Vickers)

INSTALMENT XXIV.

OFFER STILL OPEN

"Agnes has gone to the police, taking your comfortable incomes with her. And if you had never started that rot about the tablets, Gillian would have shared with you—probably a fifth each. You fools! You greedy imbeciles! You've behaved just as Margaret Steel would have wished." Ralph's voice rose to a shout.

He went to the far end of the drawing room, flung wide the French windows.

When he turned back to the drawing room, Gillian was alone. She was sitting in Margaret Steel's chair.

"Ralph, you didn't want me to give in to them, did you?"

"Yes."

"That's what I'm trying to understand."

"Because there is no moral principle at stake," he said. "Only the money. Some four millions of it, I suppose. With a fifth of it, you would still have more than any sane person could spend."

"You know that was not in my mind."

"Of course I know it wasn't! But that is how it works out." The next moment he was kneeling beside her. "Gillian, darling, let's be careful. We shall be saying the right thing in the wrong words and hurting each other. I told you this morning—we're up against Margaret Steel. It's as if one could feel her this very minute trying to drive the wedge between us. . . ."

"I told you, dear, such a wedge doesn't exist. It can't exist—if we are always perfectly frank with each other. Say all that's in your mind and I will do the same."

"You're right," he said thoughtfully. "I'll come clean. I'm worried about your position. I'd rather you gave the money away than be involved in any—legal unpleasantness."

"Will the police really listen to Agnes while she tells them all about the subconsciousness?"

"Not on your life!" he laughed. "That sort of thing isn't evidence." The laugh was a little too hearty.

"Ralph, do you believe it possible that I could have done as she said without knowing it?"

"No. I don't think it possible in your case. That sort of thing does happen—but with neurotic types, like Agnes herself. The point is that her statement, however silly in itself, will compel the police to sweep aside old Pasely's certificate and—heaven knows what!"

"I can remember so clearly everything that happened."

"Can you!" He was all eagerness. "I say—suppose we go thru what you actually did! It might help us to locate those tablets."

His eye fell on the table. There was the phial, in a litter of 13 tablets, untouched since Lyle Weston had handled them. He dropped the tablets into the phial, screwed the cap, put the phial back into the cabinet.

She went to the cabinet, took up the phial, unscrewed the cap.

"Wait like that!" he ordered. "You and I have been talking about the will. Margaret Steel is interfering with our lives and we are cutting her out. In your mind is the knowledge that if she were to die tonight, you and I would be rich tomorrow—and free."

"I wasn't thinking about that." She added: "Not consciously."

"Not consciously," he echoed. "Go ahead."

"I shake one tablet into my hand—like this. And I notice that the phial is half empty. I screw the cap on again, keeping the tablet in the palm of my hand—like this."

"Could the five have dropped to the floor while you were shaking out the one?"

"No. Look—they'd have been bound to spill over my hand."

"Then could—no, never mind."

"What were you going to say?"

"Nothing!"

"What about perfect frankness, Ralph?"

"Very well! For the purpose of the experiment, I was going to say—are you dead sure you didn't shake the whole six into your hand?"

"Of course I'm sure!" She caught her breath. "No, I'm not!"

"What!"

"How can I be sure?" she reasoned. "If my brain played me that trick last night, it will be playing the same trick again."

"Gillian!" It was a pinched cry of dread.

"Ralph! You are not sure of me!" she gasped.

"The wedge!" she whispered. "You can't marry a woman who might be a murderess!"

Both started, as there came the ring of the telephone in the hall.

"Perhaps that is the police," she muttered.

"The police wouldn't telephone. I'll answer."

"It's Valerie Weston," he announced. "I think—I think you'll have to speak to her yourself, Gillian."

As she picked up the receiver, Valerie spoke.

"I'm with Agnes. I persuaded her to wait until I had rung you. The offer is still open, Gillian. Will you accept it—a fifth each, and no bother?"

For a moment Gillian hesitated.

"Gillian, did you hear me?" demanded Valerie. "Are you there?"

"Yes, I heard you, Valerie. I've nothing to say."

"I was afraid you would send them packing, but I had to leave you a free choice." With a last flicker of hope Ralph added: "Change your mind. We could ring back and stop them. Let me go and frighten them."

"I don't see that it would be the slightest use. Agnes will talk about it even if she's bullied into keeping away from the police. We should have to face it all later on."

"I don't believe you realize what it means!" he cried, desperate now.

"I know it's going to be horrible. But I'm not really afraid. After all, everybody knows that an innocent person can't be convicted."

"Even if that's true—and some people doubt it—there would be weeks in a remand prison, perhaps months, and then all the nervous horror of the trial."

She was unmoved. "We can't bribe our way out of all that and we can't get married until this is settled, Ralph," she said.

"We can, too, provided we stay in Tenstable. It would look like running away if we left."

"I wasn't thinking of that—I was thinking of us. You don't believe I murdered Aunt Margaret. You believe I did not. But you are not utterly and absolutely sure."

Thru the Looking Glass

It's during the summer, when she's out of school, that mother can get in her best licks at training the little girl in the ways that will help her to be a good looking girl and woman.

The scrubbings come first. These are the days when she needn't be hurried at her bath and the face and hand washings that should be a "must" before every meal. She can take time to learn the habits of cleanliness—and it's a wise mother who herself takes the time to see to it that small daughter doesn't cheat on ears, neck, fingernails, and, above all, on the tooth brushings morning and night, preferably after every meal as well.

This can be the time when she learns about hair brushing, too. If she's old enough to wield a brush the vacation season is the ideal time to instill in her the habit of using it, not for just a quick lick and a promise, but for the good old hundred strokes a day that burnish hair to beauty and to health.

She can learn how to care for her hands, too; first, by keeping them clean, then by learning how to persuade the cuticle back ever so gently with the towel after every hand-washing. Her small nails should be trimmed straight across, not shaped; they'll grow strong at the sides, as they should be, and they'll look better that way on tiny fingers.

None of this has anything to do with dolling the little girl up, a process on which some mothers go a bit haywire. It's all a matter of taste, we suppose, but it seems to us that permanent waves and nail polish and tricky hairdo's defeat their own purpose in little girls. Small, scrubbed, sweet faces, square little hands, and diminutive bodies have in themselves a charm and beauty that need no adornment of the obviously dull kind.

Packaged pudding and cake mixes have soared in popularity since sugar became more valuable than rubies. They can't hold out indefinitely, tho, for, like the now virtually unobtainable gelatin desserts, they are made with sugar too.

Bakeries are taking a beating with strictly limited supplies of fats and sugar and 10 times more customers. Before complaining about poor quality in bakery goods, the homemaker should recognize the fact that commercial institutions have their headaches too. The wonder is that bakeries have been able to turn out as many sweet rolls, coffee cakes, cookies, loaf and layer cakes of near pre-war quality as they have been placing before their hordes of greedy customers.

If we've got to do without sugar, summer is the best time to be deprived. From the standpoint of a good diet, nothing is healthier than fresh fruit for dessert, and summer's the time to enjoy cherries, berries, melons, peaches, grapes, and others of nature's own perfectly packaged refreshments.

Personally I'll take my seedless grapes "au naturel," but if you should happen to have a little confectioners' sugar at hand and want to frost some for a party, here's how:

Frosted Grapes

Beat together an egg white and 2 tablespoons cold water. Dip small clusters of washed and dried seedless grapes into the egg white, then roll in confectioners' sugar and lay out on waxed paper or in a sieve to dry. Don't try to frost each grape in the cluster. Coating the outside ones or the end ones is sufficient.

Frozen fruits are best when served ALMOST thawed, with some of the frost still in them. Good, too, are certain fresh fruits, semi-frozen in the refrigerator. Take peaches, for example, or red raspberries. Cut up the peaches, wash the berries, sprinkle sugar lightly [it will have to be lightly!] over the fruit, place in freezing tray and allow to become delicately frozen. Do not allow the fruit to become really frozen and hard. Serve in sherbet glasses while frosty.

The fat, oversize cultivated blueberries taste wonderful with only milk or cream, but they're good in a simple baked pudding, too. This one's easy on sugar.

Blueberry Crumb Pudding

[Serves four]

1 cup zwieback, rusk or toast crumbs
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons melted margarine
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups [1 pint] fresh blueberries

Combine crumbs, sugar, margarine, and cinnamon. Place half the berries in greased baking dish and cover with half the crumbs. Add second layer of berries and top with crumbs. Press down rather firmly. Bake at 350 degrees for half an hour. Serve warm or cold with cream.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Baked Fish Fillets with Raisins

[Serves four]

4 fillets, any white fish
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup milk
½ cup white seedless raisins, chopped
2 tablespoons margarine
¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper
¼ cup grated cheese
¼ cup bread crumbs

Wipe fish with damp cloth and arrange in greased baking dish. Add lemon juice and milk. Sprinkle raisins on top. Bake in very hot oven, 500 degrees, for 10 minutes. Meanwhile, melt 2 tablespoons margarine, add mushrooms, cover, and saute gently for 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Prepare white sauce of 2 tablespoons of margarine, flour, milk, salt, and pepper. Add sauted mushrooms. Transfer baked fillets to heat proof platter. Pour liquid left in baking dish into white sauce, mix well. Pour sauce over fillets. Mix cheese and bread crumbs and sprinkle over fish. Place under broiler to brown.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"I've noticed that my green beans and asparagus, canned in a pressure cooker a year ago, are softer than the commercial products. How can I prevent this from happening again?"

Softness may be due either to overprocessing or to the fact that vegetables were not as fresh as they might have been. Be sure vegetables are garden fresh when canning, the closer to the picking time the better. Process only for the required length of time—for asparagus, 40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure for quarts, 35 minutes for pints. Process green beans 40 minutes at 10 pounds pressure for quarts, 30 minutes for pints.

"Can chicken fat be substituted for shortening in baking?"

The fatty tissue is first removed from the chicken, placed in a shallow pan with about ½ as much water, then heated in a slow oven [325 degrees] until the water has evaporated. This is rendering the fat. To clarify it, simply pour thru a strainer. Such fat can then be substituted in the proportion of ⅞ chicken fat to 1 cup other shortening. This should be all right for use in gingerbread, spice cookies, and even pastry.

"A recent prize recipe for molded beet salad says to dissolve lemon gelatin in hot water. Isn't gelatin first softened in cold water, then dissolved in hot water?"

Plain gelatin is first softened in cold water, yes. But this recipe specified lemon gelatin, the regular prepared and packaged fruit gelatin which is immediately dissolved in hot water.

"Can you suggest a remedy for rancid lard?"

If it has just turned rancid, cooking it with a few slices of raw potato may freshen the lard. Be careful not to heat lard to the smoking point. Nothing can be done with really rancid lard except to turn it in for waste fat.

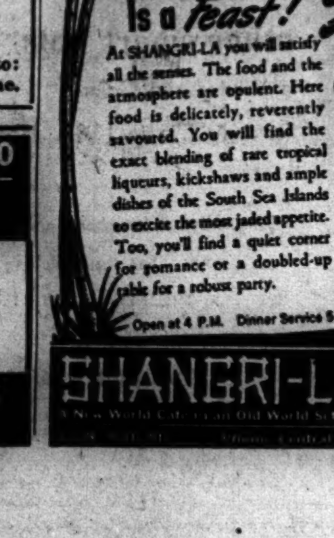
Mr. and Mrs. G. Leon Freedman of Elkins Park, Pa., announce the marriage July 11 of their daughter, Mrs. Marie Louise Warren, formerly of Chicago, to Arthur Freed of New York. The ceremony took place in the Plaza hotel, New York, the Rev. Stephen S. Wise officiating. Mr. Freed and his bride will live in New York.



Zest for Social Life Is Normal in Teen-Agers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Now, tell me all about the family," said grandma. "Is Carol still wrapped up in her music and Don in his books? If I remember correctly, the last time I was here you always were shooing them out of the house. You didn't think so much concentration on piano and literature was good for them."

"Those days have gone, I'm afraid, Mother," answered her daughter. "Now I'm troubled because, while they don't exactly disregard their hobbies, they don't devote nearly the time they used to to them. They're all enthusiasm for parties, dates, and the social whirl."

Are you worrying like that, too? Well don't, because in most instances it's wasted worry. Of course there is such a thing as a boy or girl growing into a superficial, pleasure seeking man or woman, but it's not the logical result of the kind of thing which this mother is apprehensive about.

There arrives, often quite suddenly, a time in the life of boys and girls when they become acutely aware of each other; a time when to be with a crowd of young persons is an absorbing delight, overshadowing in importance almost everything else.

It hits some boys and girls especially hard if they've not had it, and suddenly it comes their way. Then they throw themselves into this satisfying sociability with all their heart and soul. Any grown person who had that experience as a boy or girl, or any grownup looking on with a lot of imagination, can appreciate what a charm, a fascination there is in it, and how it fills the horizon.

It's nature's doing, and if your child has a full life in other ways, this won't throw him off balance. After a while it quiets down, and other interests resume a normal place.

Besides, most young persons study pretty hard at school and college thru the winter. Most of them are pretty serious about it. So when summer comes they feel set free from bondage and want to play hard when they have the chance.

I don't say that this keen zest for boy and girl companionship can be looked for at exactly 15 or 17 years of age. The point is that it is a phase, a natural wholesome one which inevitably comes along, making for a balanced life, which is what we need for our adolescent sons and daughters.

Latest Methods Used by Army to Fight Cancer

today simply because the disease was discovered in its early stages thru army physical examinations. This should hold a message for the civilian public as to the value of routine physical examination and immediate investigation of any abnormal complaint."

Walter Reed, with a patient load of approximately 3,000, also is known as an amputation and chest surgery center. Some of the country's leading surgeons are assigned here. The entire center wing of the hospital is given over to surgery. A peak of 27 operations have been performed in one day.

Because of its fully equipped research and diagnostic laboratories and its position as a unit of the army medical center the hospital has been referred to as a "body of knowledge." Clinical specimens are sent to Walter Reed from many other hospitals thruout the country for diagnosis and study.

Col. Carl J. Lind Jr. is chief of the laboratory service; Capt. Monroe Romansky directs the hospital's large penicillin laboratory.

The army medical center, of which Walter Reed hospital is a part, houses the medical department professional service schools which work in conjunction with the hospital, and have laboratories and equipment for research work in the treatment of various battle wounds and diseases.

In the army medical school officers and enlisted men of the medical department receive further instruction in the application of medical knowledge to the problems of military medicine. At present the school is concentrating on the study of tropical diseases. Teachers for these classes are drawn from the school staff, from the surgeon general's office here in Washington, from the hospital, and from civilian consultants.

The army dental school manufactures false teeth by the thousand for service men; the army veterinary school inspects meat and dairy products as well as other foods of animal origin used by the army in this country and overseas.

Girl, 16, Frets; Kid Brother Is a Skirt-Clinger

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

on the SOLID side

Brothers—sometimes spelled bothers—can make or break a good family. When a particular joe is older than his sister, he seems strictly wonderful. He can bring fellows home for the evening, introduce his young sister to potential date material and show her the ropes as far as boy-girl friendships are concerned. But when the character in question is on the other side of the age limit, when he's just a "kid brother," he often becomes a problem. Even tho he may not put frogs in his sister's bed or read her mail, like the typical kid brother in the movies, he can be even more annoying in small ways.

Here's a letter from one of those big sisters who is beginning to think she was left on the family doorstep in a basket for all the consideration she gets from junior. It gives out this way:

"I'm 16 and have a brother who is only 10 and who is definitely on the spoiled side. Just because of him I never get a chance to have fun. I have to work around the house all day, and he makes it even harder by never picking up his clothes, tidying his room, or even making his bed occasionally. Because he isn't allowed to go out at night, neither am I, for fear he'll be discontented if I'm allowed to do something he isn't. I haven't seen a movie for over five months. If I do ever get a chance to go out, I have to drag him along with me, and my girl friends have almost stopped asking me to go places with them, because they're tired of having him tag along."

When you're stuck with a fish that's under-sized, you can throw him back in and try again, but the brother problem is not so simple. Why not try talking to your mother about this situation, asking for one afternoon and one evening a week strictly for yourself. Tell her that absence makes the heart grow fonder and that you could be fonder of your young brother if you didn't have to spend all your time with him. And try to get on a friendlier basis with the young character himself; find things for him to do, games for him to play. Try to interest him in something—making a garden in the back yard, working on model airplanes, or playing with felllows his own age. He only tags along with you because he has nothing more exciting to do. He's young and he doesn't know why he's so restless, but you're a pretty big gal now and you realize that he's just bored. Help him find a way to have fun and he'll let you have fun, too.

Non-Oral Instructioin in Reading Succeeds, Conference Is Told

The non-oral system of teaching reading is not a fad and has been highly successful during a 10 year experiment with 70,000 pupils in Chicago's elementary schools, Prof. Guy T. Buswell, head of the educational psychology department at the University of Chicago, said yesterday.

Prof. Buswell was the speaker at the final session of the eighth annual reading conference attended by 1,200 persons at the university. The non-oral system is the method by which pupils are taught to read without first making them associate sound with words. Non-oral experiments, Prof. Buswell said, were restricted to first and second grade classes in 137 schools.

"Thruout the experiment," he explained, "the objective was to enable the pupils to think the meaning without pronouncing the word. The speaking of words is unnecessary and cumbersome and non-oral instruction is a logical step in the evolution of the teaching of reading."

LEGAL TANGLE DELAYS ACTION ON CANAL BILL

Doubt Existence of 90 Ft. Right of Way

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13.—Legislation transferring the Illinois-Michigan canal from the federal government to the state of Illinois for construction of a super-highway is being held up by legal doubts over the existence of a 90 foot right of way, it was learned today.

A bill transferring title to the 92 mile abandoned canal property, extending from Chicago to Peru, Ill., to the state was introduced in the senate May 3 by Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] and was referred to the senate public lands committee the next day. Because the canal was built on public lands, the measure was referred to the interior department for a decision.

No Report on Bill

An interior department official told THE TRIBUNE today no report on Lucas' bill has been made because it had not been determined whether a 90 foot right of way existed for the entire length of the canal, as specified in the bill.

The official said the 90 foot right of way was provided for in an 1822 act of congress, but that an 1827 act, granting additional land for the canal, did not provide for a right of way.

A Supreme court decision of 50 years ago, the Interior department spokesman continued, decided that the United States government and the State of Illinois had abandoned the 90 foot right of way in the 1827 act and that therefore the right of way along certain portions of the canal consisted only of tow paths.

The spokesman said it was the opinion of some legal experts that the Supreme court decision might be reversed if a new suit was carried to the high court.

Referred to Budget Bureau

No decision has been reached by Interior department legal experts, it was learned. Instead, Lucas' bill was referred to the bureau of the budget two weeks ago for a determination of policy. Bills in congress must pass budget bureau review even when they do not involve federal expenditures.

The Lucas bill is now in the legislative reference division of the budget bureau, but an official there told a reporter "the reviewers haven't had a chance to go over it." The Interior department spokesman said the budget bureau's delay might be an indication that the measure will next be sent to the justice department for study.

Rep. J. Ward Smith [R., Ottawa] of the Illinois legislature and chairman of the Illinois-Michigan canal commission, visited Senators Lucas and Brooks [R., Ill.] this week to urge passage of the Lucas bill.

KILLER CUTS PIE FOR REPORTERS; GOES TO DEATH

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 13 (AP)—A few minutes after serving cherry pie to reporters, James Roedl, 27, died before a firing squad in the Utah prison yard today for the hitch-hike slaying of Mrs. Abigail Williams of San Leandro, Cal.

Roedl received the press in the prison chapel where, laughing and joking, he cut slices of pie and handed them out with cups of coffee to reporters, three of whom were girls.

Then he said "so long" and a black hood was slipped over his head.

Strapped Into Old Chair

The Rev. J. P. Moreton, a prison chaplain, said Roedl broke into sobs after he had been strapped into an old wooden chair used in many previous executions. The sobs, however, were not discernible to reporters 25 feet away.

A five man firing squad—with one rifle containing a blank—shot him at 6:57 a. m. Chicago time. Like all persons condemned in Utah, Roedl had been given his choice between the firing squad and the gallows.

Roedl was convicted of killing Mrs. Williams in October, 1942, and leaving her body on a Utah highway.

His companion, Leroy Ritchey, 26, of Gowrie, Tex., pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment. Roedl was convicted and condemned. Mrs. Williams, a school teacher, had picked up the two as hitch-hikers in Denver, Colo.

Visited by Father

Roedl spent his last night quietly. He ate—apparently with relish—his last meal, prepared to his specifications. It included steak, pan gravy, pie, and watermelon. His father, Charles Roedl of Oklahoma City, visited him several hours.

Roedl once was reprieved by Gov. Herbert B. Maw to permit the state board of pardons to examine his medical and mental condition.

Roedl and Ritchey, in testimony at the former's trial, each sought to shift the blame to the other. Roedl contended he was seated in the back seat of Mrs. Williams' automobile, suffering an epileptic fit when Ritchey struck the teacher with a hammer.

Lambros, Greek Star's Owner 40 Years, Sells

Peters S. Lambros, editor and publisher of the Greek Star for more than 40 years, has sold the newspaper to Andrew Fasseas, formerly a member of the state treasurer's staff and active in Illinois Republican affairs. Lambros will devote his time to a syndicated newspaper column, "If it's all Greek to you I have a word for it," based on words of Greek derivation.

DAY by DAY on the FARM of BEN MARKLAND

July 13, 1945.

SCIENTIFIC ventilation of hay mows, developed thru the last five years by agricultural engineers, is expected to revolutionize haying practice all over the country. As long as hay has been grown, farmers have cut their crop, left it on the ground to be dried [cured] by sun and wind, then harvested it for storage. Thru the years there have been many improvements in the machinery used in haying, but the basic method of harvesting never has been changed.

Now, for the first time, farmers are learning to aid nature in the important curing phase, because the development of mow ventilation enables a farmer to harvest his crop after sun and wind only partially have dried the forage. The farmer who has a ventilated mow can gather his crop 24 to 36 hours after it is cut, whereas natural curing processes necessitate the hay's being left on the ground three to four days—longer if rain or high humidity slows the drying process.

How Equipment Works

One of the mows on the Wheaton farm was equipped with ventilating machinery early this spring and was used this week for the first time. It has a set of forward drive fans powered with a five horsepower motor. A wooden tunnel, six feet high and four feet wide, was built ahead of the fans and along the south wall of the mow. Emanating from the base of this tunnel are four auxiliary air ducts, 24 inches wide, 10 inches deep, and 1½ inches above the floor.

Air is drawn into the main tunnel by the fans, forced thru the ducts, and emerges from the opening in the bottom of each duct. The partially cured hay, harvested by a field hay chopper, is brought from the field and dumped into a blower that piles it over the ducts. Air passing upward from the ducts thru the hay completes the drying process.

Double Advantage Found

Engineers recommend that the moisture content of the hay be below 38 per cent before storage in a ventilated mow, whereas most field cured hay is stored with a moisture content of less than 20 per cent. Chopped hay can be piled to a height of eight feet over the ducts from a single cutting. After 10 to 14 days of air drying in the mow, an additional four feet of new hay may be piled over the first cutting.

The advantages of mow drying are twofold: Reduction of danger of weather damage and maintenance of higher feeding value. Hay left on the ground several days for full curing often is weather damaged. Mow cured hay may be gathered when still green, with no shattering of leaves. The stored hay will retain its color up to a year, and tests show a content of carotene [vitamin A] higher in mow cured hay than in field cured hay.

The total cost of installation in the farm barn was $858.19 for a floor 20x36 feet. It will cost about $400 more in lumber and labor to extend the tunnel across the second half of the barn and build five additional ducts to cover a space 24x36 feet.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE first ripe tomato of the season was picked from a Crimson Cushion plant in the Wheaton farm garden Wednesday morning. Almost every year the gardener has ripe tomatoes on the vine before July 4, but the cool weather and light frosts of early June destroyed many of the first blossoms and delayed plant growth enough to delay the harvest season.

All of the tomato plants were started in the farm greenhouse, transplanted to 5 inch and 7 inch pots for hardening in a cold frame, then transplanted to the farm garden in late May. All plants are staked and pruned.

Four varieties of tomatoes are growing, with the Crimson Cushion [beefsteak] the earliest type. Others are John Baer, Rutgers, and Fordhook hybrid. The hybrids are outgrowing the other varieties. All the hybrid plants have large central stems, are about 40 inches tall, and have excellent sets of green fruit.

OPA GIVES DINER A BREAK, IF HE LIVES IN EUROPE

No Points Needed to Buy Packages

Rationed foods, including creamery butter, luncheon meat, corned beef, canned fish, sausage, cheese, and sugar, are being drained away from Chicago's diminishing food supply without the payment of ration stamps by the buyer, and all according to office of price administration regulations.

In Chicago, as in the east, it is possible to obtain from many loop department stores and food stores packages made up to send to civilians in Europe. The packages, which may be sent to England, France, Belgium, parts of Italy, Norway, and Denmark, require points from the exporter but not from the buyer. The exporter is reimbursed by the OPA.

In a Typical Package

A typical package weighing 10 pounds, for sending to France, includes one pound of sugar, two pounds of coffee, 12 ounces of tinned luncheon meat, four ounces of tea, eight ounces of instant cocoa, two three and one-half ounce chocolate bars, two packages of bouillon cubes, four cakes of soap, men's or women's hose, a sewing kit, and razor blades or bobby pins.

The exporter, a loop department store, includes the food, packaging, shipping charges, insurance, and customs duties in the price, which for that assortment is $7.73. Others range in price from $3 to $11.50, depending on the assortment.

Stores said they were unable to give figures on how many packages have been shipped, but volume is steady, they said.

Heavy in Holiday Season

During the holiday season shipments were especially large and they have bounded ahead again since the liberation of Europe, it was said.

The receipt of such shipments could have a marked effect on the European black market, observers noted. Astronomical prices can be obtained on the black market for nearly any item in a package, from butter to soap, far exceeding the price paid by the buyer in the United States.

The sending of packages containing rationed foods is under OPA order 17, but the acceptance of shipments to designated areas is determined by shipping and other considerations. A shipper is not allowed to send more than one package a month to most countries and England requires that it be unsolicited.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

NAB 11 IN RAID A BLOCK FROM WHITE HOUSE

2 Described as 'High' U.S. Officials

Washington, D. C., July 13 [Special]—Five women and six men, two of whom were described by police as "high government officials," were arrested today in a raid on a disorderly house, one city block from the White House.

Scores of home going clerks and bobby soxers watched as the women inmates were placed in patrol wagons and hauled to police headquarters. The six men also were taken into custody but were released later without any charges being placed against them.

Several of the bedrooms in the brick building in the 17000 block of Pennsylvania av. N. W. had peepholes cut into the walls. A quantity of whips, bamboo sticks, and leather belts were seized by the raiders.

Called Science Institute

"Window dressing" paraphernalia in the building included a steam cabinet and other massage equipment. None of it was connected to electrical outlets.

Among the five women arrested was Carmen Beach, 38, recently convicted on charges of white slavery by a District court jury and free on bond pending appeal. A former show girl, she was one of the inmates of the "Hopkins institute," an elaborate "call house" on Connecticut av. raided by federal bureau of investigation agents two years ago.

Held Under $2,500 Bonds

Miss Beach and Philomena Lockhart, 57, were charged with operating a disorderly house and were held under $2,500 bond.

The three other women gave their names as Mary Karika and Dolores Niete, both in their twenties, and Judy Hunt, 27. Mary and Dolores formerly appeared at the Copacabana night club here. Judy insisted she was learning to be a masseuse.

All three are charged with prostitution. They are being held under $500 bond, but will not be released until district health authorities have examined them for venereal diseases.

Four Bedrooms Occupied

Lt. Roy Blick, who led the raiders, said evidence for the raid was obtained by a police under cover agent who patronized the establishment. So sudden was the raid, he said, that four of the bedrooms had occupants when the police entered.

CHURCH PACKS 'EM IN—AT ITS CHICKEN STORE

Boston, Mass., July 13 (AP)—The Rev. Richard Knight, rector of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul, Episcopal, today faced some of the problems that make marketmen's nights sleepless.

Two hundred persons lined up before the church's Tremont st. store to purchase 75 chickens. One of the first women in line said she'd take "three of the largest you have."

The rector explained—only one to a customer. "I've been standing in line since 7 o'clock and should have my choice," she insisted.

The preacher then observed a man slipping in the back door. He told him he would have to stand in line.

The store is operated as an adjunct of the church's 300 acre farm in Hubbardston.

ROBBED OF $45 AND GAS COUPONS

Benjamin Boddy of 918 N. Francisco av. reported to police yesterday that he was robbed of $45 and his gasoline ration coupons by two armed men who entered his automobile at California av. and Le Moyne st.

CUSTOMS TAKES MISS DIETRICH'S WAR SOUVENIRS

New York, July 13 (AP)—Marlene Dietrich arrived in New York today from Paris in an army transport command plane after an 11 month U. S. O. tour of Europe.

As she stepped from the plane, the actress saw her husband, Rudolph E. Sieber, and dropped her luggage in her rush to greet him. Customs officials temporarily confiscated several souvenirs of her tour—two Lugar pistols and three other German guns.

THEATER OF AIR TO OFFER MUSIC IN SUMMER MOOD

Music in summer mood and tempo will be presented on the Chicago Theater of the Air concert over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 9 to 10 o'clock tonight.

Col. Robert McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak. Vocal soloists will be Angelo Raffaelli, tenor; Penny Perry, soprano, and Ruth Slater, contralto.

The music will include "Musetta's Waltz" from "La Boheme," to be sung by Miss Perry, and "Nina" by Raffaelli. The orchestra will present "Espana Rhapsody" and "Scherzo in G Minor" from "Octette." "Home to Our Mountains" will be presented by Miss Slater and Raffaelli and "Sleeping Beauty Waltz" by the chorus. Miss Perry and the chorus will sing "Romany Life."

John Barclay will be the narrator and John Mallow the announcer. Jack Le Frandre is the writer-producer.

RESCUES WOMAN FROM LAKE AS CROWD LOOKS ON

Walter Munson, 39, of 4445 Irving Park rd., a discharged sailor, plunged into the lake off Huron st. last night and rescued Mrs. Mary O'Brien, 30, who told police she had intended to kill herself.

A crowd collected on the beach after some one observed Mrs. O'Brien threshing about in the water 10 yards from Munson. Munson reached her as she was sinking. The woman was unconscious when Munson brought her ashore, but she was revived at Wesley Memorial hospital.

On the beach Policemen Otto Bandemer and Thomas Shevenane found Mrs. O'Brien's purse and two notes, one directing that her mother in Arkansas be notified and the other avowing that she still loved a Paul Ward. The policemen said Mrs. O'Brien, a habitue of north side taverns, was discharged on a disorderly conduct charge in Chicago av. court yesterday.

Accused of Selling Fake Red Points; Held to Jury

Walter Heyn, 35, of 1636 Melrose ct. was held to the federal grand jury in $2,000 bond yesterday when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of illegal possession and transfer of ration coupons good for 1,000 meat points. Office of price administration agents said Heyn sold them the coupons for 1 cent a point. They said Heyn served a burglary term in 1931 at Ionia, Mich.

13 ARMY AIRMEN DIE IN FLORIDA BOMBER CRASH

Panama City, Fla., July 13 (AP)—Thirteen men were killed and one was injured today when a four engine bomber from near-by Tyndall army air field crashed about six miles northwest of here.

Col. Walter W. Ross, commanding officer at the field, said the accident occurred during a routine training flight.

Crew Escapes in Crash

New York, July 13 (AP)—The pilot and five other members of the crew of an army transport command C-54 plane escaped injury today when their four engine ship crashed and burned at New York airport. The plane had been on a test flight when one of its engines burst into flames.

Crash Kills Detroit Pilot

NINE NAMED FOR $86,450 ARLINGTON CLASSIC TODAY

POT O' LUCK IS FAVORITE AT WASHINGTON

Field of 16 Entered in $20,000 Modesty

Field for Classic

NINE 3 year olds have been named to start in the $50,000 Arlington Classic today at Washington Park. The field, listed by post position, follows:

Horse	Wgt.	Jockey	Prob. odds
*Fighting Step	119	G. Smith	4-1
Pot o' Luck	119	D. Dodson	7-5
Dockstader	119	A. Schmidt	12-1
King Dorsett	119	E. Guerin	25-1
*Bergolster	119	J. Adams	4-1
Sea Swallow	119	F. A. Smith	25-1
Air Sailor	119	G. Woolf	8-1
Black Pepper	119	J. Higley	40-1
Sea Swallow	122	H. Woodhouse	6-1

*Muriogg farm entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The devil's red of Calumet farm, borne by the stretch running Pot o' Luck and Doug Dodson, top jockey of the Washington Park meeting, will lead the parade of nine thorobreds today for the 17th running of the $50,000 Arlington Classic at Washington Park.

The mile and a quarter fixture for 3 year olds will be worth $86,450, of which $68,150 will be net to the winner.

Classic day promises to be even more eventful than usual for the $20,000 Modesty handicap for fillies and mares also will be presented, making it the greatest double feature in the history of Chicago racing.

Pot o' Luck Is Favorite

Pot o' Luck, trained by the master, Ben Jones, unquestionably will go postward the favorite of a crowd which the management prophesies will tax the capacity of the Homewood grounds. The Chance Play colt has demonstrated his liking for distance and altho beaten by War Jeep in the recent Skokie handicap, he caught nine of his ten rivals during the long stretch run. It was the same in the Kentucky Derby, in which he finished second to Hoop Jr., after running far behind most of the way.

In addition to his sharpness, Pot o' Luck should draw many backers because of the ability of Trainer Jones to point a horse effectively for a big race and bring him up to top form at post time. Jones has been preparing Pot o' Luck for the Classic for weeks.

Several Have Staying Ability

Contesting the issue with Pot o' Luck will be several stars with staying ability. For instance, there is Greentree stable's Dockstader, which rather recently exhibited plenty of stuff in winning the Diamond State stakes at a mile and a furlong after going wide on the turn.

Charles S. Howard's Sea Swallow, a son of the much admired Sea Biscuit, also is expected to be in contention in the last quarter mile. He won the $25,000 Yankee handicap with a stirring stretch drive.

J. B. Theall's King Dorsett scored in the same fashion in the mile and a sixteenth Kent Stakes at Delaware Park.

Modesty Draws Field of 16

The Muriogg farm of Evansville, Ind., operated by Mrs. Frank J. Murphy and Miss Susan Kellogg, has the only entry in the race, Fighting Step and Bergolster, both of which have won tuneup races.

The field for the Modesty is composed of 16 speedy fillies and mares and includes Louis B. Mayer's Whirlabout, Brownell Combs' Durazna, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's War Date, and Col. C. V. Whitney's Big Push and Flyweight.

Post time for the first of nine races today is 2 o'clock. The Classic will be run as the seventh event, the Modesty as the sixth.

$321.20 Daily Double

Long shot players among the crowd of 16,000 yesterday had a pleasant afternoon and daily double bettors got $321.20 as their reward. A. B. Gay's Buckhorn paid $23.40 in the opener. Sam Roucher's Arielita, which was coupled with Shade Ruff, returned $38.20 in the second.

The program's featured race, the Royal Order of Jesters purse, went to Herbert M. Woolf's Signator by the margin of a neck. Sirde was second and My Pet Rambler third. Billy Nichols was aboard the winner, which paid $14.40.

The day's mutuel handle was $1,077,331.

BY ARCH WARD

CLASSIC DAY, one of racing's annual high spots, is with us again. . . . There's a fresh cast for today's performance at Washington Park—Pot o' Luck, Dockstader, Sea Swallow, King Dorsett. . . . Nevertheless, it brings back recollections of some grand afternoons when Challedon was overhauling Johnstown on the last turn, when Attention was coming alongside Whirlaway in the stretch and when Eddie Arcaro was getting that magnificent break of luck which let him bring Shutout thru along the rail without interference and show the way down that final quarter mile. . . . The big show the fans are waiting for today is to see Pot o' Luck run in the stretch. . . . His predecessor from Calumet farm, Whirlaway, used to give his followers alternate chills and fever by dropping half a city block behind the field before launching his drive. . . . Pot o' Luck doesn't go quite as far with this procedure as Whirlaway, but he does put on the same general kind of show. . . . The Classic, coming in midsummer when the 3 year olds have matured quite a bit, has acquired the tradition of being the maker and breaker of champions. . . . Tho no outstanding 3 year old champion has emerged this season, Pot o' Luck may demonstrate this afternoon that he has what it takes to go on to top ranking. . . .

But the Classic, which will gross about $85,000, is only half of today's star spangled program. . . . The management of the track, headed by Benjamin F. Lindheimer, has arranged the most attractive double feature in the records of Chicago racing. . . . The other half is the $20,000 Modesty handicap, a dash of a mile for fillies and mares. . . . This division, incidentally, is more glamorous than it has been in many seasons. . . . It includes Louis B. Mayer's Whirlabout, Brownell Combs' Durazna, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's War Date and Sharp Watch, Col. C. V. Whitney's Flyweight and Big Push. . . . This is one year when the events for fillies and mares will be as interesting to the general public as they are to the breeders. . . . A surprisingly strong cast of performers has been assembled at Washington Park both in the juvenile and older classes. . . . At many tracks a card like the one offered today at Washington would carry an entire meeting, but this department already is looking forward to next Wednesday when Mrs. Graham's Beaugay races against Col. Whitney's Enfilade in the celebrated Lassie Stakes. . . . These are key events in a brilliant stake program, the like of which you can find nowhere else in the United States this season.

"Heartbreak Trail"

From Kibaw in Mindanao
To Davao there's a trek
Where our soldiers wade with never a shade
In mud up to the neck.
The lumb'ring water buffaloes,
They prod and sometimes flail,
Supplies to drop to the men up top—
They call it the "Heartbreak Trail."

A little over four short miles
Is the most they can make in a day,
Puffing, panting, struggling
Up that steep and tortuous way,
With the enemy lurking in ambush
All along this treacherous climb,
Those American boys keep carrying on
With a courage nigh sublime.

O, you who start feeling the war's about won
And grow lax in the matter of mail,
Just let your thoughts stray down Mindanao way
To those boys on the "Heartbreak Trail"!

His First Errand

Today he completed his first mission

Minute details for the expedition
Were mapped by "Mom" to carry in his head;

Now go only to the grocery store
And don't talk to strangers you may meet."
But armed with rations he flew out the door,
Bestowing a kiss with jelly flavor.
He was a knight in overalls and shirt
Smiling gallantly beneath streaks of dirt.
She watched him turn the corner of the block
And regretted he had been sent alone,
She paced between the window and the clock,
All thought of household tasks had flown.
She heard a carefree whistle on the air,
Then nonchalantly he was standing there,
Grinning with triumph that showed his dimple,
"Gee, Mom, that was neat. Errands are simple."

BYRD DEFEATS GHEZZI, 7 AND 6; NELSON WINS

Harmon and Doser Also Triumph

BY CHARLES BARTLETT
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Dayton, O., July 13—You ought to meet Claude [Butch] Harmon Jr., a 23 month old tyke who is cheering for his old man, Claude Sr., the Detroit golf pro, to upset Byron Nelson, currently the top man in the golf leagues, in one of tomorrow's semi-finals in the 27th National Professional golf tournament at the Moraine Country club.

Butch Jr. is a bit too young to understand completely the doings, but he seemed to be a bit excited today when he saw his dad beat Ralph Hutchison of Bethlehem, 4 and 3, in the last of four quarter-final duels. And now that Butch has caught on that his pa is some shakes as a golfer, he'd like nothing better than to see the old gent celebrate his 29th birthday anniversary tomorrow by ousting Mr. Nelson, who even little Butch knows is about the best in the business.

Nelson Eliminates Shute

Nelson entered the round of four by defeating another great showman, Denny Shute, 4 and 3, altho Denny, one time winner of 14 straight P. G. A. matches, carried Nelson to the 33d green.

The other side of tomorrow's semi-finals is equally interesting bringing together Sam Byrd of Detroit, Mich., and Clarence Doser of Hartsdale, N. Y.

Byrd, the one time understudy to Babe Ruth in the New York Yankee outfield had the easiest task in the quarter-finals, knocking out Victor Ghezzi of Deal, N. J., 1941 champion, 7 and 6, in the most decisive match today.

Doser Defeats Laffoon

As for Doser, who may seem unfamiliar in such a select circle as the P. G. A. meet semi-finals, he advanced by beating Ky Laffoon of Chicago's St. Andrew's' club, 2 and 1, altho Ky was the headman for awhile. Previous to today Doser proved himself by upsetting Jug McSpaden in a first round match and yesterday beat Toney Penna, the home town boy, in 37 holes.

Byrd was the first of the four to qualify for tomorrow's round and had little trouble with Ghezzi. He was two up by the end of eight holes, augmented his advantage by going four up thru the 13th, yielded the 16th, and again went four up on the 18th. Once the last 18 started, the Georgian had a comfortable advantage to work with.

Shute Bothers Nelson

Shute caused Nelson some difficulty after being two down at the end of the morning 18, coming back twice to cut By's margin before going three down on the 29th. Nelson was that many to the good on the 34th tee, when the match concluded.

Hutchison, too, caused his opponent some trouble in the morning round, and he and Harmon ended the first 18 all even, each carding a 71, but Claude took three of the first four afternoon holes.

JOE RENFROE, BRILLIANT TULANE KICKER, TO PLAY WITH ALL-STARS

BY WILFRID SMITH

"One of the greatest kickers in the history of Tulane university football." That's the opinion Coach Claude Simon expressed of Joe Renfroe's ability when he found out that Tulane's star back of last season had accepted an invitation to join the All-Stars for their game with the Green Bay Packers in Soldiers' field Aug. 30.

JOE RENFROE

Simon, an authority because of his own career as player at Tulane, where he was graduated 10 years ago, and as Tulane's incumbent coach, pulled no punch in praising Renfroe.

"Renfroe can play either half back," he said. "He's a real triple threat with emphasis on long distance kicking. And his hard charging runs thru the center of the line are constant threat to any defense."

Feats Speak for Themselves

Horace Renegar, director of Tulane's publicity, can talk lyrically of Renfroe's ability, perhaps an easily acquired habit during the three years Joe was Tulane's star, but actually Renfroe needs no such verbal backing.

Renfroe's passing and running always have been above the average. His 210 pounds, plus unusual speed, helped him to stardom in his sophomore campaign. But it is as a long distance kicker that he surpasses all contenders. Chicago's All-Star fans, accustomed to the exploits the last two years of Lt. Glenn Dobbs, will see in Renfroe another kicker who ranks with the best in collegiate history.

Dobbs set up one of the All-Stars' touchdowns last August with an 85 yard punt, the ball being put in play

Ruth More of Peoria Takes Golf Title, 1 Up

Decatur, Ill., July 13 (AP)—Ruth More, long driving Peoria miss, who had been a semi-finalist three times, today came from behind to win the Illinois Women's Golf association championship, defeating medalist Virginia Nilles of Park Ridge, 1 up.

Miss More, 2 down after 27 holes, squared the match on the 33d when she fired a par four, and on the 596 yard 34th came thru with a par five to go ahead of Miss Nilles. The two halved the last two holes to give Miss More the crown.

Two short putts that Miss Nilles missed on the afternoon round cost her the crown. A 14 inch putt hung on the lip of the cup on the 25th hole, and she failed to sink a two footer on the 28th. On both holes, she would have had a half with Miss More if she had dropped the putts, but instead she lost both.

When Miss More went 1 up on the 34th, it marked the first time she had held an advantage in the final round. She was 4 down after the first nine of the morning round, all even at the end of 18, and 2 down at the end of 27. The cards:

Lopat Victim of Senators' Rally in 9th

BY IRVING VAUGHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 13—The hapless White Sox continued tonight to be more or less mystified by the antics of Washington's Senators, who registered their sixth straight victory over James Dykes' boys and thus moved a bit closer to first place and farther away from the obscure seventh notch they occupied only a few weeks back. The locals put over this one by 3 to 2, breaking up an Ed Lopat-Milton Haefner mound duel with a ninth inning run before an 11,177 crowd.

The Sox, who couldn't win on 11 hits last night, cut themselves down to five against Haefner's southpawing tonight. The fact that they were able to score twice on this skimpy allotment is easily explained. Three of the five hits occurred in the first inning to produce the runs but the Chicagoans subsided quickly. They registered a fourth hit to open the second inning and then didn't get another runner to base until the ninth.

Senators Rally in Ninth

Lopat's lead vanished in the fourth and fifth innings after which his troubles were strictly on the inconsequential side until George Binks opened the ninth with a hit. Mike Tresh erased this by picking the gent off first base, but the feat apparently didn't discourage the Senators. Gil Torres singled and so did Al Evans, whose bat had arranged for the tying run in the fifth. George Zardon was purposely passed, filling the bases and, on Haefner's tap, Torres was forced at the plate. But George Case singled to left, Evans scoring . . . and that was all.

The Sox flareup as soon as they observed Haefner in action was touched off by a single to center with which Wally Moses opened the evening's entertainment. Leroy

BY EDWARD BURNS

Ray Prim, the Cubs' gray but sometimes vigorous lefty, was the main man on both defense and offense yesterday as Chicago beat Boston, 2 to 0, before a ladies day crowd of 13,454 in Wrigley field.

In the defense phase, Prim yielded four hits, all singles, and two of the total immediately were blotted out by double plays. On offense, Ray, who discovered what his bat was for when he made three successive hits in Philadelphia a week ago today, yesterday got two of the Cubs' seven and both were essential to the run total.

Workman's Error Helps

The first Cub run, the one which was adequate for the first placers' victory, was scored after two were out in the fifth inning. After Peanuts Lowrey had grounded out and Dewey Williams had been whiffed by Bob Logan, Lennie Merullo beat out a single to Chuck Workman and went on to second when Chuck threw the ball to the boxes. Prim then lined a single to center, scoring Merullo, and got to second on a throw to the plate. Stan Hack drew Logan's only pass but Don Johnson popped to Workman.

The Cubs' insurance run also was produced after two were out. With one down in the seventh, Prim lined a single to left and was forced by Hack. Johnson then tripled to right, scoring Hack. Bill Nicholson flied to Tommy Holmes to end it.

Stan, Phil Stopped

Johnson, by the way, was the only athlete in this game to knock an extra base hit, and his triple was the only hit made by the top four in the Cub batting order. Hack was stopped after hitting in eight straight games and Phil Cavarretta went hitless after hitting in 11. Nicholson was blanked, too, but Bill had no streak. He was blanked in the second game of Thursday's double header.

Defensively Prim had only one tough inning—immediately after he had driven in that 1 to 0 lead for himself. Vince Shupe opened the sixth with a single to left and Logan sacrificed, Eddie Joost walked and the runners advanced while Prim was throwing out Dick Culler. Holmes drew Prim's second and last pass of the game, loading the bases. Then Workman grounded to Johnson.

The Cubs and Braves will conclude their series this afternoon with Paul Derringer trying for his 10th favorable decision. He will be opposed by Don Hendrickson, one time House of David star, recently acquired from the Milwaukee Brewers.

WILLIE JOYCE GAINS VERDICT OVER RUFFIN

New York, July 13 (AP)—Willie Joyce, the 1 to 2 favorite, gained a 12 round split decision over Bobby Ruffin in Madison Square Garden tonight.

A crowd of 13,034 that paid $52,414 saw Joyce win on the votes of the two judges, Tom Guilfoyle and George Lecron, after Referee Eddie Josephs had given it to Ruffin, seven rounds to five.

Lecron voted for Joyce, seven to five, while Guilfoyle, altho giving each six rounds, picked Joyce because of his aggressiveness.

PAT SEEREY TIES HIT RECORD AS CLEVELAND WINS

Drives in Eight Runs in 16 to 4 Victory

New York, July 13 (AP) — Pat Seerey, portly right fielder of the Cleveland Indians, hit three home runs into the left field pavilion and slammed a triple besides for 15 total bases and eight runs batted in as the Indians defeated the New York Yankees 16 to 4 today before a ladies' day crowd of 10,283, including 6,932 paid.

Left Fielder Jeff Heath of the Indians hit two home runs, his sixth and seventh of the season, and Pitcher Steve Gromek hit a double and three singles as the Indians collected 17 hits off the combined offerings of their old nemesis, Atley Donald, Walt Dubiel, and Semerson Roser.

Seerey and Heath hit their second home runs in succession in the fourth, Seerey's coming with the bases filled. Pat's third was off Roser in the seventh with two on. The last American league player to hit three home runs in a game was Rudy York of Detroit, Sept. 1, 1941.

Liff, Vicini Meet Today in Title Match

Earl Liff, the 16 year old Twin Orchard golfer, and Dan Vicini, an aircraft plant worker, meet today for the 18th annual Midwest Amateur golf championship at the Waveland course in Lincoln Park. The twosome will play 18 holes in the morning, and after lunch, will pair up for the final 18.

Liff was forced to the 19th green before he downed the golfing policeman, Frank Hayes of Tam O'Shanter, 1 up in the semi-finals.

Vicini, who became the tournament favorite after beating the defending champion Lew Esposito of Franklin Park in the quarter-finals, had less trouble with his opponent yesterday. He scored a 4 and 3 decision over Alex Badal of the home club. Vicini lost little time in his match, posting a 35, one stroke under par on the out nine, to hold a 3 up lead at the turn. The match ended on the sixth hole of the second nine when Badal three putted.

Hayes was two up on Liff at the end of 15 holes, but Earl won the 16th and 17th and they halved the 18th. Earl won on the 19th with a four when Hayes came up with a five.

Star Punter of Tulane to Aid All-Stars

on the All-Stars' 13 yard line and rolling dead on the Bears' 2 yard line. It is a record for the 11 All-Star games sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities. Renfroe, or any other man, scarcely can break this record, but his long kicking, always dependable, may be equally important.

Served in Air Corps

Renfroe is 23 years of age and he's 6 feet 2 inches tall. Height is important, and Dobbs, who is 6 feet 4 inches, had this physical advantage in punting. Renfroe's home is in Fort Meyers, Fla. He was graduated this year. He has been honorably discharged from the army air corps and recently was named assistant coach at the Gulf Coast Military academy, where he will assume his duties in September.

Talbert Gains Semi-Finals in Tennis Meet

Neenah, Wis., July 13 [Special] – Bill Talbert and Elwood Cooke, top seeded in the Western Senior tennis tournament gained the semi-final round today in the mens' singles by halting the bids of Francisco Arcocha of Mexico and Jim Livingston, San Francisco, Cal.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke advanced to the semi-final bracket in womens singles with an easy victory over Louise Snow, Bakersfield, Cal., 6-0, 6-0. Catherine Malcolm of Chicago, Illinois state champion lost to Doris Hart, Miami, Fla., in another quarter-final match, 6-2, 6-1.

Schalk sacrificed and Guy Curtright flied to right, putting matters squarely up to John Dickshot. He responded with a single. Moses running home from second. Not satisfied with his single, Dickshot stole second, continued to third on Evans' bad throw, and jogged in with the second run when Tony Cuccinello singled to left. Then Cass Michaels singled to open the second inning and that was the last of the Sox attack for quite a stretch.

Sox Lead Is Erased

George Myatt, who produced the first hit off Lopat in the opening inning, also produced the next—a single to start the fourth. He went to second on Fred Vaughn's infield out and was chased across the plate by Harlond Clift's single. Lopat managed to subdue the next two batters but was back in difficulties as soon as the fifth opened. Evans led off with his double and scored the tying run when Zardon singled, the latter being nipped trying to go to second on the throw-in.

The break in the parade of Sox batters who stepped to the plate after Michaels' hit in the second inning and accomplished nothing didn't come until Dickshot walked with two out in the ninth. With Dickshot on the move in a hit and run maneuver, Cuccinello pushed a single into right, Dickshot taking third. But this slim chance faded when Bill Nagel hoisted to George Case, and the Senators then proceeded to fix up Lopat and the other Sox for bed.

Oak Park Club Represented in Tribune Swim

The Oak Park Country club will be represented by eight boys and girls in the Chicagoland 100 yard swimming races. The Oak Park team, entered by the director of the pool, Orin K. Noth, will compete in the qualifying trials a week from this afternoon in Cermak pool, Lyons, Ill.

On the same afternoon trials will be held at Sherman park, Racine av. and 52d st. Additional qualifying races will be held on the following day at Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avs., and California park, 3901 N. California av. Approximately 120 boys and girls will qualify from these four centers for the championships July 29 at California park.

Two days remain in which to enter the 16th annual races sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities. Entries will be accepted if postmarked before midnight tomorrow.

Members of the Oak Park Country club team, competing at Cermak pool, are Judy Conley and Sue Hillborn, class A; Tom Kerwin, class B; Dick Hall, class C; Harris Lang, Lyman White, and Jack Kelly, class D, and Marge Siler, class E.

Among the more distant swimmers entering the meet is William Donovan Jr. of Toledo, O. He has entered the sectional meet at California park and will compete in class E for boys 19 years of age and over. He represents the Toledo K. of C.

Cubs Send Christopher to Los Angeles Farm

WPB APPROVES 644 RAIL CARS TO AID TRAVEL

Priorities Assigned for Constructon

Seeking to ease the travel difficulty caused by recent office of defense transportation restrictions on railroad passenger service, the war production board yesterday approved the construction of 644 new passenger cars. Included were cars previously authorized but not built.

The WPB granted AA-2 priority ratings for materials and parts to be used in the construction. Production of the new equipment will begin soon and is expected to reach a rate of 250 cars in the first quarter of 1946 and 400 cars in the second quarter.

Building Halted by War

Included in the authorizations were 16 chair cars and 5 mail-baggage cars being built by the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company in its Philadelphia plant for the Santa Fe railway. Work was in progress on the Santa Fe cars at the time of Pearl Harbor, but the WPB refused to permit them to be completed, altho they would have been highly valuable in the present car shortage.

Delivery of the Santa Fe cars is scheduled from early September to December. They were intended originally for de luxe transcontinental passenger service.

In one of the largest passenger equipment deals in months, the Missouri Pacific and the Texas and Pacific lines placed 12 million dollars in orders for new lightweight cars and diesel-electric locomotives. The new equipment will be used to make up streamliners to replace the steam powered Sunshine Special trains which the two roads operate between St. Louis and Memphis and T. & P. trains between New Orleans and El Paso.

Delivery Late Next Year

The trains will contain 100 cars built by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, Chicago, and the American Car and Foundry company, St. Charles, Mo. The Electro-Motive division of General Motors corporation will build the locomotives in its La Grange plant. Included will be four units of 4,000 horse power and three of 2,000.

The Erie railroad awarded contracts to the Bethlehem Steel company for construction of 600 all steel 70 ton drop and gondola cars at Johnstown, Pa., and to the Greenville [Pa.] Steel company for 100 all steel 70 ton covered hopper cars. These cars will be in addition to the 700 ordered June 30 from the American Car and Foundry company.

RAIL'S TRUSTEE ASKS TO PAY OFF 24 MILLION LOAN

St. Louis, Mo., July 13 (AP)—In similar petitions filed in United States District court today, Guy Thompson, trustee for the Missouri Pacific railroad, and William A. Kissel, secretary-treasurer, asked authority to retire $24,183,600 of 4 per cent bonds of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain, and Southern railroad, River and Gulf division. A hearing was set for July 25.

Thompson's petition seeks an additional interest payment of $484,792 which becomes due Nov. 1, 1945. Kissel's petition on behalf of the railroad's debtors asked for accrued interest.

Kissel told the court that on March 1 the MOP had on hand more than 15 million dollars and that monthly income since then greatly exceeded operations cost.

APPROVE BOOST IN EXPORT BANK LENDING POWER

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The house passed 102 to 6 and sent to the senate today legislation raising lending powers of the Export-Import bank from 700 million to 3½ billion dollars and making the bank an independent, permanent government agency.

The house defeated, 93 to 9, an effort by Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.] to write in an amendment denying loans of the bank to countries that did not abide by certain provisions of the Atlantic Charter.

Opponents argued that this would bring about "dollar diplomacy" and force the President to pass on the politics of every country seeking a loan.

Tax and Work Rules for GI's New Business

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

(This is the seventh of a series of articles on business practices and opportunities for veterans.)

In addition to the business responsibilities industrial and commercial enterprises impose on their owners, there are state and federal taxes and regulations which a war veteran starting in business must keep in mind every working day.

Among the more commonly known levies is the Illinois retailers occupational [sales] tax. This is collectible at the rate of 2 per cent of 98 per cent of gross receipts and is payable monthly to the director of revenue.

Income Tax Deductions

Another tax is the computation and deduction from employes' weekly or semi-monthly wages of amounts to be withheld under the pay as you go provisions of the federal income tax law. After each quarter of the year, employers must remit the full amount of the tax withheld to the district collector of internal revenue.

The employer himself is subject to income tax, but his manner of payment is different. As the law now stands he is required to report his income and pay the tax thereon on a quarterly basis. His returns will require more paper work than that of the average employe.

A federal old age benefit tax is another obligation of employers. It applies to all industrial and commercial establishments which employ one or more persons. It takes 1 per cent of employes' pay and a matching contribution from the employer. The workers' share is deducted each pay day. At the end of each quarter the deducted amounts and the employers contributions are paid to the district collector of internal revenue. Only major exceptions are agricultural and domestic help.

Unemployment Benefits

In the event a veteran employs six or more workers 20 or more weeks in a calendar year he becomes liable, almost without exception, for payment of unemployment compensation benefits. Illinois state law requires such an employer to pay a flat 2.7 per cent of wages quarterly until he has completed five consecutive years of liability experience.

Thereafter he may pay as low as 0.5 per cent or as high as 3.6 per cent, depending on his individual employment experience and the extent to which workers thruout the state have drawn benefits from the unemployment compensation trust fund.

The federal unemployment tax of 3 per cent becomes applicable when the number of persons employed on some part of a day in 20 or more weeks reaches eight or more. This, however, is not entirely in addition to the state levy.

If an employer subject to both state and federal acts pays his state contribution in full and on time, he may obtain a 90 per cent offset credit against his federal tax regardless of his state contribution rate.

City Levies Taxes, Too

Besides these more or less well known taxes, the veteran is liable for a real estate tax if he owns the property on which his store or shop is located, and various city licenses and permits.

These vary from one community to another, but a partial list of the licenses required in Chicago illustrates how many establishments need approval from the city clerk before operations may start. The Chicago list includes, among others, candy and confectionery stores, meat markets, hardware stores, garages and repair shops, dairy product stores, filling stations, bakeries, and grocery stores.

Among the regulations are the state workmen's compensation act, child labor laws, and maximum hour provisions.

DAIRY LEADERS PREDICT MORE CIVILIAN FOOD

Dairy industry leaders yesterday said they were confident that "America has completed an about-face and headed back toward the bread, butter, and meat standard of living."

D. T. Carlson, president of the American Dairy association, told the organization's executive committee in the Morrison hotel that "the war time theme of sharing scarcity is swinging toward the sounder solution—long urged by the industry—of production of pounds and reduction of points."

A turning point in the food crisis is at hand, Carlson said. Government policies promise to be more favorable to increased production.

GRAINS CLIMB; RYE AND WHEAT TOUCH NEW TOP

Price Support Plan Boosts Buying

Grain prices tended higher yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat and rye were up more than 1 cent a bushel at one time, touching new peaks. Wheat closed ⅛ to ½ cent higher and rye unchanged to 1 cent up. Trading in corn was small and at the ceiling price. Oats gained ⅛ to ⅝. Barley finished ¼ lower to ⅜ higher.

Buying of wheat increased on announcement that the Commodity Credit corporation was considering supporting the wheat market in the southwest at the government loan price or slightly higher and that the sale of wheat for feed would be announced soon.

Trade in Wheat Expands

Trading in wheat futures has increased rapidly in the last few days with hedging sales offset by general buying. Professional traders were reluctant to sell because of the expected price support.

Movement of winter wheat in the southwest was only fair as rains again delayed harvest in parts of Oklahoma and Kansas. Box cars remain scarce and are expected to be in even smaller supply when the general harvest in Kansas and Nebraska begins soon.

Transactions in the deferred deliveries of rye continued rather large, but operations in July were small and the market was easily influenced by small orders. Trade is limited to liquidation of contracts.

Martin Charge Not an Influence

The commodity exchange administration's filing of charges against Glenn L. Martin, aircraft manufacturer, alleging he violated CEA regulations in purchasing 3,300,000 bushels of rye futures on June 9, or 1,300,000 bushels in excess of the daily limit, had no market influence. Brokers said this line of rye had been sold out recently.

Commission houses with eastern affiliations again were active buyers of oats futures, with prices at the top about 5 cents above the low of last week.

RAILROAD SEEKS REFUNDING ISSUE AT LOWER COST

Plans for refunding 10 million dollars of Western Pacific railroad 4 per cent first mortgage bonds thru sale of a similar amount of new 3 per cent bonds were disclosed yesterday in an application with the interstate commerce commission. The 4 per cent bonds are redeemable on 30 days notice at 102½ and accrued interest.

A 10 million dollar issue of British Columbia Power corporation 4 per cent first refunding and collateral trust bonds will be offered Monday at 100 and accrued interest. Proceeds will be used for additional property and plant facilities, and for other corporate purposes.

An amendment filed with the securities and exchange commission set the offering price to stockholders of Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company's issue of 412,596 additional common shares at $11 per share. The stock will be offered first on the basis of 4 shares of new stock for each 10 shares held.

45,000 Idle Thru Strikes in 20 Cities

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Labor disputes disrupted industries in more than 20 cities yesterday and kept idle about 45,000 persons. New cities were listed on the strike front as the number of walkouts rose to a new high for the month. One strike which ended enabled 7,900 workers to go back to their jobs.

The controversies, some of which have failed of settlement after weeks of idleness, affected coal miners in Illinois and Pennsylvania; cigar workers in Tampa, Fla., and thousands of men and women employed in war plants.

Illinois Miners Strike

One of the newest strikes was at seven coal mines in southern Illinois. Officials of the Progressive Mine Workers said 3,000 employes in seven mines in the Gillespie-Benld area decided to refuse to go to work as a protest against the shortage of meat. A resolution adopted by the miners said: "We stay at home from work in the mines as a protest until we get more meat and points."

Milk deliveries in Detroit were back to normal for the first time since Monday as the 1,000 striking employes of two dairies returned to work. The walkout had deprived a half million Detroiters of their milk.

Other Labor Disputes

Other labor disputes and the number of workers affected were: Detroit, 2,900 at Graham-Paige Motors corporation, 500 at American Metal Products company and 700 at 12 lumber yards; 3,316 coal miners in Pennsylvania and 475 in Ohio, 6,500 CIO United Automobile Workers at Spicer Manufacturing corporation in Toledo; 1,250 at Solvay Process company in Syracuse, N. Y.; 1,500 at De Laval Steam Turbine company in Trenton, N. J.; 350 at Acme Steel and Malleable Iron Works in Buffalo, N. Y.; 550 cigar workers at two Tampa, Fla., factories; 1,500 construction workers in Washington, D. C.; 1,000 at Anchor-Hocking Glass company, Connellsville, Pa.; 600 at the Torrington company, South Bend, Ind., and 87 Minnesota grain weighers.

LOW LIVE STOCK SUPPLIES SELL MOSTLY STEADY

Supplies of live stock from farms yesterday were "lowest for Friday since the war began in 1939. Total arrivals of cattle, calves, hogs, sheep, and lambs were 11,000 head, compared with 13,811 a week earlier and 22,700 a year ago.

Only 7,500 hogs arrived, including shipments direct to packers. Most buying orders were unfilled at the close. Packers gave the $14.75 ceiling for nearly all stock eligible.

The supply of sheep and lambs was reduced to 2,000 head, direct shipments included, hardly enough to test the market. Best grades were bought readily at steady prices, mostly $16 to $16.35.

Cattle receipts, at 1,500 head, were bought up at mostly steady prices.

CASH GRAIN PRICES

Estimated receipts of cash grain at Chicago Friday: Wheat, 59 cars; corn, 131; oats, 7; rye, 1; barley, 27; soybeans, 19. Range of cash grain prices per bushel in leading markets:

SOFT COAL MEETINGS CALLED TO CONSIDER PRICE CEILING BOOST

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The OPA said today it will hold a series of meetings with soft coal producers beginning July 23 to determine whether additional price ceiling increases are warranted. Invitations to conferences in Washington are being sent to soft coal industry advisory committees in all 22 producing districts.

The committees will be asked to submit cost figures to show whether earnings meet the minimum standard established by the office of economic stabilization. That standard requires that profit margins be those of 1942 or 15 cents a ton, whichever is larger.

The spokesman said that OPA "expects that some upward adjustments will be necessary." He mentioned the western Pennsylvania district specifically as one where an increase is indicated.

REPORT MOVE ON TO PUT SANTA FE INTO SAINT LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., July 13 (AP)—Negotiations for an entry by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad into St. Louis are virtually complete except for interstate commerce commission approval, Milton Kinsey, president of the board of public service, said following a meeting of Santa Fe officials and city and chamber of commerce leaders today.

Kinsey declared the Santa Fe expects to use the union station and other facilities of the Terminal Railroad association and predicted a substantial increase in carloadings here when the railroad enters St. Louis.

Gerald E. Duffy of Chicago, assistant vice president of the line, and Lee Lyles, Chicago, assistant to the president, have conferred with Kinsey, it was reported at a meeting of Mayor Aloys Kaufmann's labor management committee.

PLAN TO HOUSE ARMY FILES IN ST. LOUIS PLANT

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—An army record headquarters will be established at St. Louis as soon as possible in buildings now used by the small arms plant, Rep. Cochran [D., Mo.] said the war department told him today.

Cochran said the army had indicated it expects to close the small arms plant about Sept. 1, but the contract will not be terminated abruptly and some time will be required after work ceases to dismantle the machinery and remodel the plant. He said he was told there will be about 6,500 employes in the record division at St. Louis and that more may be added later.

WEATHER MAN GIVES RETAIL SALES A BOOST

New York, July 13 (AP)—With a nod from the weather man, retailers did a large business this week despite Saturday department store closings in many cities, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

"Women's summer merchandise continued to move well, with a large volume being sold without markdowns," it said. "Stocks were generally adequate. Men's wear stores, despite limited stocks of better grade shirts and underwear, reported an active turnover."

RAILS, UTILITY STOCKS DIP ON LIGHT SELLING

Wilson at '45 Peak; Armour Gains

New York, July 13 (AP)—Leading rails, industrials, and utilities backed down under light selling on today's stock market and only scattered pivotals were able to override offerings.

Accounts were trimmed in most cases for protection over the long week-end. Belief that additional anti-speculation moves are contemplated by Washington persisted as a handicap. Earnings, dividends, hopes for tax relief, and pressure of idle funds seeking income remained bullish factors.

Trends Waver After Opening

> EXCHANGES CLOSE
> Stock exchanges will be closed today and each Saturday thru Sept. 1.

Transfers were 960,000 shares compared with 970,000 yesterday. The Associated Press 60 stock average was off 0.2 at 66.7. Of 864 issues traded 452 were lower, 224 higher, and 188 unchanged.

Wilson & Co. held an advance of ⅞ at 15⅞, a 1945 peak, and Armour was up ⅜ at 10¼, apparently in response to forecasts of improved prospects for meat packers. Small advances were retained by General Motors, Republic Steel, Sears Roebuck, Dow Chemical, and Eastman Kodak.

BONDS CLOSE LOWER

New York, July 13 (AP)—The bond market closed lower today. Sales totaled $6,650,000 compared with $6,510,000 yesterday.

The rail average declined 0.1. Lower were most Baltimore and Ohio, Rock Island, New Haven, and Frisco liens. Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron 6s, Missouri Pacific convertible 5⅛s, and Morris and Essex 5s also declined.

Among industrials, unchanged on average, Standard Oil [N. J.] 2¾s, Celanese 3½s, and National Dairy 3⅛s advanced fractionally. Bethlehem Steel 3s, and Phillips Petroleum 2¾s were slightly lower.

American Telephone and Telegraph 3s, Commonwealth Edison convertible 3½s, and Consumers Power 3¼s were among utility obligations falling, but Consolidated Edison 3½s and International Telephone and Telegraph rose.

CHICAGO LIST IRREGULAR

Prices were irregular and turnover decreased to 26,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Actively traded were Chicago corporation common, up ¼; Armour and Asbestos Manufacturing, each up ⅛; Commonwealth Edison, unchanged, and Consolidated Biscuit, down ¼.

Weeds Thrive Where Cattle Once Fattened

BY GAIL COMPTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Omaha, Neb., July 13—Weeds are growing tall in the big commercial feedlots of this area which once turned out millions of pounds of beef annually, a survey showed today.

Lots that once held as many as 12,000 steers at a time are idle because commercial feeders no longer find it profitable to continue operations. High feed and labor costs, the high price of feeder cattle, and uncertainty of OPA regulations are blamed for the inactivity.

Altho estimates of the cut in production vary, cattlemen and feeders agree it has been severe and the nation is losing a vast tonnage of beef. One firm which fed more than 30,000 cattle a year has not been in operation since 1942. A firm member said it was not possible for commercial feeders to get a profit from operations today.

Can't Make Money

Wayland Hopley, president of the Iowa Beef Producers' association at Atlantic, Ia., asserted that the lack of margin between feeder and fat cattle precluded any chance of feeders, both commercial and farmers, making any money.

"I am feeding only about 200 head now when I should have five times that many in my lots," Hopley said. "Prices are prohibitive and the inclination of most feeders is to stay out."

In some of the commercial feedlots cattle are being fed. In many instances, however, these animals are owned by chain stores and the majority are destined for chain store meat markets. Commercial feeders have stopped their own operations and are feeding animals for the chain stores on a cost plus basis.

One Feeder Optimistic

One feeder, William Foxley, did express optimism. He said:

"The feeders of this nation are producing an enormous amount of beef, as slaughter records reveal. Many farmers are staying in the feeding game as they find it the best way to market their corn and roughage. Profits are not large and there is considerable risk in the business, but I believe the feedlots of the nation will be full this fall."

Other feeders countered by saying the farmer is getting only about 75 cents for a bushel of corn when he sends it to market in a steer. By selling it in a basket he could get about $1.10 a bushel.

Next year's supply of meat depends to a great extent on how the present corn crop fares, they said. Crop reports have not been optimistic and some feeders believe a short crop would result in a corn freeze such as resulted last year. This caught many feeders with cattle half fat and no chance of getting grain.

SHEET AND STRIP STEEL 'FREEZE' IS RELAXED BY WPB

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—The WPB today relaxed its "freeze" of orders on mills for certain types of sheet and strip steel and authorized them to reopen order books to small manufacturer with low [Z symbol] allotment ratings for the entire current quarter.

In addition books of all producers were reopened for July and August to allow the filling of any openings in production schedules. WPB said it would allow the placing of September orders "as soon as practicable."

In relaxing the freeze WPB explained that because actual production time for sheet and strip is four to six weeks, order books are being reopened to avoid any possible loss of production.

Pere Marquette Advances Train Departure Time

The Pere Marquette railroad yesterday announced that effective Monday it will advance the departure time of its train from Chicago for northern Michigan from 11 a. m. to 8:15 daily, except Sunday. The train will arrive in Petoskey at 9:25 p. m., eastern war time. A corresponding train will leave Petoskey at 9:15 a. m. daily except Sunday and arrive in Chicago at 8:45 p. m. The change is to take care of northern Michigan points which lost Pullman service because of the ODT 450 mile order. The train will serve Charlevoix, Traverse City, and intermediate points.

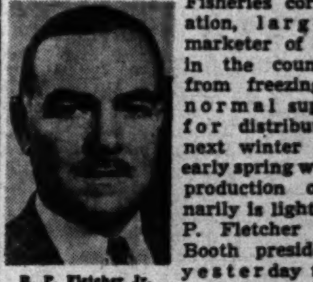
Municipal Financing Drops to 26 Millions

New York, July 13 (AP)—Municipal bonds scheduled for sale next week total $26,382,500, compared with $47,534,000 this week, the Daily Bond Buyer reported today.

HEAVY DEMAND DRAINS WINTER SUPPLY OF FISH

Booth Reports Gain in 1944 Revenue

Heavy demand for fresh fish has prevented the industry and Booth Fisheries corporation, largest marketer of fish in the country, from freezing a normal supply for distribution next winter and early spring when production ordinarily is light. R. P. Fletcher Jr., Booth president, yesterday told stockholders in his annual report.



R. P. Fletcher Jr.
[Moffett Photo]

"During the fiscal year [ended April 28] the company and the industry built up record stocks of frozen and cured fish in the late fall and early winter," said Fletcher. "Heavy consumer demand during the winter, largely brought about by the scarcity of meats for civilians, caused these stocks to liquidate rapidly, leaving subnormal holdings by late spring."

Sardine Pack Is Cut

Booth's pack of sardines at its Lubec, Me., cannery was below normal in the fiscal year. The 1945 pack thus far likewise is low, caused by the lighter production and the small size of sardines caught. Eighty per cent of the Maine pack must be set aside for the government.

Sales and revenues of Booth, which, from its Chicago offices almost 1,100 miles from the ocean, directs the operations of 31 fishery division branches in the principal marketing centers of the United States and Canada, amounted to $24,389,932 in the fiscal year, compared with $22,600,920 a year earlier.

Net earnings were $480,249, after providing $1,176,230 for income and excess profits taxes, against $488,165, which included $49,922 nonrecurring profit from the sale of a trawler and after providing $1,232,740 for taxes. Per share earnings were $5.71 against $5.81.

Frozen Food Demand High

The quick frozen foods division, a relatively new operation of Booth made a "fair contribution" to the company's earnings, Fletcher said. The division has shown substantial growth each year and markets a complete line of packaged quick frozen fruits, vegetables, poultry, meats, fish, and seafoods. The demand for Booth products "greatly exceeds our supply," and no difficulty is expected in disposing of the 1945 pack, he said.

Regarding Booth's public cold storage warehousing division, Fletcher said in the spring of this year the out movement of commodities exceeded the influx and at present some unoccupied space is available. The management does not expect the output of foods for freezing and warehousing in the remainder of this fiscal year to be sufficient to keep Booth warehouses fully occupied.

Truax-Traer Gains

A. H. Truax, president of Truax-Traer Coal company, Chicago, reported net income in the fiscal year ended April 30 was $1,135,166, or $2.28 a share, compared with $1,133,504, or $2.31 on a slightly smaller number of shares outstanding a year earlier. Sales were at a record $12,499,823, against $12,439,261. Production approached 1944's record tonnage, and set a new high in the company's "entirely mechanized" Illinois mines.

MOVE TO PLACE OIL INDUSTRY ON PEACE FOOTING

Washington, D. C., July 13 (AP)—In a move toward a peace time operation basis for the oil industry, the petroleum administration for war removed prohibitions against construction of certain refining, transportation, natural gasoline and special production facilities. The quantity of materials that can be used will be unlimited, provided not more than $25,000 of materials is obtained with priorities assistance. Nor may more than $25,000 be spent for construction of a building because of WPB restrictions.

Use of construction materials and equipment in bulk plants will be permitted if the cost of both does not exceed $40,000. The same change applies to retail outlets, such as service stations, if the cost does not exceed $10,000. Limits had been $5,000 for bulk plants and $1,000 for retail outlets.

PEOPLE AND EVENTS

Miss Emma E. Crandal, who has resigned as chief librarian after 20 years with Universal Oil Products company, was guest last night at a testimonial dinner attended by D. W. Harris, president. Dr. Gustav Egloff, research director, presided. Thru her mastery of Latin, French, German, Spanish, and Russian, she translated and made digests of scientific publications from world petroleum and allied fields. A skilled chemist, she contributed to Chemical Abstracts, publication of the American Chemical society.

Directors of the Ekco Products company have elected Robert D. Burns treasurer to succeed Mortimer Marder, who resigned. Burns formerly was controler and assistant secretary of the company, Chicago producer of kitchen and table ware.

G. R. Andersen has become superintendent of the Chicago and North Western railway car department, succeeding L. R. Wink, who was assigned to other duties.

Directors of the First National Bank of Chicago have elected Harold J. Schluter an assistant cashier.

Col. George E. Gardner has returned to Northwest Airlines as vice president in charge of operations after service with the army air transport command in Europe and Alaska, Croil Hunter, president and general manager, announced. K. R. Ferguson, in charge of operations during Gardner's absence, was made vice president in charge of engineering and post-war planning. Col. W. Fiske Marshall, who organized and directed activities of the South Pacific combat air transport, has been named general operations manager.

Col. John Selzak, chief of the Chicago ordnance district, announced the appointment of Maj. J. A. Roesch as chief of the ammunition branch. Before entering service in July, 1941, Roesch was sales engineer for Steel Sales corporation, Chicago.

E. S. Wellock, manager of Chevrolet Motor division's transmission plant for the last three years, has been appointed assistant general manufacturing manager in charge of Chevrolet's 11 assembly plants.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA

I note that Central of Georgia railway consolidated 5-6s, 1945, have fallen back somewhat after rising from a 1945 low of 53½ to 84. What is the status of these bonds?—A. T.

In recent years increased earnings have improved the prospects of Central of Georgia railway, which is undergoing reorganization in bankruptcy. Altho the outlook that industrial activity in the southeastern states will be larger after than before the war is regarded as promising, it remains to be seen to what extent this railway will be able to maintain the war time improvement in earnings.

The line connects at Birmingham, Ala., with the Illinois Central, which owns all the C. of G. capital stock, no provision for which is made in the pending reorganization plan.

Substantial net losses were reported by the Georgia road each year from 1931 thru 1940, but subsequently all fixed charges have been earned by some margin each year. On the consolidated 5-6s 10 years' interest is in default, after allowance for the payment last December of the coupon due Nov. 1, 1934. The nominal interest rate was raised from 5 to 6 per cent by court order in 1943.

Under the bankruptcy trustee's tentative reorganization proposals, the consolidated 5-6s would receive for each $1,000 bond and accrued interest: $53.84 cash, $156.76 first 4 per cent bonds, $492.63 income 4½s, and 8.59 shares of $5 preferred stock. These amounts were made contingent on an outcome favorable to the consolidated mortgage of certain litigation.
